Series I: Educational Material

Scope and Contents of This Series.

Items in this series are divided into two sections: material pertaining to MLK's years as a student (dated 1949- 1955) and items regarding a seminar MLK co-taught at Morehouse College in 1962. The first section consists of a handful of documents from MLK's matriculation at Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia, dated 1947-1948. Considerably more material dates from MLK's graduate studies at Crozer Theological Seminary in Chester, Pennsylvania (dated 1948-1951) and from his doctoral studies at Boston University in Boston, Massachusetts (1951-1955). Material in this series includes: class handouts, including syllabi, bibliographies, and course requirements; class notes; assignments, including some by classmates; examination questions and answers, including blue books; research notes and notecards, many dealing with his dissertation; correspondence related to education matters; printed items, including research for his dissertation; drafts of his dissertation, entitled "A Comparison of the Conceptions of God in the Thinking of Paul Tillich and Henry Nelson Wieman"; a handout and notecards prepared for the Dialectical Society, a social group MLK ran while a student at Boston University; and a group of unidentified school papers, some of which were written by various unidentified individuals. A separate group of items relate to a Seminar in Social Philosophy which MLK co-taught at Morehouse College in 1962. These items include correspondence with Morehouse president Dr. Benjamin Mays regarding the position; a class list, which includes Julian Bond; and a notebook in which MLK handwrote ideas for lectures.

Note on the Arrangement of This Series.

Materials in this series are divided by the schools MLK attended: Morehouse College and Atlanta University; Crozer Theological Seminary and University of Pennsylvania; Boston University and Harvard University; and a small amount of material relative to a course MLK taught at Morehouse College in 1962. Each subseries is further divided by the academic calendar year (i.e., term or semester) and then alphabetically by class title. Material that is related to, but separate from, these classes is listed in subseries consisting of: correspondence; Dialectical Society; notecards; printed material; and unidentified school papers (not all of which are by MLK). There is a small subseries with material relating to the seminar MLK conducted.

Series I: Educational Material

Box 1

I. MLK as Student.

The educational material in this section is arranged by class names as they appear on MLK's transcripts. The items from Crozer Theological Seminary and the University of Pennsylvania are further arranged by year and term within the year. The items from Boston University and Harvard University are arranged by year, then semester, then course name. Under each course, the material is arranged chronologically where it may be ascertained. Syllabi were used to determine the order in which papers were assigned. Otherwise, the order defaults to course material generated by the instructor, class notes, examinations and answers, and term papers. Thanks to the hard work of the staff of the King Papers Project at Stanford University, we were able to arrange these items in this fashion.

Folder 1

A. Morehouse College and Atlanta University, 1944-1948.

1. Annual Institute on Successful Marriage and Family Living, ca. 1948.

Inaugurated in 1946, the Institute on Successful Marriage and Family was held annually at Morehouse College. Each year's program would be built around a theme with guest participants from around the country. The director of the Institute was Walter R. Chivers, Chairman of the Department of Sociology at Morehouse College. He was assisted by his wife, Mrs. Carrie Gartrell Chivers, who served as co-director. Sometime during his studies at Morehouse, MLK likely attended the Institute's annual meeting around 1948. This document is the notes he took during one of the addresses delivered.

- a. "Notes on Marriage," holograph, 1 p., ca. June 1948; written in blue ink on a page torn from a stenographer's notebook.
- b. "Social Institutions," course taught by W. R. Chivers at Atlanta University, Sep. 24, 1947 - Jan. 31, 1948.
 - (i) "Ritual," TS with MLK's holograph corrections and notations on verso in blue ink and pencil and with W. R. Chivers' marginal notes and corrections in pencil, 21 p., ca. January 31, 1948. [In this paper, MLK tries to apply scientific methods to an analysis of ritual in both a religious and social context.]

Box 1 cont'd.

- (ii) Examination questions, mimeograph, 1 p., ca. Jan. 31, 1948.

Folder 2

- B. Crozer Theological Seminary and the University of Pennsylvania, 1948-1951.

Material in this subseries is arranged chronologically by term and then alphabetically by class title. This subseries primarily consists of syllabi, class notes, examinations, handouts, and assignments for various classes in theology and philosophy. One of the most important pieces is the "Autobiography of Religious Development," which MLK turned in for a class entitled "Religious Development of Personality," taught by Professor George Washington Davis.

- 1. Term I: Sep. 14 – Nov. 24, 1948.
 - a. "Introduction to the Old Testament," class taught by Professor James B. Pritchard.
 - (i) "Light on the Old Testament from the Ancient Near East," TS with MLK's occasional holograph corrections in blue ink and marginal notes by James B. Pritchard in red pencil, 22 p., ca. Nov. 1948. [The title page and first three pages of this document are on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
 - (ii) "The Significant Contributions of Jeremiah to Religious Thought," TS with MLK's occasional corrections in blue ink and marginal notes by James B. Pritchard in red pencil, 17 p., ca. Nov. 1948.
 - b. "Orientation for Juniors," class taught by Professor Edwin Ewart Aubrey.
 - (i) Class notes, holograph, 21 p., ca. Nov. 1948; all pages but one are written in pencil, the exception is in blue-green ink.
 - (ii) "Final Examination: Orientation Course," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes, 1 p., Nov. 1948.
 - (iii) "Junior Orientation: Test," CTS with holograph marginal notes including one by MLK, 1 p., Oct. 28, 1949. [Note on the

- date: MLK was enrolled in Aubrey's class during his first trimester at Crozer in 1948. Either this test is dated incorrectly (and should be October 1948) or MLK obtained a copy of a test given by Aubrey during the second trimester.]
- c. "Preaching Ministry of the Church."
- (i) Notes on MEET AMOS AND HOSEA by Rolland Emerson Wolfe, THE IDEALS OF THE PROPHETS by S. R. Driver, THE RELIGIOUS PILGRIMAGE OF ISRAEL by Isaac George Matthews, and THE RELEVANCE OF THE PROPHETS by R. B. Y. Scott, holograph, 13 p.; written in pencil on lined notebook paper.
 - (ii) Notes on Mozart and his first recital, holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on lined notebook paper.

Folder 3

2. Term II: Nov. 30, 1948 – Feb.16, 1949.
- a. "Great Theologians," class taught by George W. Davis.
- (i) "Anselm," holograph, 4 p.; written in black and blue ink on lined notebook paper.
 - (ii) "Karl Barth," holograph, 2 p.; written in pencil on lined notebook paper. [This document contains biographical information on the Swiss theologian Karl Barth.]
 - (iii) "Thomas Aquinas," holograph, 8 p.; written in pencil on lined notebook paper. [This document appears to be a handwritten draft of a paper on Thomas Aquinas.]
 - (iv) Class notes I, holograph, 21 p., ca. Feb. 1949 ; written in pencil and blue ink on lined notebook paper.
 - (v) Class notes II, holograph, 6 p.; written in pencil on lined notebook paper. [The majority of the notes relate to books by Edwin Ewart Aubrey.]
 - (vi) Notecards on Augustine and ON THE TRINITY, holograph on notecards, 29 p. on 20 cards; written in blue ink.
- b. "History and Literature of the New Testament," class taught by Morton Scott Enslin.

Box 1 cont'd.

- (i) "The Ethics of Late Judaism as Evidenced in the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs," TS with holograph marginal notes by Morton Scott Enslin, 18 p.
- c. "Preparation of the Sermon," class taught by Robert E. Keighton.
 - (i) "The Danger in Worshipping Jesus: Sermon Introduction I," holograph draft, incomplete, 1 p.; written in blue ink on lined notebook paper.
 - (ii) "The Danger in Worshipping Jesus: Sermon Introduction II," holograph draft with unattributed drawing on verso, 2 p.
 - (iii) "What is Man?" holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on three hole lined notebook paper.
 - (iv) Class notes, holograph in pencil, 13 p.

Folder 4

- 3. Term III: Feb. 22 – May 6, 1949.
 - a. "Christian Mysticism," class taught by George W. Davis.
 - (i) "What the Mystics Say," TS with holograph annotations by Prof. George W. Davis in pencil, 41 p., Apr. 1949.
 - (ii) Class notes, holograph, 59 p.; written in pencil and blue ink on lined notebook paper.
 - (iii) "Notes on Books on Mysticism," CTS, 2 p.
 - (iv) "Notes on Christian Mysticism," holograph, 17 p.; written in pencil and blue ink on unlined note paper; note paper measures 5-1/2 x 8".
 - (v) "Syllabus: Selected General Bibliography and Course Requirements," mimeograph with holograph marginal notes by MLK and probably Prof. Davis, 7 p.
 - b. "Practice Preaching," class taught by Robert E. Keighton.
 - (i) "Developing a Life-Purpose" (sermon outline), holograph, 2 p.; written in blue ink on lined notebook paper. [This document seems to be a sermon outline possibly written for Robert Keighton's class "Practice Preaching."]
 - (ii) "Is There A God," holograph, 2 p.; written in blue ink on plain white paper. [This document seems to be a sermon note possibly written for Robert Keighton's class "Practice Preaching."]

Box 1 cont'd.

- (iii) "Life-Purpose" (sermon notes), holograph, 2 p.; written in blue ink on two hole lined notebook paper. [This document seems to be sermon notes possibly written for Robert Keighton's class "Practice Preaching." It may be related to the outline "Developing a Life-Purpose" since the opening sentence reads: "An individual must never let his life purpose be thwarted by instrumentalities."]
- (iv) "Signs of an Educated Man," holograph, 2 p.; written in blue ink on lined notebook paper. [This is likely a practice sermon written for Robert Keighton's class "Practice Preaching."]
- (v) "Subject: Divine Nostalgia" and "Life," holograph, 1 p.; written in black ink and pencil on plain white paper. [This document seems to be sermon notes possibly written for Robert Keighton's class "Practice Preaching."]
- (vi) "Subject: Life's Blueprint," holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on plain white paper. [This document seems to be a sermon note possibly written for Robert Keighton's class "Practice Preaching."]
- c. "The Gospels," class taught by Morton Scott Enslin.
 - (i) "Assumptions of Form Criticism," holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on lined notebook paper.
 - (ii) "DOCUMENTS OF THE PRIMITIVE CHURCH -- Torrey," holograph, 5 p.; written in blue ink and on lined notebook paper.
 - (iii) "Easton -- THE GOSPEL BEFORE THE GOSPELS," holograph, 9 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on lined notebook paper.
 - (iv) "FORM CRITICISM -- E. Basil Redlich," holograph, 3 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on lined notebook paper.
 - (v) "OUR TRANSLATED GOSPEL -- Torrey," holograph, 12 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on lined notebook paper. [Notes on the book OUR TRANSLATED GOSPEL by Charles Torrey.]
 - (vi) "Ropes -- THE SYNOPTIC GOSPELS," holograph, 11 p.; written in blue ink on lined notebook paper.
 - (vii) Class notes, holograph, 17 p.; written in blue ink, green pencil and pencil on lined notebook paper.
 - (viii) Notes on form criticism for class assignment, holograph, 7 p.

Box 1 cont'd.

- (ix) "Syllabus: Requirements and Bibliography,"
TS with MLK's holograph notations, 1 p.

Folder 5

- 4. Term I: Sep. 13 – Nov. 23, 1949.
 - a. "Christian Theology for Today," class taught by George W. Davis.
 - (i) "How to Use the Bible in Modern Theological Construction," TS with George W. Davis' holograph notations in pencil, 9 p. [Prof. Davis graded this paper with an A- and commented "I think you should be more pointed in just how you apply progressive revelation to theological construction. Nevertheless you do a good piece of work and show that you have grasped the theological significance of biblical criticism."]
 - (ii) "Six Talks in Outline," TS with George W. Davis' notations in pencil, 20 p., Nov. 1949. [The assignment is to prepare six talks in outline form based on William N. Clark's book AN OUTLINE OF CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY. Prof. Davis assigned this first-term final assignment with a grade of B+ and noted: "Your outlines are clear and progressive. I think you will find them useful. Aim at illustrations from life." The six talks are: 1. The Character of the Christian God; 2. The Nature of Man; 3. Who was Jesus of Nazareth?; 4. What did Jesus Achieve From His Life and Death; 5. How God Works Today Through His Spirit; 6. What Christians Believe about History and the Future. See also: Notes on Paper Topics and Assignments.]
 - (iii) "The Place of Reason and Experience in Finding God," TS with George W. Davis' notations in blue ink, 8 p.
 - (iv) "The Sources of Fundamentalism and Liberalism Considered Historically and Psychologically," TS with George W. Davis' notations in pencil, 9 p. [Prof. Davis assigned a grade of B+ to this assignment and further noted: "You don't do justice to this. Think of what the psychological factors are which lie back of these two movements."]

Box 1 cont'd.

- (v) "What Experiences of Christians Living in the Early Christian Century Led to the Christian Doctrines of the Divine Sonship of Jesus, the Virgin Birth, and the Bodily Resurrection," TS with George W. Davis' notations in pencil, 7 p., Sep. 1949. [Prof. Davis assigned a grade of A- to this assignment, one of the first required for the course.]
- (vi) "Bibliography -- Christian Theology," CTS, incomplete, 24 p. [Note: for the complete 52-page bibliography, see: The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center.]
- (vii) Class notes, holograph, 81 p.; written in blue and black ink and in pencil on lined three-hole notebook paper.
- (viii) Examination answers I, holograph with Prof. Davis' marginal scores in pencil, signed by MLK on verso of last page, 5 p.; written in blue ink on lined three-hole notebook paper and folded vertically. [Despite marginal scoring by George Davis, the exam does not have a letter grade.]
- (ix) Examination answers II, holograph with Davis' penciled scoring in the margins, signed by MLK on verso of last page, 6 p.; written in blue ink on lined three-hole notebook paper and folded vertically. [Despite marginal scoring by George Davis, the exam does not have a letter grade.]
- (x) Examination answers III, holograph with marginal scoring by Davis, signed in pencil by MLK on verso of last page, 4 p.; written in blue ink on lined three-hole notebook paper and folded vertically. [George Davis scored this exam with an A.]
- (xi) Examination answers IV, holograph with Prof. Davis' penciled notations and comments, signed by MLK on verso of last page, 13 p.; written in blue ink on lined three-hole notebook paper and folded vertically [George Davis scored this exam with an 85 or a B.]
- (xii) Notes on paper topics and assignments, holograph with marginal comments in unknown hand on first page, 3 p., written in blue ink on lined three-hole notebook paper. [This document also includes the assignments due at the end of second term. See also:

Box 1 cont'd.

- the papers from Term II: Nov. 1949 – Feb. 1950 in Box 2, Folder 1.]
- b. “Greek Religion,” course taught by Morton Scott Enslin.
 - (i) "A Study of Mithraism," TS with Morton Enslin's holograph notations and corrections in red ink, 18 p.
 - (ii) Class notes, holograph, 40 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on both plain white paper and lined notebook paper.
 - (iii) Notecards, holograph, 6 p. on 3 cards; cards measure 4" x 6". [Notes mostly refer to the legends of Deucalion and Dardanus.]

Box 2Folder 1

- 5. Term II: Nov. 29, 1949 – Feb. 15, 1950.
 - a. “The Development of Christian Ideas” (also known as “The History of Christian Thought”).
 - (i) "A Critical Digest of McGiffert, A. C., A HISTORY OF CHRISTIAN THOUGHT, Volume I," TS with MLK's holograph correction in black ink and with George W. Davis' notations in pencil, 25 p. [Prof. Davis has assigned a grade of A to this assignment with the further comment "Well done."]
 - (ii) “Encyclopaedia of Key Words, Movements and Persons in the History of Christian Thought," TS with George W. Davis' holograph notations and corrections in blue ink, 13 p. [Prof. Davis assigned a grade of B to this assignment.]
 - (iii) "The Influence of the Mystery Religions on Christianity," TS with holograph corrections in black ink (possibly by MLK), 20 p. [Prof. Davis attached his typewritten comments (which are separately listed) and graded the paper with an A. Also, on the verso of the title page, MLK has made notations in pencil, including a telephone number.] [Note: the title page and Prof. Davis' comments are on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
 - (iv) George W. Davis' evaluation of "The Influence of the Mystery Religions on Christianity," TS on 4 x 6" sheet, 1 p. [Note: This document is on display in

Box 2 cont'd.

- the King Room, 3rd Floor of Mugar Library. A scan of the original document has been placed in the collection.]
- (v) "Bibliography and Assignments in the History of Christian Thought," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations in pencil and blue ink (on verso of last page), 5 p. [Although the bibliography covers two courses in "The History of Christian Thought," Courses 171 and 172, MLK was enrolled only in Course 172 as evidenced from his transcript and from the assignments he turned in for the class.]
 - (vi) Examination answers, holograph, signed on verso, with George W. Davis' marginal notations in pencil, 12 p.; written in blue ink on three-hole lined notebook paper, folded vertically and signed on verso of last page by MLK. [Prof. Davis has graded this essay with a score of 97 for a letter grade of A+.]
 - (vii) "Notes from the Ante-Nicene Christian Library."
 - (a) "Irenaeus AGAINST HERESIES, Book IV," holograph, 3 p.; written in blue ink on plain white two-hole punch notebook paper.
 - (b) "The Epistle of Ignatius to the Romans" and "The First Epistle of Clement to Corinthians," holograph, 3 p.; written in blue ink on plain white two-hole punch notebook paper.
 - (c) "The First Apology of Justin" and "The Second Apology of Justin," holograph, 3 p.; written in blue ink on plain white two-hole punch notebook paper.
 - (viii) "Selected Bibliography for Christian Theology."
 - (a) Mimeograph with MLK's notations in blue ink and pencil, including markings on the verso of the last page, 5 p..
 - (b) Mimeograph with holograph annotations in unknown hand, 4 p. [This is a duplicate of the same document on which MLK made annotations.]

Folder 2

- b. "Christian Theology for Today," course taught by George W. Davis.

Box 2 cont'd.

- (i) "A View of the Cross Possessing Biblical and Spiritual Justification," TS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink and George W. Davis' holograph notations on title page in pencil, 7 p. [According to the syllabus, this was the final assignment for the class and MLK's paper received a grade of A from Prof. Davis who also noted "Well done".]
- (ii) "How Modern Christians Should Think of Man," TS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink, with George W. Davis' penciled notations, 8 p. [Prof. Davis has graded the paper with an A and noted "Very well done. You preserve balance throughout."]
- (iii) "The Christian Pertinence of Eschatological Hope," TS with holograph corrections in blue ink (possibly by MLK) and George W. Davis' further corrections and notations, 8 p. [Prof. Davis assigned a grade of A to this assignment.]
- (iv) "The Humanity and Divinity of Jesus," TS with George W. Davis' holograph corrections and notes in pencil, 7 p.; paper is in somewhat fragile condition. [Prof. Davis has graded the paper with a B and notes "A solution which would appeal to the liberal mind." He further presses MLK to take caution with his assignments: "You need to proofread your papers before turning them in. Note corrections on p 4."]
- (v) Class notes, holograph, incomplete, 40 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on lined two-hole and three-hole sheets of notebook paper; these notes begin on page 16 and correspond with the typescript version.
- (vi) Class notes II , TS with MLK's holograph notes and drawings, 28 p. [These notes begin on November 29 and the last date is January 24, but no years are noted. They are more than likely for the class offered in the second term of the academic year 1949-1950, as they reflect similar notes taken by a classmate, Julian Grayson. Nevertheless, on page 10, there is a notation indicating that these notes may have been taken in 1952 with a comment "Syst Theo II" in an unidentified hand. By 1952, Dr. King was pursuing a doctorate at Boston University. During his studies, he did enroll in two courses in

Box 2 cont'd.

