

The Center for the Study of Europe at Boston University presents:

Neoliberal Political Economy, Subjectivity, and Resilience

A Panel Discussion with Peter Hall, Michèle
Lamont, Vivien Schmidt, and Mark Thatcher

Photo courtesy Vivien Schmidt

Wednesday, April 9, 5 - 7 PM

Boston University
College of Arts & Sciences
725 Commonwealth Avenue
Room B36

Free and Open to the Public

Join us for a panel discussion with Peter Hall and Michèle Lamont, co-editors of Social Resilience in the Neoliberal Era, and Vivien Schmidt and Mark Thatcher, co-editors of Resilient Liberalism in Europe's Political Economy. The four panelists will take up the question of "resilience," both the resilience of neoliberal ideas in policy debates and policy discourse, the theme of Schmidt and Thatcher's book, as well as the resilience of communities, social groups and nations in the face of neoliberal challenges, the theme of Hall and Lamont's book. They hope, by discussing the books together, to highlight the dynamism between ideas and agents, or actors, in political economic life.

Sponsored by the Center for Finance, Law & Policy at Boston University