

ALREADY HOME

a new original musical

Book, Music, and Lyrics by Isa Very Orchestration and Arrangement by Jackson Machesky and Neil Baker

Join me in creating a virtual production of my original musical, Already Home. This is a remote theater and engagement opportunity for any BU student who wants to be involved in a dynamic and innovative creative experience. There are opportunities to act, sing, dance, tech, or produce (marketing, design, etc).

This production will take the form of an online annotated libretto with embedded performances, interviews, and vision statements from the creative team, thus providing an immersive experience for the audience, cast, and crew.

This will not be a normal cast, however. Each person may play multiple roles. Each role may have multiple players. One focus of this process will be on comparing interpretations of the text through performance and engagement with the text.

While the pandemic has created seemingly insurmountable obstacles for performers and artists, my hope is that this project can provide a creative outlet and an opportunity to work with a passionate team in bringing an original work to life in an innovative and unique way.

If you are interested, fill out the interest form linked to the QR code below. Note that if you are interested in a performance opportunity, you will have to submit a song and/or acting placement audition depending on your interest. There is a place for every interested person in this project!

If you have any additional questions, reach out to me at isavery@bu.edu for more information.

Thank you for your interest and let's get started!