- Systemic Theology, but both were held during the 1951-1952 academic year. These notes also correspond with the incomplete holograph version.
- (vii) Examination answers, holograph, signed by MLK, with George W. Davis' penciled marginalia, 9 p.; written in black and blue ink with Davis' pencil notations on lined three-hole notebook paper, folded vertically and signed on verso by MLK. [Prof. Davis scored this assignment with a 94-1/3 for a letter grade of A.]
 - (viii) "Six Talks in Outline based on William Adams Brown's BELIEFS THAT MATTER," TS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink, signed on first page, with George W. Davis holograph notations in pencil also on the first page, 20 p. [This assignment required MLK to prepare outlines for six talks. He chose to prepare them based on William Adams Brown's book BELIEFS THAT MATTER. The six outlines are: 1. What a Christian Should Believe about Himself; 2. How a Christian Overcomes Evil; 3. A Christian View of the World; 4. The Christian Faith in the Immortal Life; 5. What Should the Christian Do about the Bible; 6. What Shall We Think about the Church Professor Davis graded the paper with an A and the comment "Well done".]
- c. "Conduct of Church Services," class taught by Robert E. Keighton.
- (i) "Notes on Baptism," holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on lined three-hole notebook paper.
- d. "Philosophy of History," Jan.-May 1950. [MLK audited this course, taught by Prof. Elizabeth Flower (1915-1995) at the University of Pennsylvania.]
- (i) "Eckhart's Philosophy of History," holograph, 2 p.; written in pencil on lined three-hole punch notebook paper.
 - (ii) "Schlegel's Philosophy of History," TS, 3 p.
 - (iii) Draft of paper on "The Nature of Human History," holograph, incomplete, 6 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper.
 - (iv) Notes, holograph, 44 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on lined two-hole and three-hole notebook paper and on three-hole unlined white notebook paper. [These notes appear to be incomplete.]

Box 2 cont'd.

- (v) Untitled, TS with MLK's holograph notations on verso of last page, 15 p. [This paper was more than likely prepared for Elizabeth Flower's class on the Philosophy of History at the University of Pennsylvania. Because the title page is missing, it is unclear exactly who authored the document. While MLK has made notations of call numbers on the verso of the last page, it is not clear whether or not he wrote the paper, although it clearly draws on topics discussed in the class notes he took. The paper begins: "Kant's contribution to the philosophy of history places him between the 18th and 19th centuries."
- e. "Preaching Problems," class taught by Robert E. Keighton.
 - (i) "Preaching Problems That I Have Encountered," holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on lined two-hole notebook paper.
 - (ii) "Will," holograph, 2 p. [For companion piece "'Will Capitalism Survive?', see: The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc]

Folder 3

- 6. Term III: Feb. 21 – May 5, 1950.
 - a. "The History of Living Religions," class taught by George W. Davis.
 - (i) "A Diagram of Indian Religion," mimeograph with MLK's marginal note "Sikhism" (sic) in pencil, 1 p.
 - (ii) "The Chief Characteristics and Doctrines of Mahayana Buddhism," TS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink and Prof. Davis' comments and corrections in blue pencil, 18 p., Apr. 28, 1950; 1950. [Prof. Davis graded this term paper with an A and the comment "A clear statement".]
 - (iii) Class notes, holograph, 93 p., Feb. 21 – Apr. 28, 1950; written in blue ink and pencil on three hole lined notebook paper and on plain white paper.
 - (iv) Class notes (transcript), TS with MLK's holograph notations, 29 p., Feb. 21 – Apr. 27, 1950. [This document is an incomplete transcription of MLK's holograph notes, with some editing and changes.

Box 2 cont'd.

- The holograph version covers 31 sections while the typescript only covers 27 sections.]
- (v) "Course Assignments First Term," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes in blue ink and pencil, 3 p.
 - (vi) Examination answers, holograph, signed, with Prof. Davis' penciled marginal notes and scoring, 12 p.; written in blue ink on three hole lined notebook paper and folded vertically; MLK signed the exam twice on the verso of pages 10 and 11. [Prof. Davis graded this examination with an 85 or B.]
 - (vii) "List of Five Authors on John Calvin and Martin Luther," Holograph, 1 p.; Written in pencil on three-hole lined notebook paper.
 - (viii) "Reserve List for The History of Religions," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes in blue ink, 5 p.

Folder 4

- b. "Outline History of Christianity," class taught by Raymond J. Bean.
 - (i) "The Outline History of Christianity: I. Imperialism" (syllabus), CTS, 1 p. [Although the class covered two parts (Imperialism and Nationalism), this syllabus covers only the first part of the class "Imperialism: From the Origin of Christianity to the Reformation".]
 - (ii) "Notes on Church History – 3rd Term," TS and CTS, incomplete, 36 p., Feb. 11 - Apr. 19, 1950.
 - (iii) Class notes, holograph, 143 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on three-hole lined notebook paper and on plain white paper.
 - (iv) Note addressed to "Mr. McCall", holograph, 1 p. [Walter R. McCall (1923-1978) attended Crozer Theological Seminary with MLK. Frank Gillingham was a librarian at Crozer Theological Seminary. Presumably, MLK found this note in a book he was using in his research and it somehow got interleaved with his class notes. Note reads: "Mr. McCall, you left this in the library."]
 - (v) "Examination -- Outline of Christianity -- Imperial Period," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes

Box 2 cont'd.

- in blue ink and pencil, 2 p.; the original is on fragile paper which has already crumbled at the edges.
- (vi) Examination answers.
 - (a) Holograph, signed by MLK, with Prof. Bean's grade in red pencil on first page, 9 p.; written in blue ink on three-hole lined notebook paper, folder vertically and signed on verso of last page. [MLK received a letter grade of B+ for this examination.]
 - (b) Holograph, signed by MLK, with Prof. Bean's notations in red pencil, 9 p.; written in green ink on three-hole lined notebook paper, folded vertically and signed on the verso of the last page. [MLK received a grade of B- on this examination.]

Folder 5

- 7. Term I: Sep. 12 - Nov. 22, 1950.
 - a. "American Christianity -- Colonial Period," class taught by Raymond J. Bean.
 - (i) "An Appraisal of the Great Awakening," TS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink and with Prof. Bean's grade of A in pencil on first page, 25 p., Nov. 17, 1950.
 - (ii) "Final Examination for American Church History" (Course 153), mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations, 1 p., Nov. 22, 1950.
 - (iii) Examination answers (to exam above), holograph, signed, with Prof. Bean's notations in pencil, including a grade of A on the first page, 9 p.; written in blue ink on unlined two hole paper and folded vertically; MLK has signed the verso of page 9 as per custom; Prof. Bean has made notations and corrections on the exam in pencil.
 - (iv) Class notes, holograph, incomplete, 71 p.; written in blue and black ink and in pencil on two and three hole lined notebook paper.
 - (v) Quiz answers I, holograph, signed, with Prof. Bean's marginal notations in red pencil, 6 p., Sep. 26, 1950; Written in blue ink on three hole lined notebook paper, folded vertically. [Prof. Bean

- b. "Religious Development of Personality," class taught by George W. Davis.
- (i) "An Autobiography of Religious Development," holograph, signed, with Prof. Davis' marginal comments in a darker blue ink, 16 p.; written in blue ink on two hole lined notebook paper, signed on the title page by MLK. [First four pages on display in King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
- (ii) Book reviews (class assignments) . [One of the assignments of this class was to read five books from the bibliography and prepare a critical reaction. Four of the five papers MLK prepared are in this collection. The whereabouts of the fifth, if extant, is presently unknown.]
- (a) "A FUNCTIONAL APPROACH TO RELIGIOUS EDUCATION by Ernest J. Chave," TS with Prof. Davis' holograph notations, corrections, and comments in both blue ink and in pencil, 5 p.; folded vertically with MLK's name typed on the verso of page 3. [This is clearly the first of the five assignments turned in by MLK as one of Prof. Davis' comments instructs him to include bibliographic details on page one, something which the other three reviews include.]
- (b) "CHILDREN NEED ADULTS, by Ruth Davis Perry, New York, Harper, 1943," TS, signed on verso, with Prof. Davis' holograph comments in blue ink, 3 p.;

- folded vertically and signed on verso of page 2 by MLK.
- (c) "PERSONALITY, ITS STUDY AND HYGEINE, by Winifred V. Richmond, New York, Farrar and Rinehart, 1937," TS with Prof. Davis' holograph notes in blue ink, 4 p.; folded vertically with MLK's name typed on the verso of the last page. [Note: this paper is very fragile and should be handled with care.]
 - (d) "WHEN CHILDREN ASK, Margueritte Harmon Bro. Chicago-New York, Willett, Clark and Co., 1940," TS, signed on verso, with Prof. Davis' holograph notations, 3 p.
 - (iii) Class notes, holograph, 22 p., written in black and blue ink on three hole lined notebook paper and on one sheet of plain white paper.
 - (iv) Course notes and assignments, holograph, 1 p. [These notes outline the dates the class will not meet as well as the assignments which include five book reports and a "religious autobiography".]
 - (v) Final exam questions, holograph, 1 p., Nov. 21, 1950.
 - (vi) Final examination answers, holograph, signed, with Prof. Davis' marginal comments on the verso of the last page, 14 p. Nov. 21, 1950; written in blue ink on two hole lined notebook paper, folded vertically and signed by MLK on the verso of the last page. [The first four pages are fragile from the folding and page 1 is torn on the seam. The pages should be handled with care.]
 - (vii) "Selected Bibliography -- Religious Development of Personality (Course 341)," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations, 3 p.

- 8. Term II: Nov. 28, 1950 - Feb. 15, 1951.
 - a. "Kant," class taken at the University of Pennsylvania and taught by Dr. Paul Schrecker.
 - (i) Class notes, holograph, incomplete, 22 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on two hole and three hole lined notebook paper. [These class notes taken for the

- Philosophy 616 class on Kant at the University of Pennsylvania begin with page 4.]
- (ii) Draft of an essay on Kant, holograph, incomplete, 1 p.; written in dark blue and light blue ink on two hole lined notebook paper.
 - (iii) Midyear examination, mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations, 1 p., Jan. 24, 1951.
 - (iv) Notes on AN INTERPRETATION OF KANT by Norman Kemp Smith and AN INTRODUCTION TO KANT by A. D. Lindsay, holograph, 5 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper.
 - (v) Six notes on midyear examination, holograph, 1 p.; written in dark blue ink on white three hole lined notebook paper. [The six notes cover what will and will not be covered by the midyear exam and the format for the exam (answer three questions out of seven).]
 - (vi) Study questions, holograph, 1 p.; written in light blue ink on greenish two hole lined notebook paper.
- b. "Philosophy of Religion," class taught by George W. Davis.
- (i) "A Conception and Impression of Religion from Dr. W. K. Wright's Book Entitled A STUDENT'S PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION," TS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink and Prof. Davis' comments and corrections in blue pencil, 10 p., Dec. 19, 1950. [Note: the paper on which this document was typed is fragile and the original should be handled as little as possible.]
 - (ii) "The Definition of Religion," mimeograph, 5 p. [This handout includes definitions of "religion" from thirty-three authors quoting from their works. However, there are a few errors in the text: on page 2, Davis refers to G. W. Stratton when he means George Malcolm Stratton; and on page 3, he refers to Lyman Abbott's book as THE EVOLUTION OF RELIGION when the published title was THE EVOLUTION OF CHRISTIANITY.]
 - (iii) "The Origin of Religion in the Race" [sic], TS with MLK's holograph corrections in black ink and Prof. Davis' holograph comments in red ink, 15 p., Feb. 9, 1950. [MLK received a grade of A on this assignment with Prof. Davis noting "Thoughtful, critical analysis."]

- (iv) "The Philosophy of Religion and Advanced Philosophy of Religion (Courses 243 and 244): Bibliography and Reserve Books," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations, 4 p. [This document covers the bibliography and course assignments for two courses spread out over two trimesters. "The Philosophy of Religion" (Course 243) met during the second trimester from Nov. 1950 through Feb. 1951. "Advanced Philosophy of Religion" (Course 244) met during the third trimester from February to May 1951. The papers relating to the former are in Box 3, Folder 1, while the latter are located in Box 3, Folder 2.]
- (v) Class notes, holograph, 65 p.; written in blue ink on both three hole and two hole lined notebook paper.
- (vi) Examination answers, holograph with Davis' holograph notations, 14 p.

- 9. Term III: Feb. 20 – May 4, 1951.
 - a. "Advanced Philosophy of Religion," class taught by George W. Davis. [For class assignments and a bibliography, see "The Philosophy of Religion" (Course 243) taught during the second trimester, Nov. 1950 to Feb. 1951.]
 - (i) "A Conception and Impression of Religion Drawn from Dr. Brightman's Book Entitled A PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION" [sic], holograph, signed, with Prof. Davis' pencil notations on title page, 21 p.; written in black ink on three hole lined notebook paper, signed on the title page by MLK, Mar. 28, 1950. [MLK received a grade of A and the note "Well done" from Prof. Davis on the title page.]
 - (ii) "Religion's Answer to the Problem of Evil," TS with Prof Davis' holograph notations and corrections, 20 p., Apr. 27, 1951. [Davis has written on the title page: "A- Well done." It is of interest that MLK alludes to James Russell Lowell's poem "The Present Crisis" by indirectly quoting from it on the first paragraph of the paper. "If we look through the pages of history what do we find?

Box 3 cont'd.

Jesus on a cross and Caesar in a [palace]; truth on the scaffold and wrong on the throne; the just suffering and the unjust prosper." Contrast that with Lowell: "Careless seems the great Avenger; history's pages but record/One death-grapple in the darkness 'twixt old systems and the Word;/Truth forever on the scaffold, Wrong forever on the throne,—/Yet that scaffold sways the future, and, behind the dim unknown,/Standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above his own."

- (iii) Class notes, holograph, 70 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on three hole lined notebook paper.
- (iv) Study questions, holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on three hole lined notebook paper. [The lower right hand corner of the page is torn.]

- b. "Christianity and Society," class taught by Kenneth L. Smith.
 - (i) Class notes, holograph, 44 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on three hole lined notebook paper.
 - (ii) Study questions, holograph, 2 p.; written in pencil on three hole lined notebook paper.
 - (iii) Class presentations. [As a requirement of the course, each student was to prepare a paper for presentation in class. The presentation was to last for 45 minutes and was drawn from selected topics indicated on the syllabus. At the time of the oral presentation, the student was expected to distribute a two-page summary to each member of the class. The papers listed are from this class. The author has been identified where possible, but most are without attribution. It is unclear which of these was MLK's contribution to the class but evidence points to the essay called "War and Pacifism". Note: because the order in which these student presentations were delivered is unknown, the papers have been arranged alphabetically by title. It is entirely possible that the presentation coincides with the topics discussed in the class, but the syllabus does not make it clear if that is the case or if they were presented as summaries at the end of the class.]

Box 3 cont'd.

- (a) "A Critical Study of Capitolism [sic] in the Light of Modern Christianity," mimeograph with holograph corrections in unknown hand in blue ink, 2 p. [The title of the paper has been corrected to read "A Critical Study of Capitalism in the Light of Christianity." MLK had written marginal comments which were later crossed out.]
- (b) "Christianity and Democracy," mimeograph, with holograph notation in pencil in unknown hand in upper left corner "King", 2 p.
- (c) "Church and Labor Movement," mimeograph with MLK's holograph corrections and notations, 3 p. [On the verso of the first page, MLK has jotted various notes in pencil and blue ink, including a quote incorrectly attributed to "Bernice and Beatrice Webb", the notation "my car is suppose to come next week" and three lines in French.]
- (d) "Church and State Relationship," TS with holograph corrections in unknown hand in pencil and MLK's correction in blue ink, 3 p.
- (e) "Family Problems in Western Culture," CTS, 5 p.
- (f) "Individual Freedom and Planning," mimeograph, 2 p.
- (g) "Religious Liberty under Law in the United States," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes on verso, 4 p. [On the verso of this two-page document, MLK has written ten numbered notes regarding the topic of religious liberty.]
- (h) "The Christian Response to the State," mimeograph with MLK's holograph note on verso, 3 p. [On the verso of the second page, MLK has written in pencil "He copied that paper verbatim from the book I gave him."]
- (i) "The Contribution of Religion to Social Work," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes, 2 p.

Box 3 cont'd.

- (j) "The Ethical Implications of the Atomic Bomb," mimeograph with holograph corrections in unknown hand, 2 p.
- (k) "The United Nations -- Possibilities and Realities of World Government," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations in French on verso of last page, 3 p.
- (l) "War and Pacifism," CTS with MLK's holograph notations, 3 p. [Some scholars have concluded that MLK is the author of this paper and there is internal evidence to suggest that he may be; for example, mention of personalities that King admires such as A. J. Muste and Gandhi, and the fact that the bibliography is written in MLK's hand on the bottom of the second page. Note: the original is on very fragile carbon paper and should be handled sparingly.]
- (iv) Syllabus, mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes in blue ink and pencil, 4 p. [On the verso of page 3, MLK has jotted notes in pencil for a paper or presentation that makes reference to contemporary astronomers and their discoveries.]

C. Boston University and Harvard University, 1951-1955.

This subseries contains: syllabi; class notes; examination questions and answers; and class assignments on philosophy, religion and logic, as well as on dissertation writing. Also present are the required qualifying examinations which MLK had to pass before writing his dissertation, as well as research notes and drafts of his dissertations. Material in this subseries is arranged chronologically by semester, then alphabetically by class title.

- 1. First semester, Sep. 13, 1951 – Jan. 15, 1952.
 - a. "Directed Study in Systematic Theology on Karl Barth, Sep. 1951 – Jan. 1952. [For his first directed study in

Box 4 cont'd.

Systematic Theology, MLK explored the life and works of Karl Barth (1886-1968).]

- (i) "Karl Barth's Conception of God," TS with MLK's holograph corrections and Prof. L. Harold DeWolfe's notations, 15 p., Jan. 2, 1952. [MLK received a grade of A on this paper, which was written for a directed study on Karl Barth. On page 12, Prof. DeWolfe notes his interest in the contrast between Lenin and Hegel. On page 10, there is a holograph note in the upper right hand corner identifying the paper in an unknown hand. MLK has misdated the paper on the first page as Jan. 2, 1951, and it has been corrected to 1952 in pencil in an unknown hand.]
 - (ii) "Proposed Calendar of Study with Interest in the Theology of Karl Barth," Oct. 17, 1951 - Jan. 8, 1958; holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on three hole paper torn from a notebook.
 - (iii) "Notes on Barth and the Hungarian Church," TS, 1 p.
- b. "Formal Logic."
- (i) Examination answers, holograph, signed, with David Scarrow's holograph notations in red, 3 p., ca. Oct. 1951. [MLK received a grade of 68 for a C on this examination. Note: original is fragile and sheathed in polyester. Document should be handled minimally.]
 - (ii) Notes, holograph, 2 p. in blue book. [There are notes in pencil on the last page and inside back cover that appear to correlate to this class' final examination. It appears MLK was working out the logical relations before writing up the final examination answers.]
 - (iii) "Philosophy."
 - (a) Holograph, signed, 4 p.
 - (b) Holograph, signed, with Prof. David S. Scarrow's marginal comments in red pencil, 6 p. [MLK received a grade of D on this assignment.]
 - (iv) Examination questions.
 - (a) Mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations in pencil, 1 p., ca. Oct. 1951. [In Envelope 1. Note: original is in very fragile condition and should be handled sparingly.]

Box 4 cont'd.

- (b) Mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations in pencil, 1 p., ca. Nov. 19, 1951. [In Envelope 2. Note: original is very fragile and should not be handled unless absolutely necessary.]
- (c) Holograph, signed and dated, with marginal notations by David Scarrow, 7 p., ca. Nov. 19, 1951. [In Envelope 3. MLK received a grade of C+/F on this examination. Note: The original is very fragile and should be handled sparingly.]
- (v) Exercises. [In Envelope 4 except where noted.]
 - (a) "Exercise 60," holograph, signed, with Prof. Scarrow's holograph notations in ink, 3 p.; written in pencil on lined, three-hole notebook paper.
 - (b) Holograph, 1 p.; written in pencil on white paper. [MLK answered questions 5, 9, 13 and 17 on this exercise.]
 - (c) Holograph, 2 p.; written in pencil on lined, three-hole paper.
 - (d) Holograph, signed, 4 p.; written in pencil on three-hole green paper torn from a spiral notebook.
 - (e) Holograph, signed, with David Scarrow's holograph notations in red pencil, 4 p.; written in pencil on lined three-hole green paper torn from spiral notebook. [MLK received a grade of 70/C on this assignment.]
 - (f) Holograph, signed, with David Scarrow's holograph notation in red, 1 p.; written ink and pencil on lined three-hole green paper torn from spiral notebook.
 - (g) Holograph, 1 p.; written in pencil and blue ink on lined three-hole green paper torn from a spiral-bound notebook.
 - (h) Holograph, 2 p.; written in pencil on lined three-hole green paper torn from a spiral-bound notebook.
 - (i) Holograph, 2 p.; written in pencil on lined three-hole green paper torn from a spiral-bound notebook.

Box 4 cont'd.

- (j) Holograph, 2 p. [MLK only answered three of the six questions.]
- (k) Holograph, 3 p.; written in pencil on lined three-hole green paper torn from a spiral-bound notebook.
- (l) Holograph, 2 p.; written in red and black pencil on plain white paper. [Edges of paper are frayed.]
- (m) "Exercise 7," holograph, 1 p.; written in pencil on lined two-hole notebook paper.
- (n) Holograph, signed, with Scarrow's holograph notations in red and blue pencil, 6 p.; written in pencil on lined three-hole green paper torn from spiral notebook. [In Envelope 5. MLK received a score of 72 and a grade of C on this assignment.]
- (vi) Final examination, mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations in pencil, 2 p., Jan. 11, 1952. [In Envelope 5.]

Folder 2

- (vii) Class notes, holograph, 32 p.; written in blue ink and pencil on three-hole green paper in spiral-bound notebook with brown cover. [The class title, "Formal Logic, CLA PH-201" had been affixed to the front cover with scotch tape but has now come loose.]

Folder 3

- c. "Personalism."
 - (i) Syllabus and bibliography, mimeograph with holograph notes, 13 p., Sep. 13, 1951 - Jan. 8, 1952. [There are notes on the verso of the last page. Pages 9-12 have been placed in an acid-free envelope for preservation purposes.]
 - (ii) Examination answers.
 - (a) Holograph, signed, with Prof. DeWolf's holograph annotations in pencil and blue ink, 9 p. in one blue book, Oct. 16, 1951; written in blue ink. [MLK received a grade of 92 on this examination. DeWolf added the comment "Good!"]

Box 4 cont'd.

- (b) Holograph, signed, with Prof. DeWolf's holograph annotations, 9 p., Nov. 15, 1951; written in blue ink in a blue book. [MLK received a grade of 97 on this exam and DeWolfe added "Excellent." Note: This item is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Memorial Library.]
- (c) Final examination answers, holograph, signed, with Harold DeWolf's holograph annotations, 14 p. in two blue books, Jan. 1952.
- (iii) "The Personalism of J. M. E. McTaggart Under Criticism," TS with MLK's holograph corrections and with Harold DeWolf's holograph annotations, 17 p., Dec. 4, 1951. [MLK received a grade of A on this assignment and Prof. DeWolf added the notation "Excellent, incisive criticism. A superior paper." Note: title page on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
- (iv) Class notes, holograph, 80 p.; written in pencil and blue ink. [In his notes, MLK has misspelled the name of the Quaker preacher John Woolman as John Wolman. Note: this notebook is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
- d. "Philosophy of Religion."
 - (i) Requirements, "Question Syllabus," and selected bibliography, mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes, 13 p.
 - (ii) "Principles for All Four Home Quizzes," mimeograph, 1 p.
 - (iii) Home quizzes.
 - (a) "Home Quiz I," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations, 1 p., Sep. 27, 1951.
 - (b) "Home Quiz II," mimeograph, 1 p., Oct. 18, 1951.
 - (c) "Home Quiz III," mimeograph, 1 p., Nov. 13, 1951.
 - (iv) "A Comparison and Evaluation of the Views Set Forth in J. M. E. McTaggart's SOME DOGMAS OF RELIGION with Those Set Forth by Edgar S. Brightman in His Course on Philosophy of Religion," TS with E. S. Brightman's holograph notations and comments, 12 p., Oct. 25, 1951. [MLK received a score of 89 for a grade of B+.

Box 4 cont'd.

- Brightman commented on the bibliography to "see manual".]
- (v) ALS to Edgar S. Brightman, 2 p., with Brightman's unsigned holograph response, [Dec. 6, 1951]. [MLK explains that the typist made numerous errors in his final paper and that he attempted to correct them but that he did not have the funds to have the paper retyped. He hopes that Brightman will consider this when grading the paper. Brightman replies that he will take the matter into account.]
 - (vi) "A Comparison and Evaluation of the Philosophical Views set forth in J. M. E. McTaggart's SOME DOGMAS OF RELIGION, and William E. Hocking's THE MEANING OF GOD IN HUMAN EXPERIENCE with Those Set Forth in Edgar S. Brightman's Course on Philosophy of Religion," TS with MLK's holograph corrections and Brightman's holograph notations and marginal comments, 19 p. [MLK received a grade of A on this paper.]
 - (vii) Final examination, Jan. 9, 1952.
 - (a) Test, mimeograph, 1 p.
 - (b) Answers, holograph, signed, with Edgar S. Brightman's holograph marginal comments in red ink, 17 p. in two blue books. [MLK received a grade of 92 on this examination.]

Folder 4

- (vii) Class notes.
 - (a) Holograph, 15 p., Sep. 18, 1951- Dec. 1951; written in blue ink and pencil in spiral-bound notebook with three-hole lined green paper. [MLK has outlined his paper on McTaggart and Brightman on the next to last two pages in the book.]

Folder 5

- e. "Seminar in Systematic Theology." [According to the course outline, the focus of this seminar is "Contemporary American Theology."]
 - (i) Syllabus, mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes, 2 p. [In Envelope 1. Note: original is in very fragile condition. A scanned copy has been put into the collection. The original should be handled sparingly.]

- (ii) "Contemporary Continental Theology," TS, with holograph notation by L. Harold DeWolf on title page, 25 p. [This paper was probably written for extra credit. It is unclear whether or not it was written for the "Seminar in Systematic Theology" or, as it touches upon Barth, whether it was written for the "Directed Study in Systematic Theology."]
- (iii) "A List of the Most Important Theological Journals [Published] in German Language," CTS with MLK's holograph annotations, 2 p. [In Envelope 2.]
- (iv) Student oral and written presentations for class. [As part of the requirements of the class, each student was to make a formal presentation on a particular journal or work of reference. Although the syllabus lists only twelve items, there are seventeen presentations among the class papers. MLK appears to have prepared and presented on The Crozer Quarterly.]
 - (a) UNIVERSAL JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA, CTS, 1 p., Oct. 3, 1951. [The original is in very fragile condition with worn, frayed edges.]
 - (b) ENCYCLOPEDIA OF RELIGION AND ETHICS, mimeograph with MLK's holograph annotations, 1 p., Oct. 10, 1951. [In Envelope 3.]
 - (c) Religion in Life, mimeograph, 1 p., Oct. 17, 1951.

- (q) Ferm, Vergilius Ture Anselm; mimeograph, 1 p. [This presentation cannot be tied to those delivered during the time that MLK took DeWolf's class. It is possible that it was a handout to use as a guide for preparing class presentations or that MLK acquired it from a student who had previously taken the course.]
- (r) "Søren Kierkegaard's Influence on Reinhold Niebuhr," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations, 3 p., n.d. [This paper may have been used by MLK for reference while preparing his paper on Niebuhr's ethical dualism. Its authorship is unknown.]
- (s) Robert Lowry Calhoun; mimeograph with MLK's holograph notes, 1 p. [Paper was presented to class by Wayman McLaughlin.]
- (iv) Notes on Reinhold Niebuhr, holograph, 13 p.; written in blue ink on three-hole lined paper torn from a spiral-bound notebook. [At the top of the page, MLK has written "Man, Nature and Revelation" by W. R. Taylor but there is nothing in the notes that apply to that particular article. These are notes specifically about Reinhold Niebuhr and may have been used in preparing his term paper "Reinhold Niebuhr's Ethical Dualism".]
- (v) "Reinhold Niebuhr's Ethical Dualism," TS with MLK's holograph corrections and additions to the bibliography and DeWolf's holograph comments and notations, 16 p., May 9, 1952. [MLK received a grade of A- on this assignment.]

 - (iii) Final examination answers, holograph, signed, with Harold DeWolf's holograph comments, 15 p. in two blue books, Jan. 1953; written in blue-green ink. [On the rear inside cover of the first blue book, MLK has written "grife grief", testing the spelling for the word he used in the answer to the fourth question of the examination. The word is crossed out and the word "grief" is gone over heavily in ink. MLK received a score of 94 on this examination and an overall grade of A- for the semester.]
- f. "Seminar in Philosophy: Hegel." [Edgar Sheffield Brightman died during the semester and the class was finished by Peter Bertocci.]
- (i) Reports by R. C. Godwin, Seminar Secretary.
 - (a) "Session 1: Hegel," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations, 1 p., Sep. 24, 1952.
 - (b) "Session 2: Life, Writings, Influence of Hegel," mimeograph, 1 p., Oct. 1, 1952.

semester of 1953. It is possible that the instructor misdated the document or that she reused the same document without changing the date. Note: edges of document are very frayed and it should be handled sparingly.]

- (ii) Class assignments.
 - (a) Report II: sample bibliography; TS with MLK's holograph notation, 1 p. (incomplete). [This page is the last (page 10) of MLK's draft of the bibliography to his dissertation. It is likely this was the version prepared for class and later amended.]
 - (b) Report III: title page and outline, Mar. 1953. [Note: see also the stand-alone notebook that contains notes for several classes, including this one.]
 - (1) Notes on contents, holograph, 7 p. [While MLK only used two sheets of paper, he folded them in half and used each quarter for making notes.]
 - (2) "I. A Comparison of Wieman and Tillich" (draft of table of contents)," holograph, 1 p.; written on notebook paper in pencil. [Possibly the first draft of the contents.]
 - (3) Contents, TS with MLK's penciled corrections and Jannette E. Newhall's holograph notations in red pencil, including on the verso of the last page, 4 p. [This may be the second draft of the final version of the contents.]
 - (4) Contents, TS with MLK's holograph notes in pencil and red pencil, 2 p. (incomplete). [This draft consists only of pages 2 and 4 and may be part of the third draft.]
 - (5) "I. Wieman's Conception of God" (draft of table of contents), holograph, 1 p.; written in blue ink on lined notebook paper. [This may be the third draft of the table of contents; it's unclear whether or not MLK presented this in class.]

Box 6 cont'd.

- (6) "I. The Question of Methodology in Tillich and Wieman" (draft of table of contents), holograph, 1 p.; written in pencil on lined notebook paper. [It has been surmised by scholars that this may have been the fifth draft of the contents.]
- (7) Contents, CTS with MLK's extensive holograph corrections and notations in pencil, and blue ink, 3 p. [In Envelope 1. The document is fragile, with page one especially fragile.]
- (8) Contents, CTS with Jannette E. Newhall's holograph notations and comments in red pencil, 3 p.
- (c) Report V: draft of one or more chapters, Apr. 1953. [This assignment includes a title page, the table of contents and at least one chapter of 20 pages or more in length.]
 - (1) "1. Statement of Purpose," holograph, 3 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper. [In Envelope 2. Note: the edges of the pages are fragile.]
 - (2) Chapter draft, holograph, 29 p. [In Envelope 3. Draft of what will become Chapter III in the final dissertation. Written for Jannette Newhall's class's final project.]
 - (3) Title page, CTS, 1 p.
 - (4) Contents, TS with MLK's holograph notations and corrections, 5 p. [MLK has made the corrections in pencil and blue ink. There are notes on the verso of the last page.]
 - (5) "1. Statement of Problem," TS with Jannette E. Newhall's holograph corrections and notations in pencil, 3 p.
 - (6) "Chapter I: Tillich's Conception of God," TS with MLK's holograph corrections and Jannette E. Newhall's annotations, both in pencil, 25 p.

Box 6 cont'd.

[MLK submitted this as part of his final project for the class, so he wrote "Chapter I," which Newhall corrected to "Chapter III" to reflect his dissertation table of contents.]

 - (b) CTS, 11 p.

Box 9

- D. Note cards. [This collection of note cards includes bibliographic citations and research for MLK's dissertation, as well as notes on sermon topics.]
 - 1. Bibliographic citations; entries on the cards are either typed or written in blue or black ink. [These cards are arranged alphabetically by the author of the work being cited. It is likely that some of these 3 x 5" note cards were created to fulfill the requirements of the first assignment for the class "Thesis and Dissertation Writing". The first report due was to create sample bibliography note cards or index slips (20 items) that would be used in the student's dissertation. Several of the citations ended up in the final version of MLK's thesis.]
 - a. Baillie, John; TS, 1 card.
 - b. Ballie, D. M.; holograph, 1 card.
 - c. Bernhardt, William H.; holograph, 1 card.
 - d. Calhoun, Robert L.; holograph, 1 card.
 - e. Stanley, C. L.; holograph, 1 card.
 - f. Thomas, George F.; holograph, 1 card.
 - g. Tillich, Paul; holograph, 7 cards, and typescript, 7 cards. [One card containing the citation for the article "What is wrong with Dialectical Theology" has writing on the verso in pencil which MLK has crossed out.]
 - h. Wieman, Henry Nelson; holograph, 13 cards, and TS, 2 cards.
 - 2. Dissertation research. [These note cards are arranged alphabetically by the surname of the individual whose works are being cited. Many of the notes related to Henry Nelson Wieman and Paul Tillich appear in the final version of MLK's dissertation.]

Box 9 cont'd.

- a. Dewey, John; holograph, with writing on recto and verso, 1 card. [Title on card reads: "Varying Conceptions of God in Theistic Naturalism".]
- b. Incomplete notes; holograph, 21 note cards with 6 with writing on recto and verso. [4 note cards measure 3 x 5"; 17 measure 4 x 6". All attempts have been made to match the note cards and these do not appear to match with any of the others listed. The numbering on these cards would seem to indicate that they are part of a larger set (most are labeled "3" or "5"), although some contain complete thoughts and quotations.]
- c. Tillich, Paul; holograph, 106 note cards with 70 with writing on recto and verso; most written in blue or black ink, about six cards written in pencil; the majority of the cards have writing on both the verso and the recto. [Unless otherwise indicated, the topics are on one note card. Most measure 4 x 6" and some have writing on both the recto and the verso.] Topics listed include:
 - (i) "Arguments for the Existence of God or the non-existence of God."
 - (ii) "Arguments for God."
 - (iii) "Creative Activity of God."
 - (iv) "Criticism of Tillich's God."

3. Sermons; holograph; written in pencil and blue ink; one card is 3 x 5", the other seven measure 4 x 6". [Cards are arranged alphabetically by title of sermon. There are two cards that contain only titles and one that has a Bible verse and citations. Additionally there are three outlines for sermons.]
- a. "A Knock at Midnight," 1 card. [MLK first preached a sermon with this title on Sep. 14, 1958 to Youth Sunday Services of the Women's Auxiliary of the National Baptist Convention.]
 - b. "Practical Atheism," 1 card.
 - d. "The Bigness of God," 3 cards. [This appears to be a sermon outline that MLK may have prepared during his time in Boston (1951-1954).]
 - e. Titles, 2 cards. [MLK has written "The Predicament of Modern Man" and "The Task of the Ministry" as possible titles for sermons. He did not use either for any of his speeches or sermons.]
- E. Dialectical Society (Boston).
- 1. Note cards.
 - a. Notecard on Plato's Theory of Ideas; holograph in pencil on 4 x 6" index card. [On verso is list of names of those attending the meeting in blue ink in MLK's hand. 1. Davis, George W.
 - a. CTL to George W. Davis, 1 p., Dec. 1, 1953.
 - b. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Dec. 7, 1953.

2. DeWolf, L. Harold.
 - a. CTL to L. Harold DeWolf, 1 p., May 15, 1954.
 - b. ANS to MLK, 1 p., Dec. 30, 1953. [DeWolf is returning MLK's qualifying examinations, which he took in the fall of 1953. It is unclear, however, which of the examinations he is attaching. DeWolf mentions that he and Schilling (the second reader) had to meet to confer since their "evaluations" did not match.]

3. Dillenberger, John.
 - a. CTL to John Dillenberger, 1 p., Dec. 1, 1953. [MLK sent out a series of letters to prominent divinity schools, inquiring if any students had written dissertations on a topic that was similar to the one he had chosen.]
 - b. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Dec. 11, 1953.

4. Enslin, Morton Scott. ALS to MLK, 2 p., Oct 26, 1951. [Enslin writes in response to MLK inquiry about The Crozer Quarterly. King had written to Enslin for the information for the class Seminar in Systematic Theology taught by Harold DeWolf in the fall of 1951. See also: materials from the class "Seminar in Systematic Theology" in the first semester of MLK's attendance at Boston University.]

5. King, Martin Luther, Jr.
 - a. TL draft to Hugh Watt, 1 p., Nov. 5, 1950. [Draft of letter to Hugh Watt at the University of Edinburgh. MLK writes to request an application and a catalogue for the Divinity School of the University of Edinburgh.]
 - b. Holograph draft of letter to Sankey Blanton, 1 p.; written in pencil on lined three-hole green notebook paper; n.d. [ca. Jan. 1951].

2. Academic (unidentified).
 - a. "The Adjustment Inventory (Adult Form)," pamphlet, 4 p. [The test was copyrighted in 1938; MLK may have obtained it during his time at Crozer Theological Seminary.]
 - b. "Pressey Interest-Aptitude Tests," pamphlet, 4 p. [The test was copyrighted in 1933. MLK may have obtained this copy while at either Morehouse College or Crozer Theological Seminary.]
 - c. "Department of Philosophy: Regulations for Majors in Philosophy in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences," mimeograph with MLK's holograph notations on the verso of the last page, 4 p., July 1, 1950. [The university or college to which this document applies remains unidentified. It definitely is not from Boston University. The notations on the verso of the last page appear to be library call numbers.]

Folder 2

- G. Unidentified school papers. [While every effort has been made to match up papers and notes to the classes MLK attended at Crozer Theological Seminary and at Boston University, it is not clearly evident for which of his classes the following papers were written. Compounding the problem is that MLK retained the Crozer requirement of folding papers and signing his name on the verso during his first months at Boston University. Where possible, we have offered suggestions as to which school and class the document may belong, partly drawing on the excellent research work of the staff at the King Papers Project at Stanford University.]
 1. "Subjects in Major Field," holograph, 2 p., ca. 1951. [This appears to be an outline of the courses MLK planned to take while a graduate student at Boston University. It varies from his final transcript and does not include the classes he attended at Harvard University.]
 2. "Micah," 3 p.; written in blue ink on 3 x 5" slips of paper. [For additional note cards on the topic of Micah (and on related topics) see the Research Notes housed at The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]

13. "The Purpose of Education," holograph, signed, 4 p. ["The Purpose of Education" is dated to MLK's studies at Crozer Theological Seminary due to the unique vertical fold and MLK's signature on page 4. The title is drawn from an article published in Morehouse College's Maroon Tiger, Jan. – Feb. 1947. In the paper, which may have been written for one of his public speaking classes, MLK refers to the previous week's assignment which discussed "the purpose of religion". See "The Purpose of Religion" in The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center.]
14. "The Total Significance of the Titles Lord and Messiah," TS, signed, with holograph comments in red pencil by unidentified professor, 5 p. [This paper is attributed to Crozer Theological Seminary due to the unique vertical fold and MLK's signature on page 5.]
15. Class notes on "The Christian Stream," holograph, 6 p.; written in blue ink on lined three hole notebook paper. [Possibly written for the class "Outline History of Christianity". The notes begin: "The Constant Elements in the Christian Stream which have flowed from the beginning."]

Series II: Writings by Martin Luther King, Jr.

Scope and Contents for This Series:

This grouping consists of various versions of articles, speeches, sermons and books by MLK, including holograph drafts, as well as typescript and carbon typescript drafts. Items related to STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM, MLK's book about the Montgomery Bus Boycott, are particularly rich and include editorial correspondence, including letters from Hermione Popper who helped MLK shape the manuscript; drafts of the book in various forms from outline to dummy pages; photographs and captions; and designs for the book jacket. There is also a grouping of professional correspondence, including letters from MLK's agents, publishers (Harper & Brothers), and reviewers. There are general letters from fans of the book and those who received author's inscribed copies, including Dwight D. Eisenhower, Earl Warren, Richard M. Nixon, and Reinhold Niebuhr. The drafts for STRENGTH TO LOVE, MLK's book of sermons published in 1963, are arranged by chapter and contain handwritten drafts, typescript and carbon typescript drafts and photocopies with corrections returned from his publisher Harper & Brothers. Interfiled with original manuscripts are published copies of articles, speeches and sermons by MLK. For bound volumes, see the book catalog.

Note on the Arrangement of This Series:

This series is arranged into six subseries: articles; books; sermons; speeches; miscellaneous; and fragments. All series are arranged alphabetically by title except for the fragments which are listed by the first sentence. Published versions of articles, sermons and speeches are interfiled with the drafts.

Folder 4

I. Articles (Printed and Manuscript).

Note: the printed material in this series section contains the printed version of material that carried MLK's by-line, including newspaper clippings of his "People in Action" column published in New York Amsterdam News; various versions of chapters from STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM published in 1958; sermons that were reproduced for general distribution; speeches that were copied and prepared for the press, including "The Montgomery Story" (1956); "The Future of Integration" (1959); and "I Have a Dream" (1963); as well as a transcript of the broadcast "The Nation's Future" (1960) and related correspondence. Manuscripts are arranged chronologically by date of composition.

A. 1956.

1. "Our Struggle," in Liberation magazine, vol. 1, no. 2, Apr. 1956.
 - a. Magazine, 20 p.; article appears on pages 3-6 and is followed by Bayard Rustin's article entitled "Montgomery Diary" (pages 7-10).
 - b. Reprint, 4 p. (3 copies).
2. "Walk for Freedom," in Fellowship magazine, 32 p., May 1956; article appears on pages 5-7. [Cover photograph is of MLK speaking to a crowd after his home was bombed. Included is an article by Allan Knight Chalmers, with whom MLK was acquainted at Boston University.]
3. "Alabama's Bus Boycott: What It's All About?" in U.S. News & World Report magazine, 116 p., Aug. 1956; article begins on page 82 and continues on pp. 87-89. [It is a reprint of MLK's speech "The Montgomery Story" that was delivered at the NAACP annual convention in San Francisco on June 27, 1956. The magazine also published a rebuttal article by Grover C. Hall, Jr., editor of The Montgomery Advertiser, on pp. 83-87.]

Box 10 cont'd.

4. "We Are Still Walking," in Liberation magazine, magazine, 19 p. (4 copies), Dec. 1956; article appears on pp. 6-9. [This issue is a tribute to the one-year anniversary of the Montgomery Bus Boycott. Included are tributes from Eleanor Roosevelt, Ralph J. Bunche, Roy Wilkins, Harry Emerson Fosdick, A. Philip Randolph, John Haynes Holmes, and Z. K. Matthews and articles by E. D. Nixon, Harvey Dinnerstein and Burt Silverman.]

B. 1957.

1. "Nonviolence and Racial Justice," in The Christian Century, tear sheets, 3 p., Feb. 6, 1957. [This article is partially based on the speech entitled "Facing the Challenge of a New Age". MLK utilized some of the ideas outlined in this article in Chapter VI of his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM. Originally, chapter VI was titled "Non-violence Takes Shape" but in the final version of the book it was called "Pilgrimage to Non-violence". MLK also used "Nonviolence and Racial Justice" as a title for a speech delivered at the Friends General Conference on June 27, 1958. Additional copies of this article may be found in The Papers of Martin Luther King, Jr. 1929-1968 at the King Library and Archives housed at The King Center in Atlanta, Ga. and in the Fellowship of Reconciliation Papers, 1943-1973, Swarthmore College Peace Collection, Swarthmore, Penn.]
2. "Facing the Challenge of a New Age," in Phylon, tear sheets, 10 p., Apr. 1957. [Excerpt of address delivered at the First Annual Institute on Non-Violence and Social Change, Montgomery, Alabama, Dec. 1956 and was republished in Phylon: The Atlanta University Review of Race and Culture. This speech was a later revised as "This Is a Great Time to Be Alive" and "The Future of Integration".]
3. "A View of the Dawn," in Interracial Review: A Journal for Christian Democracy, magazine, 71 p., May 1957; article is on pp. 82-85. [This article is an edited version of MLK's speech entitled "This is a Great Time to Be Alive" delivered upon receiving the 1957 Social Justice Award of the Religion and Labor Foundation, Inc. For an additional copy of this article, consult The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]

C. 1958.

1. "The Christian Way of Life in Human Relations," holograph, 12 p., draft written in pencil on white paper, ca. Jan.-Feb. 1958. [In Envelope 1. This is an incomplete draft of the article which appeared in a slightly varied form throughout 1958 under different titles in different publications. This draft was likely written for Presbyterian Life. It is a slightly altered version of the article "Out of Segregation's Long Night" which itself was a reworking of the article "Nonviolence and Racial Justice" which appeared in The Christian Century on Feb. 6, 1957. MLK also delivered it as a speech at the General Assembly of the National Council of Churches on Dec. 4, 1957. He would use some of the same themes and ideas in Chapter VI ("Pilgrimage to Non-violence") in his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]
2. "Out of Segregation's Long Night: An Interpretation of a Racial Crisis," in The Churchman, tear sheets, 2 p., Feb. 1958. [This article was adapted from "Nonviolence and Racial Justice" which appeared in The Christian Century on Feb. 6, 1957. MLK would use some of the same themes and ideas in Chapter VI ("Pilgrimage to Non-violence") in his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]
3. "Non-Violence: The Christian Way in Human Relations," in Presbyterian Life, Feb. 8, 1958.
 - a. Magazine, 32 p. (2 copies); article appears on pp. 11-13. [This is a slightly altered version of the article "Out of Segregation's Long Night" and is a reworking of the article "Nonviolence and Racial Justice" which appeared in The Christian Century on Feb. 6, 1957. MLK would use some of the same themes and ideas in Chapter VI ("Pilgrimage to Non-violence") in his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]
 - b. Tear sheets, 3 p.
4. "Out of the Long Night of Segregation," in Advance, tear sheets, 3 p., Feb. 28, 1958. [This is a slightly altered version of the article "Out of the Long Night of Segregation" that appeared in The Churchman and "Non-Violence: The Christian Way in Human Relations" in Presbyterian Life. All were originally based on "Nonviolence and Racial Justice" which was published in The Christian Century on Feb. 6, 1957. MLK would use some of the same themes and ideas in Chapter VI ("Pilgrimage to Non-violence") in his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]

5. "The Current Crisis in Race Relations," in New South, magazine, 16 p. (3 copies), Mar. 1958; article appears on pp. 8-12. [This is a reprint of "Non-Violence: The Christian Way in Human Relations" from Presbyterian Life. The article is a revision of "Out of Segregation's Long Night" which was based on "Nonviolence and Racial Justice". MLK would use some of the same themes and ideas in Chapter VI ("Pilgrimage to Non-violence") in his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]
6. "Who Speaks for the South?" and "Comment by Dave Dellinger," in Liberation magazine, tear sheets, with holograph notation "to H[ermione]. Popper" in red ink on second sheet, 5 p., Mar. 1958. [This article is adapted from MLK's address delivered at the Launching of the SCLC Crusade for Citizenship at Greater Bethel AME Church on Feb. 12, 1958. Note: "Dave Dellinger's Comment" is incomplete.]
7. "The Power of Non-Violence," in The Intercollegian, magazine, with holograph notation "to Hermione" in unidentified hand on eighth page, 24 p., May 1958; article appears on pp. 8 and 9. [This is a slightly altered version of "Out of Segregation's Long Night" which was based on the article "Nonviolence and Racial Justice". MLK would use some of the same themes and ideas in Chapter VI ("Pilgrimage to Non-violence") in his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]
8. "An Experiment in Love," in Jubilee: A Magazine of the Church and Her People, Vol. 6, No. 5.
 - a. Magazine, incomplete, 48 p. (pp. 17 and 18 are missing), Sep. 1958; article is on pp. 10-16. [This is a slightly altered version of "Out of Segregation's Long Night" which was based on the article "Nonviolence and Racial Justice". MLK would use some of the same themes and ideas in Chapter VI ("Pilgrimage to Non-violence") of his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]

Box 10 cont'd.

- E. 1960.
 - 1. "The Great Debate: Is Violence Necessary to Combat Injustice? For the Negative: King Sees Alternative in Mass Actions," in The Southern Patriot, vol. 18, no. 1, newsletter, 4 p. (2 copies), Jan. 1960; MLK's article is a reprint from Liberation found on page 3. [The Southern Patriot staged a debate in print between Robert F. Williams of Monroe, North Carolina, and MLK. Williams opposed MLK's nonviolent stance and proposed that the only way for African Americans to achieve parity in the United States was by embracing violence. MLK maintained that nonviolence was the best policy.]
 - 2. "Suffering and Faith," holograph, 6 p., ca. Mar.-Apr. 1960. [Draft of article that appeared in The Christian Century on Apr. 27, 1960.]
 - 3. "Pilgrimage to Nonviolence," in The Christian Century, vol. 77, no. 15, magazine, 24 p., Apr. 13, 1960; article is on pp. 439-441. II. Books (Manuscripts). [Material in this subseries is arranged chronologically by publication of the book. The material relating to STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM is fairly comprehensive and includes manuscript drafts, editorial correspondence related to the creation of the manuscript, promotional material, fan letters, professional correspondence, material related to the sales of the book, manuscripts of reviews, and printed reviews.]

- A. STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM: THE MONTGOMERY STORY (New York: Harper, 1958). [Material related to STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM includes holograph drafts of the outline and the manuscript, typescript and carbon typescript copies of the drafts, correspondence from various individuals offering corrections and suggestions on the book, most notably from Hermine Popper who was hired by MLK's publisher Harper & Row to assist him in his work, and items for the final published work, including photographic captions, book jacket designs and a final version of the manuscript. The subseries also contains professional material, including correspondence and drafts of reviews; general correspondence, mostly fan mail or thank you letters for inscribed copies; promotional material including correspondence, blurbs, and press releases; financial material relative to the book's sales; and clipping of reviews. For additional materials on this publication, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]

1. Manuscript drafts and correspondence relating to the drafts. [This section includes all correspondence relative to the manuscript of STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM. Often, MLK would send drafts of chapters to Marie Rodell, his agent; Eugene Exman, his editor at Harper & Row; Hermine Popper, a freelance editor hired by Harper & Row; and others (including Bayard Rustin, George Kelsey and Lawrence Reddick, to name a few). MLK would solicit their input and then take under advisement their suggested changes.]

a. Outline, ca. winter-spring 1957.

- (i) Holograph with corrections by MLK, 23 p., incomplete; written in pencil on unlined paper except for last page which is written in blue ink; the first page of the holograph outline is not extant. [According to MLK's schedule for 1957, he was scheduled to begin working on the book's outline from Jan. 4-6. He finally signed a contract with Harper & Brothers in the fall of 1957 and in Mar. 1958, the publisher assigned a freelance editor, Hermine I. Popper, to work with him on the manuscript.]

[The chapter headings for the first draft of the book are as follows: Chapter I: "Montgomery Before the Protest" which would discuss MLK's concern for social problems and the theological and philosophical view that lead to this concern; social and political action at Dexter Baptist Church; his work with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Alabama Council on Human Relations; and the social plight of African Americans in Montgomery, Alabama, specifically on the buses. Chapter II. "Decisive Arrest" which would discuss Rosa Parks' refusal to give up her seat on the bus and the background on the beginning of the bus boycott. Chapter III. "The Day of Days, Dec. 5" which would discuss the first day of the boycott; the organizing of the Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA) to represent the needs and concerns of the black community regarding riding the buses; MLK's election as its president; and the first mass meeting. Chapter IV. "Getting the Movement Off the Ground" which would discuss developing committees for the MIA; the transportation system; and the early frustrations of the movement. Chapter V. "Methods of the Opposition" which would discuss negotiations with city and bus officials including the mayor; conquering divisions within the community; physical violence (bombings); and arrests, convictions and trials. Chapter VI. "Non-Violence Takes Shape" which would discuss MLK's theological and philosophical journey to discovering nonviolence as a method to combat racial oppression. Chapter VII. "Friends Indeed" which would discuss the financial and moral support from the churches and the black community in Montgomery and from outside the city. Chapter VIII. "Family in Siege" which would discuss threats against MLK and his family; bombings of their home; and the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to strike down bus segregation. Chapter IX. "Desegregation at Last" which would discuss further the Supreme Court's decision; reaction to that decision of both whites and blacks; and the integration of buses in Montgomery. Chapter X. "Pilgrimage to Ghana and Washington" which would discuss MLK's trip to Ghana and what he learned, as well as the worldwide attention on the Montgomery bus boycott and the discovery of the struggle for freedom outside the United States. (Note: it is believed that MLK never wrote this chapter as no existing copies have been discovered.) Chapter XII. "Where Do We Go From Here?" which would discuss the aftermath of the court's decision including an analysis of the present-day racial crisis; working with white southerners; the role of blacks; and the continuance of the usefulness of the methods of nonviolence in other areas of racial oppression.]

- b. Drafts of the first five chapters, ca. spring-summer 1957. [Chapter X, which according to MLK's outline would deal with his trip to Ghana and the 1957 Prayer Pilgrimage in Washington, D.C., is not part of this collection. Whether or not MLK actually drafted that chapter is unclear; it is possible that the chapter is not extant. MLK began outlining the book in early Jan. 1957. According to his schedule for the year, he started writing the book in mid-Jan. through Mar., taking a break in Apr. to fulfil speaking engagements. He then spent the summer finishing up the first draft of the book. His secretary, Maude L. Ballou, typed the first draft up in the fall and MLK sent chapters out to his editor at Harper & Brothers and to his agent Marie Rodell.]
- (i) "I. Montgomery Before the Protest," holograph, incomplete, 72 p. [Page 73 is missing; MLK began what became Chapter IV on page 74. In this chapter, King discusses his travel and arrival in Montgomery, Alabama. He describes the economic history of Montgomery and its effects on the black community; why he chose the pastor position at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church; the committees he formed at the church; and the social apathy of the black community. He states that "for the vast majority of the masses of people, segregation was accepted without the slightest protest" (p. 51). He spends the rest of the chapter discussing Reverend Vernon Johns, the pastor that preceded him, E. D. Nixon, and the bus conditions. In the published version of the book, this chapter is split into two and becomes the first two chapters.]

- (ii) “II. The Decisive Arrest,” holograph, incomplete, 42 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper. [There are places in the holograph draft where MLK has left a blank section to fill in with quotations. Chapter two describes the history of how the bus boycott began. On Dec., 1, 1955, Mrs. Rosa Parks, a seamstress at the Montgomery Fair, boarded the Cleveland Avenue Bus in downtown Montgomery, Alabama. Mrs. Parks sat down in the first seat behind the section reserved for whites. The bus driver ordered Mrs. Parks and three other passengers to move back in order to seat white passengers. Mrs. Parks quietly refused to move, resulting in her arrest. MLK points out that the white community assumed that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was behind Mrs. Parks' refusal to give up her seat because she was an active member of that organization. However, she made the decision independent of her affiliation with the NAACP. MLK then discusses how ministers and grassroots civil rights activists in Montgomery came together to launch the boycott as a method of repudiating the system of segregation on public buses. In the final version, chapter two will become chapter three.]
- (iii) “III. The Day of Days, Dec. 5,” holograph, 50 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper. [Chapter three furthers the discussion of the boycott, including details of the first day, the creation of the Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA), the mass meeting where it was voted to continue the boycott, and MLK's excitement at the black community's commitment to demand not only equal treatment on the buses but also as full citizens. In the final version, this is chapter four.]

- (iv) “IV. Getting the Movement Off the Ground,” holograph, with holograph corrections by Maude Ballou, incomplete, 34 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper. [Even though the first page is

- numbered 74, it is the first page of this chapter. Throughout the chapter draft, MLK has left blank spaces where he means to list members of the Montgomery Improvement Association and others involved with the movement. MLK describes the decision to create committees within the Montgomery Improvement Association to help run the bus boycott, and offers personality assessments of several prominent individuals. Additionally, he discusses the difficulties of sustaining the boycott.]
- (v) “[V. Methods of the Opposition],” holograph, incomplete, 33 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper. [This version of chapter V begins midsentence and the pagination starts with 86. It is unclear exactly how many pages are missing. In the final version, this material is part of chapter VII. MLK describes the aftermath of the bombing of his house; his concern for his wife and daughter's safety; Martin Luther King, Sr.'s fear for his son's safety; and the arrest, trial, and conviction of several boycotters. In this draft, MLK also describes how despite the use of violence and the corrupt judiciary system, he and other African-American citizens of Montgomery were determined to continue the bus boycott.]

- d. "VI. Non-Violence Takes Shape," draft, holograph, 111 p.; written in pencil and red ink on plain white paper; ca. May 1957 – May 1958. [See also: this series -- Articles (Printed and Manuscript) – 1958, for the various versions of this chapter. Note: the first four pages of this document are on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library. [MLK cites works from the philosophers who influenced his construction of nonviolence as a social action to fight racism in Montgomery. Among those whom MLK cited as influences are: Walter Rauschenbush; Aristotle; Henry David Thoreau; Plato; George Wilhelm Friedrich; Jean-Jacques Rousseau; John Locke; Karl Marx; John Mills Stuart; Jeremy Bentham; Thomas Hobbes; and Friedrich Nietzsche. On page 61 in the first paragraph, MLK incorrectly credits Nietzsche for writing LEVIATHAN, although in the middle of the page he corrects it to Thomas Hobbes (the actual author). He indicates his belief that this method of nonviolence would prove to influence whites who were proponents of segregation in Montgomery, Alabama. This chapter also is a partial reworking of the article "Nonviolence and Racial Justice" which was published in The Christian Century on Feb. 6, 1957.

MLK subsequently rewrote and published the article under various titles throughout 1958 both before and after the publication of STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]

- e. "IX. Desegregation Takes Shape," holograph and mimeograph, 72 p.; written in pencil and red ink on plain white paper; ca. May 1957 – May 1958. [Following page 21, MLK inserted a mimeograph copy of a statement that was delivered on Nov. 14, 1956 following the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court. MLK discusses the U.S. Supreme Court's decision of Nov. 13, 1956 that ended segregation on the Montgomery buses; the continued violence; the trials of suspected bombers; and the black community voting to end the bus boycott.]

the notation "Dictated, but not personally signed by Dr. King." [MLK encloses rough drafts of "Non-Violence Takes Shape" and "Desegregation at Last." The chapter "Non-Violence Takes Shape" is not complete but MLK sent it along for editorial input. King writes that he expects to complete the chapter during Mar.. He also indicates that the end of the chapter is an expansion of an article he previously wrote on his philosophy of nonviolence. The article was entitled "Non-Violence and Racial Justice" and was published in The Christian Century on Feb. 6, 1957.]

- (b) MLK. CTL to Marie Rodell, with postscript, 1 p., Feb. 20, 1958; letter carries the notation "Dictated, but not personally signed by Dr. King." [King wants Rodell to make suggestions and comments on "Non-Violence Takes Shape" and "Desegregation at Last." He stated that when he returns from California, he will devote the month of Mar. to writing the remainder of the book.]
- (c) MLK CTL to Bayard Rustin, with postscript, 1 p., Feb. 20, 1958; letter carries the notation "Dictated, but not personally signed by Dr. King." [King wants Rustin to make suggestions and comments on "Non-Violence Takes Shape". He also stated that the last part of the chapter is an expansion of an article written on the meaning of philosophy of non-violence ("Non-Violence and Racial Justice" in The Christian Century, Feb. 6, 1957).]
- (d) MLK. CTL to Harris Wofford, with postscript, 1 p., Feb. 20, 1958. [MLK enclosed the chapter "Non-Violence Takes Shape" and asked for Wofford's comments. In a postscript, King also notes that he is in possession of a manuscript by Wofford, but has yet to look it over for comment as he was too busy completing work on STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM.]

- (e) Exman, Eugene. TLS to MLK, 2 p., Feb. 26, 1958. [Exman writes that he is pleased with MLK's progress in producing an entire draft. Exman goes on to mention an "editorial council" that was held at which Hermine Popper agreed to work with MLK as an editorial associate and not as a ghostwriter. In addition, Exman, Melvin Arnold and Elizabeth Lawrence will be reading drafts and offering comments.]
- (f) Rodell, Marie F. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Feb. 26, 1958. [Marie F. Rodell writes to King to let him know that she, Exman, Arnold and Lawrence have gone over Popper's editing notes of the chapters and discussed further ideas. Rodell stated that this conference will take place once a week until the book is completed so that he can get a joint editorial report.]
- (ii) "Non-Violence Takes Shape."
 - (a) Draft, TS with MLK's holograph corrections in black ink, 55 p. [This chapter was sent to Eugene Exman, Marie Rodell, and Bayard Rustin. The final 11 pages are in a slightly different format suggesting that they were completed at a later date. For a description of the content, see above.]
 - (b) Draft, CTS with holograph corrections and notations in pencil in unidentified hand, including notations on the verso of the last page, 24 p. [This is one of two chapters sent separately to Eugene Exman and Marie Rodell on Feb. 20, 1958. MLK also sent this chapter to Bayard Rustin on Feb. 20, 1958.]
- (iii) "Desegregation at Last," draft, TS and CTS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink and editorial comments in unknown hand in pencil, 34 p. [King sent this chapter separately to Eugene Exman and Marie Rodell. The last nine pages are carbon typescript. For a description of the content, see above.]
- h. Exman, Eugene. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Mar. 7, 1958. [Exman writes encouraging MLK to continue his progress on the

- i. MLK. Letters (CTL) to Eugene Exman and Marie Rodell, 1 p. each, Mar. 10, 1958. [MLK sends Exman and Rodell the chapter entitled "Non-Violence." In addition, he writes that another chapter will follow in eight or ten days. (That manuscript not in the collection.)]
 - j. MLK. CTL to Bayard Rustin, 1 p., Mar. 10, 1958.; Letter carries notation: "Dictated by Dr. King but not read". [MLK sends Bayard Rustin the chapter entitled "Non-Violence" and asks for Rustin's assistance in defining non-violence versus non-resistance to evil. (Manuscript not in collection.)]
 - k. Arnold, Melvin. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Mar. 11, 1958, with enclosure; includes:
 - (i) Popper, Hermine. Memo to Eugene Exman, TS, unsigned, 1 p., Mar. 11, 1958. [Hermine Popper states that she has revised the first five chapters of King's manuscript, dividing the first and fifth chapters into two parts. In the draft she sent to Exman, she has attached notes and suggestions lettered to correspond to the letters in the left-hand margin of the text. Many suggestions concern additional materials such as: descriptions, facts, and anecdotes. Popper also states that the remaining two chapters originally numbered six and nine are both incomplete and that she cannot proceed until she has a complete draft.]
 - l. Popper, Hermine. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Mar. 21, 1958. [At Marie Rodell's suggestion, Hermine Popper writes to MLK explaining her approach to editing his manuscript. Note: This document is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
 - m. Rodell, Marie F. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Mar. 21, 1958. [In this letter, Marie Rodell explains to King why the first five chapters have been divided into seven chapters. She includes both an original and a retyped revised draft for easier reading. She also states that chapters six and nine are not included. The titles have changed to: "Chapter one-Montgomery Before the Protest describes King's pastorate and the conditions of African Americans in Montgomery and the racial climate amongst African Americans and whites. Chapter three-The Decisive Arrest describes the arrest of Mrs. Rosa Parks, the galvanizing of the African American community to boycott the buses for one day because of Parks' arrest and the treatment of African Americans on the buses. Chapter four-The Day of Days, Dec. 5 describes the one day boycott. Because of the success of the one day boycott, the African American community voted to continue it until changes were made by the bus system. Chapter five-The Movement Gathers Momentum describes the beginning of the movement, providing a structure for the movement by establishing the Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA). King became the President of the organization and leader of the boycott movement. Chapter six-Methods of the Opposition describes the meetings between the Mayor, commissioner, and bus representatives to discuss the treatment of African Americans on the bus. Chapter seven-The Violence of Desperate Men describes the racial incidents that took place during the bus boycott. King's home was bombed. There was an unsuccessful second attempt. Some other homes and churches were bombed. King receiving threatening phone calls." Note: chapter one is missing in the retyped version.] Includes:

- v. "Chap. VIII. Family in Seige," drafts.
- (i) Holograph, 44 p.; written in pencil and red ink on plain white paper. [MLK wrote the first 25 pages and had them typed up (into a nine-page manuscript) to present to the editorial board at Harper & Brothers at a conference on Mar. 26. After the conference, he completed this manuscript (pages 26-44), incorporating CSK's version of her life and adding details of his own family. He sent the completed revision to Hermine Popper on Apr. 1. Note that on page 26 there is a notation "page 10" which corresponds with the draft sent to Popper and the copy retained by MLK. MLK discusses how his family was affected by violence during the bus boycott.]
- (ii) Untitled fragment for inclusion in chapter; holograph, incomplete, 6 p. [CSK drafted this section about her family, which MLK later incorporated into the chapter. (See letter to Hermine Popper dated Apr. 1). CSK was the middle child of three children. Her older sister was Edythe Scott

Box 14 cont'd.

Arthur Bagley and her younger brother was Obadiah "Obie" Leonard Scott. CSK provides the history of her family, which was originally intended for inclusion in MLK's Chapter VIII, "Family in Siege" (or "Family Under Siege"). In the published edition, the material was incorporated in Chapter I, "Return to the South" and Chapter VIII, "Violence of Desperate Men". CSK writes of her parents' concern for the King family's welfare and safety because of threats of violence and the bombing of their home. Despite the danger, she informs her father that her place is with her husband.]

- (iii) CTS, 9 p. (2 copies). [This manuscript reflects the first 25 pages of the holograph draft in MLK's hand. Most likely, this was completed sometime between Mar. 21 and Mar. 26 (as evidenced in the correspondence) and presented to the editorial board at the conference held at Harper & Brothers in New York City on Mar. 26. After receiving input from Hermine Popper and the other members at the conference, MLK wrote the remainder of the chapter, incorporating information from CSK's untitled draft and adding elements about his own family and background. That draft was completed before the end of Mar. and sent to Hermine Popper for her input on Apr. 1.]

- w. Popper, Hermine. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Mar. 27, 1958. [Popper suggests that King focus on completing the first draft of the manuscript and then work on revisions of chapters. Within the letter, Popper offers suggestions as to how she, MLK and Lawrence Reddick can divide up what remains to be done: MLK: Finish first draft, and then work on revisions that only he can do. Reddick: provide background stories; extrapolate new materials from the first seven chapters; and read the manuscript when finished to make sure that there are no important omissions, imbalances or inaccuracies. Popper explains in the letter that Joan Daves changed her mind and now agrees with her suggestion. Popper: continue editing material as it arrives; and shifting material from completed drafts around to make better sense of the story. She also suggests visiting Montgomery on Apr. 2 to work out a schedule for specific

- responsibilities. Copies of this letter were sent to Eugene Exman and Joan Daves.]
- x. Daves, Joan. TLS to MLK, with holograph postscript, 1 p., Mar. 28, 1958. [Joan Daves writes that she had reconsidered her position about Lawrence Reddick reading the entire manuscript. She lets MLK know that Reddick should read the manuscript to check the various revisions for imbalances or inaccuracies.]
 - y. MLK. CTL to Lewis Wade Jones, 1 p., Mar. 29, 1958. [MLK states that Lawrence Reddick suggested that he send Jones and Dr. Charles Gomillion, both professors of Sociology at Tuskegee Institute, each a copy of one of his chapters.]
 - z. MLK. CTL to Hermine Popper, 1 p., Mar. 31, 1958. [MLK encloses the last part of Chapter IX, "Desegregation at Last". He writes that "Family in Siege" and "Friends Indeed" are almost finished and Dr. Lawrence Reddick is working on Chapter X, "Montgomery at Last". King estimates that Popper should have the drafts by Apr. 2 or 3. Since Popper was visiting King on Apr. 3, he asked about whether to keep the chapter drafts until she arrived in Montgomery or to send them to New York. The manuscript was returned to MLK with Popper's correction on Apr. 11.]
 - aa. MLK. CTL to George D. Kelsey, with postscript, 1 p., Mar. 31, 1958. [MLK enclosed a copy of a draft of Chapter VI ("Non-Violence Takes Shape") and asks for Kelsey's reaction. See Kelsey's response of Apr. 4 for returned manuscript. MLK encloses a very rough draft of Chapter VI, "Non-Violence Takes Shape." He asks Kelsey to make comments and suggestions on this chapter, specifically on King's intellectual pilgrimage to nonviolence which begins on page 163 and the theoretical meaning of the philosophy of nonviolence which begins on page 177.]
 - bb. "Notes from Dr. Reddick to Dr. King on the Book," CTS, 3 p. (2 copies), n.d. (ca. early Apr. 1958). [For an additional copy of this document, see The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]
 - cc. MLK. CTL to Hermine Popper, 1 p., Apr. 1, 1958; with enclosure. [MLK indicates that since much of this material will be incorporated elsewhere in the book, he merely

- provided descriptions of his and Coretta Scott King's families.] Includes:
- (i) "VIII. Family in Siege," draft, CTS with MLK's holograph corrections and the notation "Popper" in the upper left corner, 16 p. [This draft consists of the first 9 pages (see Mar. 26) and MLK's 7 pages of additional material detailing both his and CSK's family backgrounds.]
- dd. Levison, Stanley. TLS to MLK, 4 p., Apr. 1, 1958. [Levison offers a detailed criticism of "Where Do We Go From Here?" the last chapter in STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM. Note: this document is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
- ee. Levison, Stanley. TL to MLK, 2 p., Apr. 1, 1958; with enclosures. [At Bayard Rustin's request, Levison encloses material that Rustin prepared in response to MLK's chapter on nonviolence. Levison explains Rustin's positions and informs MLK that under separate cover (see the other letter dated Apr. 1, 1958) that he was outlining his own impressions about the chapter. Note: this document is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.] Includes:
- (i) "More on Non-Violence 1," holograph in pencil, 3 p.
 - (ii) "More Material on Non-Violence 2," holograph in pencil, 2 p.
 - (iii) "More on Non-Violence 3: The Meaning of Love Thy Enemy," holograph in pencil, 6 p.
- ff. "VIII. Family in Siege," draft, TS with MLK's holograph corrections and the notation "King" in the upper left corner, 16 p. [This draft consists of the first 9 pages (see Mar. 26) and MLK's 7 pages of additional material detailing both his and CSK's family backgrounds.]
- gg. Kelsey, George D. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Apr. 4, 1958, with enclosure. [Kelsey applauds MLK on writing the book and makes suggestions and edits in the margins of the chapter in red. He stresses that King emphasize that the movement was Christian in motivation and substance. Kelsey writes that Christian love remained on the "ground floor" while Gandhi furnished the techniques, including the operational principles. Kelsey also found MLK's description of his inner struggles and his involvement with the movement excellent.] Includes:

Box 14 cont'd.

- (i) “Non-Violence Takes Shape,” CTS with Kelsey's holograph corrections in red and MLK's holograph corrections, 38 p. [In the published edition, material from this draft of Chapter VI appears in Chapters I, V, VI, and IX. The chapter title changes to "Pilgrimage to Non-Violence" and it specifically discusses MLK's intellectual journey to nonviolence. Even though the title has changed, it remains chapter VI in the final version. This draft is numbered 146-182. Kelsey inserts edits for page 173. There are some edits by MLK.]
- hh. Popper, Hermine. TLS to MLK, with two postscripts, 1 p., Apr. 8, 1958. [Hermine Popper writes that she has enclosed draft corrections for chapter I, Return to the South. She explains that chapter IV is the responsibility of MLK and Lawrence Reddick. In addition, she would mail chapters V, VI, and VII in a couple of days. (Manuscript accompanying this letter not part of the collection.)]
- ii. Popper, Hermine. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Apr. 9, 1958, with enclosure. [Hermine Popper encloses inserts for Chapters Five and Six. She writes that Chapter Seven "The Violence of Desperate Men" will follow the next day. She is skipping Chapter Eight "Nonviolence Takes Shape" until King presents a draft. Chapter Nine "Desegregation at Last" will go out that Thursday or Friday.] Includes:
 - (i) Inserts for Chapters V and VI; TS with holograph notations, 3 p. [Two of these pages have been replaced with photocopies.]
- jj. Popper, Hermine. TLS to MLK, 1 p., “Friday afternoon” [Apr. 11, 1958], with enclosures. [Popper encloses revisions and inserts for Chapter Seven "The Violence of Desperate Men" and a revised draft of Chapter Nine "Desegregation at Last". Her letter is dated "Friday afternoon" but from internal evidence, the date can be verified as Apr. 11, 1958. Popper also mentions arrangements for MLK's upcoming visit to her home in Connecticut.] Includes:
 - (i) AN to MLK, 1 p., with enclosure; includes:
 - (a) “IX. Desegregation at Last,” TS with Hermine Popper's notations, comments and corrections in pencil and MLK's marginal notes in blue ink, 21 p. [MLK had originally sent this draft to Popper on Mar. 31, 1958.]

- (ii) Notes and inserts for "Chapter VII The Violence of Desperate Men," TS and CTS with holograph notations and corrections by Hermine Popper, 9 p.
- kk. "Pilgrimage to Nonviolence," drafts. [As Hermine Popper edited MLK's manuscript, she moved parts of various chapters around as well as provided new titles for different chapters. While MLK had written Chapters Seven and Eight ("Friends Indeed" and "Family in Siege"), it was decided to combine that material in other chapters and that MLK should write a description of the background and ideals that led to his embracing a nonviolent stance. In the published version of the book, this becomes Chapter Six.]
 - (i) "Chapter VIII. Pilgrimage to Nonviolence," holograph in red ink and pencil and typescript with MLK's holograph notations and corrections, incomplete, 24 p. [Pages 13 and 14 are TS with MLK's notations. Pages 21-24 are missing. Note: The first four pages of this document are on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
 - (ii) "Chapter VIII. Pilgrimage to Nonviolence," TS, 20 p. [This version matches MLK's holograph draft.]

Box 16 cont'd.

- (ii) Fragment: "Only E.D. Nixon -- the signer of Mrs. Parks' bond -- and one or two other persons were aware of the arrest ..." holograph, incomplete, on verso and recto of envelope, 2 p.; the fragment about E. D. Nixon is written in pencil, the sentence beginning "Hence, the roles of many person[s]" is in black ink; n.d. (after May 21, 1958). [This fragment is in the final version of the book. It was composed on the verso of an envelope addressed to MLK and postmarked May 20 and May 21, 1958. On the recto, MLK had begun drafting a sentence "Hence the roles of many person [sic], who helped shape events, are barely mentioned."]
 - (iii) Fragment: "II. The Decisive Arrest", TS with holograph correction in pencil by unknown person, incomplete, 3 p. [This fragment consists of the first three pages of the chapter only, numbered as pages 35-37]. Includes CTS copy (5 copies).
- b. "Montgomery Before the Protest."
- (i) Fragment: "(It was apathy and fear)", holograph, incomplete, 1 p.; written in pencil on plain white paper; this fragment is page 40.

complete drafts of the manuscripts, her arrangement has been retained for this book.]

1. Dedication and Preface. [MLK dedicated the book to his parents, Martin Luther King and Alberta Williams King. In the preface, he offered background on the sermons included in the volume and thanked Wyatt Tee Walker, Samuel W. Williams, Dora E. McDonald, and his wife Coretta Scott King. For other drafts of this manuscript, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.] Final draft, CTS, 3 p. [Both the dedication and the beginning of the preface are typed on the same page

2. Chapter I: "A Tough Mind and a Tender Heart." [Dr. King was inspired to write this sermon by one published by Bishop Gerald Hamilton Kennedy entitled "The Mind and the Heart". The sermon was first preached at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church on Aug. 30, 1959. The first line of the sermon which quotes a "French philosopher" was taken from MAHATMA GANDHI: AN INTERPRETATION by E. Stanley Jones. Although the quote has been purportedly attributed to Blaise Pascal, there is no real evidence that he wrote or uttered the quote. For other drafts of this manuscript, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]
 - a. Second draft, CTS with MLK's holograph corrections, 17 p.
 - b. Third draft, photocopy of holograph-corrected TS, 17 p. [This version closely matches the manuscript listed as "second draft" and is in the same typeface as the manuscript. The corrections are by MLK and an unidentified individual.]
 - c. Fourth draft, photocopy of holograph-corrected typescript with MLK's corrections in blue and red ink, 10 p.
 - d. Final draft, CTS with holograph corrections in unknown hand in blue ink, 10 p. [This manuscript incorporates the changes made on the "editorial" draft.]

3. Chapter II: "Transformed Nonconformist." [This sermon was originally titled "Mental and Spiritual Slavery" and was first preached at Ebenezer Baptist Church on Sep. 7, 1952. MLK preached a later version with the same title at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in May 1954. Six months later, MLK preached

10. Chapter IX: "Three Dimensions of a Complete Life." [According to Coretta Scott King's memoir, the first sermon she heard her future husband preach in 1952 was entitled "The Dimensions of a Complete Life". That was probably an early version of this sermon, which became one of MLK's most popular. He is said to have revised it and there are extant drafts of several versions, including the one he preached at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church on Jan. 24, 1954. Among the many other venues MLK delivered the speech include the Chicago Sunday Evening Club (Apr. 19, 1959), Dillard University (May 31, 1959), Cornell University (Nov. 13, 1960, and Riverside Church (Nov. 18, 1962). MLK revised the sermon and retitled it "The Three Dimensions of a Complete Life", which he first delivered at Friendship Baptist Church in Pasadena, California, on Feb. 28, 1960. This version was written out for inclusion in STRENGTH TO LOVE. MLK continued to preach this sermon up until 1967. For other drafts of this manuscript, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]
 - a. First draft, holograph, 25 p.; written in black and blue ink on lined yellow legal paper. The last three pages were written on a different, slightly larger legal pad and are slightly more fragile than the rest of the document.]

- 11. Chapter X: "Shattered Dreams." [The earliest version of this sermon was titled "Unfulfilled Hopes" and was first preached at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church on Apr. 5, 1959. MLK retitled the revised version "Shattered Dreams" when he drafted it for inclusion in STRENGTH TO LOVE. For other drafts of this manuscript, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]
 - a. First draft, holograph, 23 p., written in blue ink on lined yellow legal paper. [The first page has faded.]
 - b. Second draft, TS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink, 16 p.
 - c. Fourth draft, TS with MLK's holograph corrections and notations in blue ink, 12 p., Dec. 20, 1962. [On the first page, MLK has written "ready to be typed".]
 - d. Final draft, CTS with MLK's holograph corrections, 12 p.
 - e. Draft, CTS, incomplete, 7 p. (2 copies). [This is a copy of pages 10 through 16 only.]
- 12. Chapter XI: "What Is Man?" [MLK began developing this sermon as a student at Crozer Theological Seminary in Chester, Pa. He may have delivered a version of this sermon as early as 1953 on the radio. MLK preached it at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church on July 11, 1954 and over the years delivered it in various venues. There is a thematic link between this sermon and the later "The Christian Doctrine of Man". For other drafts of this manuscript, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]

- 13. Chapter XII: "How Should a Christian View Communism?" [An early version of this sermon entitled "Communism's Challenge to Christianity" was preached at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Aug. 1952. MLK also outlined a similarly titled sermon the following year. He further developed the themes in "Can a Christian Be a Communist?" delivered at Ebenezer Baptist Church on Sep. 30, 1962 and in this draft which was included in STRENGTH TO LOVE. For other drafts of this manuscript, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]

17. Chapter XVI: "Paul's Letter to American Christians." [This sermon was another of MLK's more popular ones. King preached the sermon as early as Sep. 1956 at the annual meeting of the National Baptist Convention in Denver. Two months later, he revised it slightly and delivered it at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church. Between 1956 and its 1963 publication in STRENGTH TO LOVE, MLK preached this sermon more than fifteen times. For other drafts of this manuscript, see also The Morehouse College Martin Luther King, Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.]
 - a. Fourth draft, photocopy of holograph-corrected typescript with MLK's holograph corrections, including 10 holograph pages of inserts on yellow legal paper, all in blue ink, 17 p.
 - b. Final draft, CTS with MLK's holograph corrections in blue ink, 10 p.

18. Chapter XVII: "Pilgrimage to Nonviolence." [Although the majority of STRENGTH TO LOVE consists of sermons, MLK included this essay as the final chapter. It is a revised version of the chapter from his first book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM. See also in this series in the manuscripts for STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM. Box 25 cont'd.

XXXII. Dove, Mabel. [Mabel Dove (1905-1984) was an African writer and journalist. Born in Accra, the Gold Coast (later Ghana) in 1905, Dove was from a mixed race family that originally hailed from Sierra Leone. They supported Mabel's pursuit of education, and she studied in Freetown and in the United Kingdom. She returned to the Gold Coast in 1926 to pursue a career in journalism, and in 1933 she married J. B. Danquah, an editor of the Times of West Africa and a politician. When the marriage floundered and she and her husband divorced in 1940's, Dove focused on her own career. After years of writing for local newspapers, she became involved in politics, joining Kwame Nkrumah's Convention People's Party in 1950 and wrote for the Accra Evening News, the party newspaper. Nkrumah appointed her as the first female candidate for the CCP and she handily won a seat in the West African national assembly in 1954. Three years later, though, she lost the seat. Mabel Dove kept correspondence with Martin Luther King, Jr. and met with him during his visit to Ghana during its independence celebrations. She is the author of numerous short stories, most notably the anthologized "Anticipation", poems, and several novellas.]

- A. ALS to "the warriors of Alabama Montgomery," 1 p., July 27, 1956, with enclosure. Includes:

XXXIII. Duckett, Alfred. [Alfred A. Duckett (1917-1984) was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., on Mar. 8, 1917. He and his older sister Ruth were raised by their mother Augusta who had separated from her husband David when Duckett was a toddler. He attended Columbia University and did a stint in the U.S. Army. As a young poet, Duckett found his work included in anthologies edited by Dorothy Norman and Langston Hughes and Arna Bontemps. Eventually, Duckett opened a public relations firm that was headquartered in both Chicago and New York that represented high profile African-American politicians and entertainers, including Mahalia Jackson and Duke Ellington. (Duckett worked on the latter's autobiography.) Additionally, he enjoyed a career as a freelance journalist. In 1957, he wrote a series of articles about MLK for the Chicago Defender as well as a piece for Sepia magazine. Duckett went on to collaborate with MLK on public addresses, including the "I Have a Dream" speech delivered at the Mar. on Washington in 1963, as well as King's book WHY WE CAN'T WAIT (1963). In addition, Duckett worked with Jackie Robinson, first on the children's book BREAKTHROUGH TO THE BIG LEAGUES (1965) and later on the memoir I NEVER HAD IT MADE (1972), which earned the Coretta Scott King Book Award. Duckett served as an associate editor at Ebony and Black World, editor at Tan, and co-founder of the periodical Equal Opportunities. Alfred Duckett died of cancer on Oct. 1, 1984 in Chicago, Ill. at the age of 67.]

- A. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Apr. 4, 1957, with enclosures. [Duckett encloses several articles asking for MLK's reactions. Although they had not met at the time, Duckett was already a published poet and was operating his own public relations firm as well as contributing journalism to various outlets. Duckett went on to work with MLK, including offering advice on speeches and books including WHY WE CAN'T WAIT (Harper, 1964).] Includes:
1. "Is Martin King Marked for Murder? Will They Kill (Murder) Rev. Martin King?" [Duckett enclosed a five-part series of articles about MLK written for The Chicago Defender, the first of which was scheduled for publication on Apr. 13, 1957. The Chicago Defender, founded in 1905 by Robert S. Abbott, became the most influential African-American newspaper in the early to mid 20th Century. In its early incarnation, the paper copied the style of those published by Joseph Pulitzer and William Randolph Hearst: sensational headlines and graphic images. The reportage did not shy away from the realities of African-American life, though, depicting in vivid details the atrocities inflicted on blacks. At the height of its popularity, the Defender had a readership of over half a million per week. Among its contributors were Walter White and Langston Hughes. In 1940, Abbott's nephew John H. Sengstacke assumed editorial control. By 1956, the paper had switched from a weekly format to a daily, changing its name to The Chicago Defender. Under Sengstacke's leadership, the newspaper became the largest black-owned daily in the world.]

 - b. TS, incomplete, 1 p.
 - c. "Segregation 'Wrong' Says Eisenhower," newspaper clipping from The Montgomery Advertiser, July 9, 1959.
 2. Notes on Robert Williams of the Monroe Chapter of the NAACP, holograph in unidentified hand, 2 p., ca. 1961. [While serving as president of the Monroe, North Carolina Chapter of the NAACP, Robert F. Williams (1925-1996) made some controversial remarks after a Caucasian man was acquitted of charges of the attempted rape of an African-American woman in 1959. At the time, MLK spoke out against Williams' statements and from then on, they engaged in a debate over how best to achieve civil rights for blacks. Williams advocated the use of violent means and his stance caused him to be suspended from membership in the NAACP.]

Box 26 cont'd.

King was a firm believer in nonviolence and the opposite views stoked a controversy that continued for several years. In 1961, when MLK declined to participate in a Freedom Ride in Monroe, North Carolina, Williams sent a telegram attacking him. [See the NAACP correspondence for the wire.] When white supremacists gained a foothold in Monroe in late 1961, Williams and his wife fled to Cuba, where he wrote a memoir, NEGROES WITH GUNS. The couple eventually moved to China in 1965 before returning to the U.S. four years later. Williams died of cancer in 1996.]

 - a. ALS to MLK, 3 p., Nov. 27, 1958. [Mrs. Akins writes to commend MLK on his book STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM and mentions the trying times she and her family endured because of her husband's notable court case.]

Box 27 cont'd.

She informs MLK that she and her teenage son have settled in Los Angeles and await the arrival of her husband who was living in Arizona where they had settled after his release from prison. On his way home from his job as a porter at a Dallas, Texas, garage in Sep. 1941, L. C. Akins allegedly brushed up against a white woman while boarding a street car. The woman's husband, an off-duty police officer, took issue and confronted Akins. Reports vary, but there were claims that Akins drew a knife and that the policeman responded by brandishing his gun. A scuffle ensued and at some point, Akins got hold of the firearm and shot the officer, who later died from the wound. Akins was arrested and charged with murder. He was brought to trial, convicted and sentenced to death. While his case was unfolding, the U.S. Supreme Court was ruling on the matter of Hill v. Texas which involved a man convicted of rape in Dallas. Despite the obvious guilt of that defendant, the Supreme Court ruled that state officials had not attempted to find qualified African Americans who might serve on the grand jury and overturned Hill's conviction. Under that ruling, Akins attempted to get his conviction overturned but the Supreme Court ruled that because there had been one African American on the grand jury (a first in more than 16 years), his conviction would stand, thus denying his charge of racial discrimination in a 6-3 vote. Akins' sentence was later commuted to life in prison by Texas Governor Coke Stevens, and he was paroled in the early 1950s.]

- b. CTL to Roberta Akins, 1 p., Dec. 6, 1958. [The secretary has misspelled the recipient's surname as "Akens".]

She and her younger sister were raised in a period of segregation. Brayboy graduated from the African-American boarding school, the Mather Academy and went on to earn a bachelors degree in music at Bennett College and a master's degree from Boston University. While attending BU, Brayboy met and befriended MLK; they were part of a small social circle of African American students who attended campus gatherings. After receiving her M.A., she married Dr. Jack Brayboy, an administrator at Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, North Carolina. The mother of two, Brayboy worked for 40 years in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School System beginning her career as a

150. Browne, Robert S. [Born and raised in Chicago, Robert Span Browne (1924-2004) was a prominent African-American economist and foreign-aid administrator. After graduating from the University of Chicago with a degree in economics, he served in the United States Army Air Forces during and just after World War II. Upon his return home, Browne became one of the first African Americans to earn an M.B.A. in finance from the University of Chicago. He pursued post-graduate studies at the London School of Economics and City University of New York. Browne began his career working as a program director for the Urban League in Chicago and later the Agency for International Development. In 1958, he was posted to Cambodia and then South Vietnam, where he remained until 1961. Back in the States, he joined the Phelps-

Box 28 cont'd.

Stokes Fund and then taught at Farleigh Dickinson University until 1971. During this time, Browne became politically active, lending his support to peace groups, labor unions and religious institutions via lectures and writings. He also established the Black Economic Research Center in Harlem in 1969 (serving as its director until 1980) and both the Emergency Land Fund and the 21st-Century Foundation in 1971. Browne was the executive director of the African Development Fund in the Ivory Coast in the early 1980s before becoming a senior research fellow at Howard University. In 1991, he was a staff director of a House subcommittee dealing with issues involving the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund and Third World debt until his semi-retirement in 1993. For the remainder of his life, Browne was an economic consultant for Washington-based organizations, a number of which concerned Africa. Browne died of heart failure in Aug. 2004 in a West Haverstraw, N.Y. hospital at the age of 79.]

 - b. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Oct. 4, 1961. [Bessie Estell writes in support of MLK whom she felt was mistreated at the 1961 National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress in Kansas City, Missouri.]

[At the 1961 convention of the National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress, an acrimonious debate erupted over whom should be president -- Rev. J.H. Jackson or Rev. Gardner Taylor. During the ensuing confusion, one of Jackson's supporters fell off the platform, hit his head and later died from complications due to the trauma. Jackson blamed MLK for the divisions, stemming from MLK's attempt to remove Jackson from the leadership the previous year. In statements both public and private, Jackson accused King of fomenting an atmosphere that led to the fatality. MLK protested and demanded an apology -- particularly as he was not even physically present when the man fell. Over 30 prominent leaders, including Benjamin Mays, Sandy Ray and Kelly Miller Smith, chastised Jackson for his remarks, who later claimed his statements were taken out of context. In protest of Jackson's continued leadership (he remained as president until 1982), MLK and several of his supporters broke from the National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress and formed the Progressive National Baptist Convention.]

- a. Fund raising form letter commending Norman Thomas on his work with the Post War World Council and soliciting funds on that organization's behalf; TS, signed, 1 p., Sep. 1958. [In 1938, several peace organizations, including the American Friends Service Committee, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and the Fellowship of Reconciliation, banded together to create the Keep America Out of the War Committee. (The name was later changed to Keep America Out of the War Congress). The newly-formed organization adopted a six-point program that included removing U.S. ships and individuals from "belligerent" areas of the world; a war referendum; an anti-conscription stance; and a move toward more equitable economic and social justice. Among its most prominent leaders was Norman Thomas. After the bombing of Pearl Harbor and the United States' entry into World War II in Dec. 1941, the congress dissolved and reorganized as The Provisional Committee Toward a Democratic Peace. Within months, however, the group changed its name to the Post War World Council which was headed by Norman Thomas to work toward a democratic settlement to the war. Thomas became almost synonymous with the Post War Peace Council and as chairman he made it his mission to try to prevent future world conflicts by promoting disarmament and international relations through newsletters, newspaper columns, governmental lobbying and conferences. The organization continued operating until Thomas suffered a stroke in 1967 which led to the Council's dissolution.]

63. Gregg, Richard B. [Richard Bartlett Gregg (1885-1974) was a social philosopher who is credited as being the first American to elaborate on the theory of nonviolent resistance. His 1934 book THE POWER OF NON-VIOLENCE was an important influence on MLK and the development of his philosophy. Gregg was a minister's son who found early work as a labor lawyer, but he soon grew disillusioned due to his frustration with big business, the failure of the U.S. government to protect workers' rights, and the sometimes violent confrontations between management and unions. Gregg read about Mohandas Gandhi and his nonviolent stance and was intrigued enough to travel to India where he taught at a local school and later spent several months at Gandhi's ashram. Returning to the U.S., Gregg published his book in the hopes of curbing some of the excesses he saw in American society. Rather than dwell on the spiritual aspects of nonviolence, he tried to put the philosophy in the context of sociology and psychology. He also tried to enlist the growing popular media to spread his theories. During World War II and in the years immediately after, Gregg and his nonviolent philosophy began to be embraced by some of the leaders of the Civil Rights Movement. Organizations like the Congress for Racial Equality (CORE) and individuals including Bayard Rustin and George Houser embraced the philosophy and applied it in specific situations. MLK was exposed to the work around the time of the Montgomery Bus Boycott and he became the most notable proponent of its teaching. Although nonviolence was the cornerstone to the Civil Rights Movement in the 1950s and early 60s, by the mid- to late 60s, a growing opposition and a call for more militant action was arising. Gregg died in 1974.]

86. Jordan, June [as M. June Meyer].

[June Jordan (1936-2002) was a African-American poet, journalist, playwright, educator and activist. Born in Harlem on July 9, 1936, she was the only child of Jamaican immigrants. Her father, Granville, was a postal employee who had wanted a son and in her memoirs Jordan wrote of their difficult relationship and the beatings he would often inflict. Her mother, Maude, was a nurse who struggled with depression and mental illness and who eventually committed suicide. The Jordan family moved from Harlem to the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn just before the start of the Second World War. Young June began her writing career as a child, composing poems as early as age seven. Jordan felt disconnected from her courses and her classmates as she was the only African American student at Midwood High School. Her parents sent her to boarding school at the Northfield School for Girls in Massachusetts where the English courses focused on Caucasian male writers. After graduating, Jordan attended Barnard College in the fall of 1953 where she met and married white student Michael Meyer in 1955 and gave birth to a son three years later. Jordan began writing articles and other works under her married name. She worked as a speech writer for James Farmer at the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and developed interests in local civic activities as well as in film, assisting producer Frederick Wiseman on "The Cool World" (1964), directed by Shirley Clarke. With her 1965 divorce, Jordan turned to teaching English at various colleges and universities including City College of New York, Sarah Lawrence College, Yale University and the University of California, Berkeley. In 1969, she published her first volume of poems, WHO LOOK AT ME?. Two years later, her only novel, HIS OWN WRITE, appeared. Over the next thirty years, Jordan produced an array of works in various genres, including PASSION: NEW POEMS, 1977-1980 (1980), the autobiographical CIVIL WARS (1981, which detailed her turbulent marriage), ON CALL: NEW POLITICAL ESSAYS (1985), and NAMING OUR DESTINY: NEW AND SELECTED POEMS (1989), and KISSING GOD GOODBYE: POEMS, 1991-1997 (1997). In all, she produced twenty-eight books, from poetry to essays to children's literature. Jordan succumbed to breast cancer on June 14, 2002. In the posthumously published SOME OF US DID NOT DIE: NEW AND SELECTED ESSAYS OF JUNE JORDAN, the author offered her thoughts on her cancer diagnosis and on the events of Sep. 11, 2001.]

 3. Kaplan, Kivie.

[Kivie Kaplan (1904-1975) was a Jewish American businessman, philanthropist, and activist. Born April 1, 1904, in Boston, Massachusetts, to Lithuanian Jewish immigrants, Kaplan was one of three sons who became successful businessmen after taking over their father's leather business. He and his family valued management labor-cooperation, and the Colonial Tanning Company had a successful employee profit-sharing program, as well as a free lunches. Kaplan ran the business until 1962, when he retired to dedicate himself to various philanthropic causes.

Dedicated to his Jewish faith, Kivie Kaplan served as the vice chairman of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations Executive Committee and on its Social Action Commission. Additionally, he and his wife Emily were supporters of the Jewish Memorial Hospital in Boston and of Brandeis University. He also cared deeply about civil rights, joining the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in 1932. Kaplan was elected to the national board of the organization in 1954 and became president in 1966, a position he held until his death. As president of the NAACP, he worked to increase membership and to stabilize the finances of the organization. Kivie Kaplan died May 5, 1975.]

Buckley had attempted to frame Congressman Powell on tax charges. At the same time, Powell was seeking re-election and the political machine of Tammany Hall was working against him, in part because he had supported the re-election of Dwight D. Eisenhower as president in 1956.]
- h. Telegram to Adam Clayton Powell, 2 p., June 24, 1960. [At a speech delivered at the National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress in Buffalo on June 19, 1960, Adam Clayton Powell made claims that MLK and A. Philip Randolph were "'captives' of behind the scenes interests" and King was also under the undue influence of Bayard Rustin. Powell's speech contained veiled references to what he felt were socialist influences on Randolph (in the form of Stanley Levison). Bayard Rustin, who resigned from the SCLC in the wake of the publicity, later recalled that Powell threatened to claim that Rustin and King had engaged in a sexual relationship. For roughly three years, MLK distanced himself from Rustin until they reconnected while planning the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom in 1963.]

While a student at Spelman College, she participated in the sit-ins at the lunch counters at Rich's department store and was arrested alongside MLK. King was very admiring of the female protesters' courage and dignity. As Herschelle Sullivan, she served as student body president at Spelman and became familiar with MLK through various civil rights demonstrations. At her request, MLK wrote a letter of recommendation to the Graduate School at Boston University. Sullivan Challenor pursued summer graduate studies at the University of Kentucky and was active in the Lexington chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). While she was accepted at Boston University, she opted instead to attend Johns Hopkins University, in part because of its location. Living in Baltimore, she was isolated from the activism upon which she had thrived in her undergraduate days. King advised her to be patient and concentrate on her intellectual pursuits as that would help shape her character. After obtaining her doctorate from Columbia University, Sullivan Challenor held several academic and public affairs positions, including as a program officer at The Ford Foundation, dean of the School of Public and International Affairs at Clark Atlanta University, and Senior Advisor, Bureau of African Affairs at the United States Agency for International Development (USAID).]

8. Zwerg, James W. [James Zwerg was a Caucasian student at Beloit College who participated in the Freedom Rides of 1961. Zwerg had participated in an exchange program between Beloit and Fisk University during his junior year. While in Tennessee, he became involved with the Civil Rights movement and made the acquaintance of John Lewis (of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee). After participating in nonviolence workshops and an attempt to integrate a local "whites only" movie theater (which resulted in his being knocked unconscious), Zwerg joined SNCC and participated in the first Freedom Ride in May 1961. While waiting for a bus in Birmingham, Alabama, a mob attacked the Freedom Riders injuring the participants. Photographs of a badly beaten Zwerg appeared in national periodicals like Time magazine. Unconscious from the vicious attack, Zwerg spent nearly three days lying unconscious in a hospital before he finally awoke. After graduating from Beloit in 1962, he served as a minister for ten years before moving into the business world.]

established for African Americans. It was founded at Cornell University on Dec. 4, 1906 by Henry Arthur Callis, Charles Henry Chapman, Eugene Kinckle Jones, George Biddle Kelley, Nathaniel Allison Murray, Robert Harold Ogle, and Vertner Woodson Tandy, commonly referred to as the "Seven Jewels." Since its inception, Alpha Phi Alpha has been involved in the African American community's struggle for civil and human rights. There are over 680 active Alpha chapters worldwide with approximately 125,000 members. Prominent members have included Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. Edward Brooke, Thurgood Marshall, Andrew Young, William Gray, Lester Granger, E. Franklin Frazier and Martin Luther King, Jr. King was initiated into Sigma Chapter on May 13, 1952 while attending Boston University, along with John H. Bustamente. After the completion of his studies, he remained involved with the fraternity, including delivering the keynote address at the 50th anniversary held in Buffalo, N.Y in 1956. Following the declaration of MLK's birthday as a national holiday, Alpha Phi Alpha spearheaded the proposal and campaign to build of a national memorial in his honor. As of Jan. 2010, the Washington D.C. Martin Luther King Jr. National Memorial Project Foundation continues to fundraise and a construction date has not been set.]

[Materials in this series pertain to the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA). The majority of the material is correspondence from between 1955 and 1961 sent from various branches of the YMCA requesting MLK for speaking engagements at those branch locations. The materials in the YMCA subject file are separated geographically into 19 categories by state: Alabama, California, Colorado, District of Columbia, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Virginia, Washington, and West Virginia. Each category is then further broken down into subcategories of each individual branch of the YMCA that corresponded with MLK. The branches are listed alphabetically by city, then alphabetically by branch office. Each subcategory is further arranged chronologically.]

Center for Aging Research. In 1966, Marden began a teaching career instructing students in sociology at Cornell University, Lawrence University, and Beloit College where he served as vice president of academic affairs and dean for six years. In June 1994, Marden became the 13th president of Manchester College in North Manchester, Indiana. He served just over 11 years before retiring in 2005.

Series VI: Correspondence: Geographic – Religious Institutions

Scope and Content Note for This Series:

This series consists of correspondence and enclosures pertaining to religious institutions and/or organizations, primarily Christian churches of various Protestant denominations but also including several Jewish synagogues and Catholic parishes. For correspondence specifically pertaining to religious, educational, or other institutions, refer to their respective series. Significant correspondence is present for Abyssinian Baptist Church (New York), Antioch Baptist Church (Ohio), The Central Methodist Church (Detroit, Mich.), The Community Church of Boston (Mass.), The Congregation Mishkan Israel (Conn.), Greater Macedonia Baptist Church (Mich.), New Hope Baptist Church (Conn.), Plymouth Church of the Pilgrims (New York), The Riverside Church (New York), Temple Isaiah (Calif.), Trinity Baptist Church (Mich.), and Woodland Hills Community Church (Calif.).

Some religious organizations are represented in the Subject Files series. For correspondence and other material regarding the American Friends Service Committee, the Baptist World Alliance, the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church (Montgomery, Ala.), the Ebenezer Baptist Church (Atlanta, Ga.), and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, refer to the Subject Files.

Arrangement Note for This Series:

The letters and enclosures in this series are grouped together according to the organization or institution to which it pertains. The items are listed first alphabetically by state, then alphabetically by organization, then chronologically.

A. The Abyssinian Baptist Church. [Abyssinian Baptist Church (New York, N.Y.) was founded in 1808 by a group of African American members from the First Baptist Church and Ethiopian merchants. The newly formed congregation established themselves in a building on Anthony Street and was named after the nation from which the merchants had come, Abyssinia. For the first ten years the congregation was led by several spiritual leaders. In 1908, Rev. Adam Clayton Powell Sr. became the pastor. Under his leadership, the church grew spiritually and financially, and relocated to West 138th Street in Harlem. After Powell Sr.'s retirement in 1937 there were over seven thousand members, a senior citizens home, and ongoing missionary work in West Africa. Powell Sr. was succeeded by his son, Adam Clayton Powell Jr., who served as pastor from 1937 until 1971. Under his pastorate the congregation grew to ten thousand members. As a politician Powell Jr. linked the Christian message of social justice to the civil rights movement in his sermons. On Feb. 10, 1963 Martin Luther King, Jr. spoke at Abyssinian at the invitation of Powell Jr. for Men's Day.]

F. Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights.

[Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights (ACMHR) was founded on June 5, 1956 in Birmingham, Alabama, after the state Attorney General John Patterson outlawed the NAACP. The first meeting took place at Sardis Baptist Church and was attended by Fred Shuttlesworth, N. H. Smith, T. L. Lane, R. L. Alford, and G. E. Pruitt. ACMHR sought to challenge segregation by forcing its way into white-only facilities and creating legal test cases. The organization requested black police officers and bus drivers, and desegregated seating on city buses. 4,500 people, including 119 whites, signed the petition for black police officers, but it was not approved by the city commission. Following the example of the Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA), the ACMHR defied bus segregation in 1956 and 1958, attempted to integrate Birmingham's schools and railroad stations in 1957, and championed the student sit-ins in 1960 and the Freedom Rides in 1961. The ACMHR became affiliated with Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) in 1957. ACMHR, along with SCLC, conducted a series of marches and nonviolent protests, the purpose of which was to desegregate public facilities and gain equal employment opportunities. These demonstrations were met with arrests, assault by fire hoses and police dogs, and imprisonment. In 1969, Fred Shuttlesworth was succeeded as president by Edward Gardner.]

TT. Chicago Sunday Evening Club.

[The Chicago Sunday Evening Club was formed by Clifford Barnes as an organization of Christian business leaders to promote the moral and religious welfare of the city. Founded in 1908, CSEC was a non denominational religious activity intended for business persons traveling through Chicago by train. Many trains were idled on Sunday leaving many individuals in the city until Monday. The first Sunday evening service was held in Orchestra Hall, on Feb. 16, 1908. In 1922, a powerful new means of communication tool was added to expand the Club's audience. On Christmas Eve, the weekly programs began radio broadcasts live from Orchestra Hall. Overnight, the Chicago Sunday Evening Club gained a national presence, earning it the title of "The Nation's Pulpit." Estimates of listeners in the 1920s and 1930s often ran into the hundreds of thousands each week. Following Clifford Barnes' death at the age of 80 in 1944, weekly programs continued in Orchestra Hall. Barnes was succeeded as president first by John Nuveen, Jr., followed by Joseph O. Hanson in 1955. At the beginning of the age of television, in Mar. of 1956, the Club began live broadcasts from Orchestra Hall on Chicago's new educational television station, WTTW/Channel 11. By 1969, television viewing in America was virtually universal and live audience attendance in Orchestra

Hall had dwindled. The program was moved into WTTW/Channel 11's new studios where it could take advantage of new color television technology. The Club is the station's oldest continuing program. In the early 1990s, it created a half-hour version of its hour-long broadcast in Chicago called 30 Good Minutes for the cable television market. At the invitation of Joseph O. Hanson, Martin Luther King Jr. appeared at the Chicago Sunday Evening Club on seven occasions between 1960 and 1968.]

J. Ford Hall Forum, Inc.

[Ford Hall Forum is the oldest free public lecture series in the United States. The Forum was founded in 1908 by George W. Coleman, a Boston businessman and leader of the Boston Baptist Social Union. The lectures were held in the Union's meeting place, the Ford Building on Beacon Hill, from where the Forum's name originates. According to Coleman's vision, the lecture series would enable the "full, free, and open discussion of all vital questions affecting human welfare." The Forum separated from the Boston Baptist Social Union and began its own enterprise in 1929. Martin Luther King, Jr. gave three separate lectures at the invitation of Louis P. Smith and Selma Harriet Levenberg, on Nov. 28, 1956, Dec. 11, 1960, and Apr. 23, 1967.]

[The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) is a nonprofit organization that strives to protect the civil liberties of people in the United States. The ACLU was formed in 1920, following the widespread repression of Americans' civil liberties under President Woodrow Wilson and his Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer during World War I and Red Scare in order to "defend and preserve the individual rights and liberties guaranteed to every person in this country by the Constitution and the laws of the United States." Because the ACLU advocates for organizations which face hostility from the state and, oftentimes, mainstream American identity, it has faced significant criticism in the twentieth century from groups who seek to uphold a "traditional" status quo.

Box 61 cont'd.

Following World War II, the civil rights movement was one such group that faced significant resistance from both the federal government and popular national sentiment, particularly in the South. The ACLU accordingly sought to defend civil rights activists when it understood their civil liberties to be threatened. During the civil rights movement of the 1950s and 1960s, the ACLU took supportive stances on racial equality activists' efforts to challenge legal racism at the local, state, and federal levels. For example, during the Montgomery Bus Boycott of 1955-56, the ACLU advocated the immediate release of boycotters who had been arrested, based on the argument that the Alabama law they had broken violated the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and that the bus companies in question had been conducting their business in a potentially unlawful manner, due to the precedent set in Morgan v. Virginia (1946) outlawing segregation on interstate public transportation, which would likely soon apply to municipal transportation as well. In addition to its activism on behalf of the Montgomery Bus Boycott, the ACLU also fought for civil rights in the firing of Lawrence Dunbar Reddick from Alabama State College and the arrest of Martin Luther King, Jr. and numerous other peaceful protesters comprising the 1962 Albany Movement in Georgia. The ACLU continues to function as a defender of Americans' and U.S. residents' civil liberties in the twenty-first century.]

20. Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

[The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was a labor union organized by African American employees of the Pullman Company in Aug. 1925. The Pullman Palace Car Company was established in 1867 to provide luxurious service to train passengers. By the 1920s, the company was the largest employer of African Americans in the United States. The first step toward fighting inadequate pay and humiliating working conditions came in 1920 with the formation of the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association (PPMPA). In addition, an industry-wide black union, the Railway Men's Association, tried to attract porters to its cause. Pullman attempted to defuse labor organizing by creating the Employee Representation Plan (ERP), a company union, and offering modest wage increases. Although porter dissatisfaction simmered, efforts to organize were stalled until A. Philip Randolph addressed a meeting of porters in 1925. Randolph urged porters to reject the ERP and form their own union, and several of the porters agreed -- if Randolph would lead them. Led by A. Philip Randolph and Milton P. Webster, the organization became instrumental in fair employment practices for blacks by securing better wages and hours. BSCP was the first African American union to be recognized by the American Federation of Labor in 1935. After negotiating its first contract with Pullman in 1937, the BSCP continued to represent the porters for more than forty years, merging with the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks in 1978. Under Randolph's leadership, BSCP became an advocate for civil rights movement by sponsoring the 1941 and 1963 Marches on Washington. E.D. Nixon, an organizer of the Montgomery Bus Boycott, was a member of BSCP.]

11. Encampment for Citizenship.

[Encampment for Citizenship was a summer youth program created by Algernon D. Black in 1944 under the auspices of the New York Society for Ethical Culture. It was designed to be a summer camp where young adults (ages 17-23) of varying racial, ethnic, social and cultural backgrounds would learn the "principles and techniques of citizenship in a liberal democracy." It was expected that the program would affect children to become active participants in civic responsibility and government and would foster a tolerance for diversity. In the 1950s, the program came under attack from those seeking to ferret out Communist influences but it was defended staunchly by former First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt. In 1957, MLK offered support for the program and spoke to its participants in July. During the 1960s, the program spread beyond New York to Puerto Rico, Montana, California, Kentucky, Arizona, Colorado and Washington, D.C. See also June Shagaloff's correspondence with MLK filed under the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund.]

10. "Meet the Press."

["Meet the Press" is a weekly television program produced by the National Broadcasting Company (NBC). It is the longest-running television show in broadcasting history. The program originally began as a radio show on the Mutual Broadcasting System on Oct. 5, 1945. It was created and produced by CBS radio reporter and editor, Lawrence E. Spivak (in part to promote his magazine The American Mercury, and journalist Martha Rountree. After much success, Rountree and Spivak accepted an invitation from an advertising agency to put the program on television for Maxwell House on the NBC network. On Nov. 5, 1957, "Meet the Press" made its television debut as a 30-minute press conference with a single guest and a panel of questioners. Martha Rountree was the first moderator. After stepping down in 1953, she was replaced by Ned Brooks. Martin Luther King, Jr. made his first appearance on Apr. 17, 1960, three years after accepting an invitation from Spivak. On Mar. 28, 1965 while in San Francisco to deliver a sermon at Grace Cathedral, King was interviewed again. The following year, Spivak replaced Brooks as moderator and King made another appearance on Aug. 21st, along with Roy Wilkins, Whitney M. Young, Floyd B. McKissick, Stokely Carmichael, and James H. Meredith discussing the black soldier's role in the Vietnam War. King's last appearance was on Aug. 13, 1967 after the summer riots. Spivak remained with the program until his retirement in 1975.]

Series VIII: Correspondence: Geographic -- Non-U.S. (Foreign)

Scope and Contents for This Series:

This series consists of correspondence and enclosures from various individuals and organizations, sent from locations outside the boundaries of the United States. Notable individuals represented in this series include Eric Baker (England), Anthony Brooke (Sarawak/Malaysia), Ramdas Gandhi (India), Oscar A. Guinn, Jr. (Malaya), C. L. R. James (England), Julius Gikonyo Kiano (Kenya), Heinz Kraschutzki (West Germany), Edward Obedi Lichenga (Kenya), Tom Mboya (Kenya), Morton F. Meads (The Philippines), A. J. Muste (England), Jawaharlal Nehru (India), Ngumbu Njururi (England), N. Oluwole Olaku (Nigeria), Moses Popoola (Ghana), Deolindo Rodrigues (Brazil), Bertrand Russell (England), Margrit de Sablonière (The Netherlands), Donald Ogden Stewart (England), and Oliver Tambo (South Africa). Also present are letters from several members of the International Fellowship of Reconciliation, mostly from England. Several of the letters ask MLK for financial assistance; regular correspondence as a "pen pal;" assistance with emigrating to and/or attending school in the United States; or to attend an event (and usually to give a speech).

Note on the Arrangement of This Series.

The letters and enclosures in this series are grouped together according to the nation from which they originate. The items are listed first alphabetically by nation, then alphabetically by individual or organization, then chronologically. In some cases, the internationally recognized name of the nation has changed over time, thus some nations are given variant names.

- B. Meads, Morton F. TLS to MLK, 1 p. March 5, 1958. [Morton F. Meads (1922-) was an American whose family claimed to have founded the "micronation" of the Kingdom of Humanity in the area of the Spratly Islands. He purportedly succeeded to the throne as monarch in 1946 just after World War II. In 1959, the island nation merged with the Republic of Morac-Songhrati-Meads. A decade later, control of the islands had been divided among China, Vietnam, The Philippines, and Malaysia and the population of this "nation" was dispersed. Meads formed several companies in the area, including the Macarthur Mining Company and the Macarthur International Minerals Company. MLK's original letter to Meads is not in the collection housed at the Howard Gotlieb Archival Research Center. MLK appears to have written Meads and asked for more information about "The Kingdom of Humanity." Meads says he will write a longer letter in the future.]

- D. Kraschutzki, Heinz. [After serving as a naval lieutenant during World War I, Heinz Kraschutzki (1891-1982) became a leading proponent for peace and resistance to war. He served as editor of Das Andere Deutschland and following the publication of an article about German rearmament in the early 1930s was brought to trial on charges of treason. He fled Germany and settled in Majorca in 1932. While in Spain, he was not actively involved in politics but after the rise of the fascists, Kraschutzki was arrested and incarcerated in 1936. His release was sought by two disparate entities: the War Resisters International with support from the British Foreign Office petitioned the Franco regime while Nazi officials demanded he be turned over to them for execution. The Spanish agreed to release Kraschutzki to the Nazis provided he not be killed; instead he was sentenced to 30 years in prison. In 1945, after Germany's defeat, the British Foreign Office once again spearheaded a campaign for his release and this time was successful. After nine years in jail, Kraschutzki was freed. He later divided his time between Germany and Majorca publishing a memoir and remaining active in the anti-war movement until his death in 1982.]
1. TLS to MLK, 2 p., Jan. 26, 1959, with enclosure. [Kraschutzki writes to MLK about STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM. III. Correspondence Received by MLK after Sep. 3, 1958 Arrest in Montgomery, Alabama.

[In late August 1958, a man named Edward Davis entered Ralph Abernathy's study at the First Baptist Church and accused Rev. Abernathy of carrying on an illicit relationship with Mrs. Davis. Armed with both a pistol and a hatchet, Davis threatened to kill Abernathy and chased the clergyman outside and down Columbus Avenue where the police intervened and arrested Davis. A pre-trial hearing was scheduled for Sep. 3. In a show of support for Abernathy, both Martin Luther King, Jr. and Coretta Scott King cut short their vacation in Mexico and returned to Montgomery. On Sep. 3, the Kings attempted to enter the courthouse. Dr. King exchanged words with a guard who refused to allow him entry. The police were called and Dr. King was arrested and charged with loitering. Photographer Charles Moore's image of the police twisting his arm behind his back as he was taken into custody was published nationwide. King refused to plead out the case, was tried and convicted and agreed to serve two weeks in jail. His imprisonment was short-lived, however, when a local white official paid the fine in order to avoid further bad publicity for the Montgomery police department.]

Box 72 cont'd.

- A. Anderson, "Sister." ALS to MLK from "Sister" Anderson, with Maude Ballou's holograph notations, 2 p.; received Sep. 19, 1958; written in blue ink on pages torn from a stenographer's notebook. He was found guilty and sentenced to six years in prison, but he appealed his case after attempts to secure a new trial were dismissed. Murphy arrived in Saint Louis, Mo. in August 1959 and began making claims to be a philanthropist representing a foundation. He was introduced to a local minister and proposed a fundraiser for the church that would include appearances by Mahalia Jackson, Jackie Robinson and other prominent African American celebrities. Murphy was able to convince the church treasurer to turn over a check in the amount of $5000 which was deposited into an account to which Murphy had illegal access. When he withdrew money to pay a hotel bill, he was arrested and charged. His appeal was eventually denied in June 1961.]

V. Adverse, Hate and "Unique" Mail, 1956-1963. [Materials in this series pertain to correspondence to MLK that was deemed adverse or hate mail. The majority of the correspondence consists of letters to MLK, dated between 1956 and 1963, from various individuals (some anonymous) as well as from various organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan (KKK). Also included are several letters from religious fanatics and other seemingly-disturbed individuals, which MLK's staff filed in a folder labeled "Unique". Items in this series are arranged by topic such as "Adverse" (from those opposed to MLK's beliefs), "Hate" (from those who threatened MLK), "Kind" (from those who supported MLK), and what MLK's secretaries referred to as "Unique" mail (from religious fanatics and disturbed minds).]

Series X: Professional Material

Scope and Content Note for This Series.

Material in this series consists of letters written to MLK and/or CSK while they were traveling informing them of correspondence, telephone calls and other items received. There is a section of correspondence returned to the office by the post office (for most of which there are carbon copies in this collection). There are date books for the years 1961 and 1962 maintained by Dora McDonald and noting MLK's speaking engagements and travel. Also included are ten telephone logs from August 1961 through October 1963, MLK's schedules and itineraries, and miscellaneous material including Maude Ballou's office filing procedures prepared for her maternity leave.

Note on the Arrangement of This Series.

Items in this series are arranged chronologically. There is overlap with the correspondence sent by MLK's secretaries while he was traveling. Maude Ballou was his secretary from 1956 until 1960, with maternity leave during the spring and summer of 1958. During her leave, she was replaced by Hilda S. Proctor, whom she trained. Mrs. Ballou also overlapped with Dora McDonald in 1960 until the fall when she moved North to Virginia.

Brown, he assisted in the coordination of the sit-in demonstrations at Rich's department store. A member of the Ebenezer Baptist Church, he became acquainted with Rev. A.D. King, who introduced Bennette to Martin Luther King, Jr. in 1960. Bennette joined the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and worked diligently as a key organizer on various projects. His abilities led to his being nicknamed "the Commandant" by other staffers. In 1964, MLK appointed him as the director of the SCLC program "Operation Bread Basket". Rev. Bennette additionally served at the Mount Welcome Baptist Church, including a stint as interim pastor in 1964-65. After Dr. King's assassination, Rev. Bennette served in an advisory capacity to Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter and Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young. Mrs. King asked him to serve on the Board of Advisors to The Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Non-Violent Social Change as well as serving as the Center's Security Director. Fred C. I. American Committee on Africa (ACOA).

[The American Committee on Africa (ACOA) was founded in 1953 to support the liberation struggles against colonialism and apartheid in Africa. ACOA grew out of the ad hoc organization Americans for South African Resistance, created by George Houser, Bayard Rustin, and Bill Sutherland. ASAR supported the Campaign of Defiance Against Unjust Laws, led by the African National Congress. Based in New York City, ACOA had a national focus and broad range of issues. In 1966, ACOA founded the Africa Fund, a not-for-profit charitable and educational organization. Houser served as executive director until 1981. ACOA staff traveled extensively in Africa, attending all the All African People's Conferences, visiting newly independent countries and the Frontline States to meet with African leaders, attending conferences, and visiting refugee camps. Martin Luther King, Jr. served on the national committee from 1957 until his death. King participated in many ACOA campaigns, including acting as vice-chair of the 1957 Declaration of Conscience against apartheid. He spoke at the Human Rights Day celebration, co-sponsored an Appeal for Action against Apartheid, and participated in the American Negro Leadership Conference on Africa. ACOA merged with the Africa Fund and Africa Policy Information Center to form Africa Action in 2001.]

Box 83 cont'd.Folder 6*III. Baptist World Alliance.

[The Baptist World Alliance is an umbrella organization of more than 40 Baptist member churches and 45,000,000 members worldwide. The Baptist World Alliance was founded in 1905 in London, England, at its first "Congress," or international meeting. Its purpose was to link various churches within the Baptist denomination in a global network of shared fellowship and missionary evangelism. Member churches have traditionally emphasized the conversion experience and the importance of spreading the faith by baptizing new believers. During the twentieth century the Southern Baptist Convention (U.S.) comprised a significant membership proportion of the Baptist World Alliance, and numerous southern black churches joined both of these groups. During the American civil rights movement, Martin Luther King, Jr. represented his Atlanta congregation at Ebenezer Baptist Church when he attended the Tenth Baptist World Alliance Congress in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil in 1960. Although he was scheduled to attend and speak at the Sixth Baptist Youth World Conference in Beirut, Lebanon in 1963, King was forced to cancel at the last minute due to the prospect of the passage of civil rights legislation. In a letter to the conference organizer, King explained that his presence was required in the United States to assist in mobilizing the nation for the passage of civil rights legislation and to lend assistance to the organizers of mass demonstrations so as to avoid the more "extremist groups" from taking over the nonviolent protests. King clearly held a desire to both remain active in the global Baptist community despite the gravity of southern civil rights problems, and to bring the U.S. racial equality movement to the global ecumenical community.]

Box 84 cont'd.Folder 3*V. Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

[The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) is a civil rights organization with a historical focus on African-American socio-political equality. In 1942, student activists, including James R. Robinson, James L. Farmer, Jr., George Houser, and Bernice Fisher, founded CORE as the Committee on Racial Equality in Chicago, Ill. The organization's leaders strongly supported nonviolent political activism, partially stemming from their affiliation with the pacifist organization the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FoR). In particular, Fisher applied the nonviolent resistance philosophy outlined in the 1939 work WAR WITHOUT VIOLENCE by Gandhi follower Krishnalal Shridharani. Accordingly, CORE's first racial justice efforts comprised working with black Chicago residents to address municipal racism with peaceful protest. As CORE steadily attracted members, it pioneered the "sit-in" protest technique at discriminatory businesses, with notable success in desegregating individual establishments. CORE's early success in Chicago led to the development of new chapters in the mid-1940s; head organizers changed the group's name to the Congress of Racial Equality to reflect its broader representation in the Midwest and Northeast. In 1947 CORE continued its innovation in nonviolent resistance to codified racism by organizing the Journey of Reconciliation, an integrated bus ride through the upper South. The journey tested the validity of Supreme Court decision Morgan v. Virginia, which had outlawed segregation in interstate transport the previous year. Among the eight white and eight black men making the journey were George Houser, Bayard Rustin, and Homer A. Jack. Though the riders experienced significant racism and several arrests, the ride drew national attention to segregation in the upper South. After its success with the Journey of Reconciliation, CORE stagnated and was largely sustained by its St. Louis office, which had become a powerful locus of training after World War II. The 1954 Supreme Court decision helped to reinvigorate the organization which went on to lend valuable support to the Montgomery Bus Boycott through its commitment to nonviolence. CORE shifted its focus from the North to the southern states, modifying some of its requirements as more and more chapters were formed in the South. In the 1960s the organization gained strength under President James Farmer, who had also held that office in the mid-1940s. In 1960, CORE rallied behind Greensboro, N.C. college students who deployed the sit-in technique at Woolworth's, and the following year Farmer resurrected the older "Journey of Reconciliation" as a new test of interstate integration: the "Freedom Ride." Unlike its predecessor, CORE's 1961 ride planned to integrate the Deep South via bus. It also planned to integrate such facilities associated with public travel as waiting rooms and drinking fountains. When the CORE bus reached Alabama, riders faced beatings, arrests, and extreme general violence. In Anniston, Ala., for example, white racists firebombed a bus and attacked protesters fleeing the vehicle. The Freedom

Rides achieved a critical victory for the civil rights movement by focusing national media on peaceful interracial riders and the vitriol with which white racists attacked them. In addition to spearheading the Freedom Ride movement, CORE also participated in more general civil rights activity. Working in concert with other large civil rights groups like the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), CORE led pray-ins, teach-ins, sit-ins, and marches. CORE leaders like Farmer worked closely with Martin Luther King, Jr. and often included him on mailings. King also received CORE meeting minutes and internal organization documents regarding plans and strategies for specific events. In 1963, CORE leaders participated in the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, at which King delivered his "I Have a Dream" speech. CORE also participated in the widespread Mississippi voter registration campaign "Freedom Summer" in 1964. During the campaign the Ku Klux Klan, in concert with local law enforcement, murdered three CORE workers -- James Cheney, Andrew Goodman, and Michael Schwerner -- near Philadelphia, Miss.. Despite this tragedy, CORE continued to work with SNCC to register voters, organize the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, and challenge the all-white Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City, N.J. in 1964. Although U.S. President Lyndon Baines Johnson passed the first viable civil rights legislation of the twentieth century that same year -- the Civil Rights Act of 1964 -- and the Voting Rights Act in 1965, CORE faced increasing internal tension in the mid-1960s as African Americans grew frustrated by the seemingly slow pace of progress toward racial equality in their lives. In 1966 Farmer, who continued to advocate nonviolence, resigned as president due to his conflict of interest with CORE's increasingly radical affinity for the nascent "black power" movement. Floyd McKissick, a black power advocate, succeeded Farmer as CORE head. Since 1968 the organization has been under the control of Roy Innis, a 1960s radical black activist who has since embraced social conservatism and supported Republican candidate Richard Nixon for the American presidency in 1968 and 1972. Innis restructured the organization to a more centralized one and launched a new fundraising division, CORE Special Purpose Fund. Although CORE continues to profess empathy for the socially marginalized and has focused on economic development within the African American community, Innis' Christian conservatism has tempered the organization's policy on homosexuality and the AIDS crisis and left it open to criticism.]

Folder 3VI. Dexter Avenue Baptist Church.

[Dexter Avenue Baptist Church (Montgomery, Ala.) was founded in 1877 after several members decided to separate from First Colored Baptist Church. Initially, the congregation was called the Second Colored Baptist Church and held worship services in a slave trader's pen. In January 1879, a lot was purchased for $270.00 on the corner of Market Street and Decatur Streets, where the church is currently located. The edifice was constructed between 1883 and 1889, and was designed by Pelham J. Anderson and built by William Watkins, a member of the congregation. After Market Street was renamed Dexter Avenue in 1884 in honor of Montgomery's founder, Andrew Dexter, the congregation renamed itself Dexter Avenue Baptist Church. Author and scholar Charles Octavius Boothe served as the first pastor. Under the leadership of the 19th pastor Vernon Johns (1947-1952), Dexter became actively involved in Montgomery's fight for equality. In 1954, Martin Luther King, Jr. succeeded Johns as pastor while completing his doctoral studies at Boston University. As pastor King requested that all members of the congregation join the local branch of the NAACP and become a registered voter. He also initiated community programs that helped advance the ministries of the church and change its image. The first meeting of what was to become the Montgomery Improvement Association was held in the basement of Dexter on December 2, 1955. After SCLC established Atlanta as its headquarters in 1960, King resigned to fulfill his duties as president and became co-pastor at Ebenezer Baptist Church under his father. On June 3, 1974, the Church was designated a national historic landmark and Montgomery added the church to its list of historic sites on July 13, 1976. The name of the congregation was changed to Dexter Avenue King Memorial Baptist Church in 1978.]

Folder 4VII. Ebenezer Baptist Church.

[Ebenezer Baptist Church (Atlanta, Ga.) was founded in 1886 by Rev. John A. Parker in a small structure on Airline Street. Rev. Adam Daniel Williams, MLK's maternal grandfather, became Ebenezer's second pastor in 1894. Under his leadership, the congregation grew and moved to the basement of the present location in 1914, and into the sanctuary in 1922. Martin Luther King, Sr., husband of Williams' daughter Alberta, served as assistant pastor from 1926-1930 and assumed full pastorate upon the death of his father-in-law in 1931. Under his leadership, Ebenezer was rescued from near bankruptcy and became a place of worship for the educational and economic elite. With King Sr. as pastor and Alberta serving as church organist, the King family spent much of their time at Ebenezer. In 1960, Martin Luther King, Jr. became co-pastor upon his return to Atlanta to head SCLC. Alfred Daniel Williams King succeeded his brother as co-pastor following his assassination and founded Ebenezer's Children Chapel in 1969. Tragedy struck the congregation on June 30, 1974 when Marcus Chenault fatally shot Alberta King and Deacon Edward Boykin during Sunday morning service. After four decades of ministry, King Sr. retired in 1975. To accommodate a growing congregation, the New Horizon Sanctuary was built in 1999. The original building, now known as the Heritage Sanctuary, is a popular destination for tourists visiting the Martin Luther King Jr. Historic Site, a unit of the National Park Service.]

Box 87Envelope 1*VIII. Ebony Advice Column.

[This subject file contains correspondence and manuscript drafts of the column "Advice for Living" covering a one year period from roughly September 1957 to October 1958. In the wake of his stabbing while promoting STRIDE TOWARD FREEDOM and the resultant convalescent period, MLK decided to drop the column in late 1958. While there were some discussions that he might contribute another opinion column, nothing came of those negotiations. The subject file also includes two types of correspondence: general letters written by people seeking advice from MLK and sent to him in care of the Johnson Publishing Company; and professionally-related letters, mostly from Lerone Bennett regarding the column and its proposed successor. "Advice for Living" was a write-in advice column in Ebony magazine that ran monthly from September 1957 through December 1958. There was discussion of a change in format to a "straight opinion column" following the September 1958 assassination attempt on MLK, however, the final decision was made to discontinue the column. Ebony was the first successful national magazine to feature African American. Created in 1945, three years after John H. Johnson published Negro Digest, it was modeled after white mainstream magazines Life and Look. Ebony became a national platform for showcasing black college beauty queens, and "100 Most Influential Black Americans", which highlighted civil rights leaders and heads of national civic organizations. Johnson convinced white business leader that they could sell their products directly to African Americans through Ebony if they used black models. As the years progressed, the magazine became a vital forum for black history. Executive editor Lerone Bennett wrote a series of articles on African American history, which was published in two volumes, BEFORE THE MAYFLOWER and THE SHAPING OF BLACK AMERICA. When Johnson acquired the rival publication Our World, he hired their photographers for Ebony, but it was the photographs made the magazine stand out. The Johnson Publishing photo library is the largest black-owned private collection of African Americans in the United States. During the civil rights and Black Power movements, Ebony shifted its editorial philosophy in order to supply information on the political, social, and economic condition of African Americans. The magazine began publishing annual "special issues" on social topics concerning black Americans. Political figures including Martin Luther King, Jr. and Betty Shabazz frequently replaced famous singers, sports stars, or actors as cover subjects. The materials in the Ebony subject file are separated into three categories: manuscripts; correspondence; and miscellaneous. The correspondence category is additionally broken down into: general; form letters; and professional. All material, including the manuscripts of the columns and the correspondence, is arranged chronologically.]

Box 88Folder 1*IX. Fellowship of Reconciliation.

[Materials in this series pertain to the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FoR), an international peace organization. The majority of materials are correspondence from 1956 - 1962 sent from various branches of FOR to MLK. Correspondence also includes notable FoR leaders such as A. J. Muste, Alfred Hassler, and Glenn Smiley. Printed materials includes pamphlets that list publications by FoR and include a sizable list of individuals interested in the Willard Uphaus case of 1960. Other materials in this file include fliers and press releases. The professional materials include a mimeograph preliminary draft of a speech prepared for Boston FoR discussion on love. The Fellowship of Reconciliation (FoR) is a faith based, nonprofit organization established in 1914 in England. In 1915 the United States branch was established. In the 1950's the organization was heavily supportive of the Montgomery bus boycotts and published a comic book, Martin Luther King and the Montgomery Story. Throughout the civil rights movement, FOR held nonviolent workshops in Southern states and supported various passive efforts to gain equality and social justice. Arrangement note - The materials in the Fellowship of Reconciliation subject file are separated into 3 categories: correspondence, printed materials, and professional materials.]

8. Fahrni, Mildred. [Mildred Osterhout Fahrni (1900-1992) spent most of her life in Vancouver, British Columbia, and her interests in pacifist causes spanned some six decades. Born on January 2, 1900 in Rapid City, Manitoba, Mildred Osterhout was the daughter of a Methodist minister and his wife. The family eventually settled in British Columbia in 1914 where she graduated from the University of British Columbia. After a brief teaching career, Mildred Osterhout went on to graduate studies at both Bryn Mawr College and the London School of Economics. By the time she returned to Canada in the early 1930s, she had traveled extensively and met and was influenced by Gandhi and the Fabian Socialists. Back home in British Columbia, she was active with the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation (CCF), preparing several radio broadcasts on their behalf. Between 1937 and 1938, she served a term on the local school board. After the outbreak of World War II, she became active with both the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FoR.) and the Women's International League of Peace and Freedom (WILPF), embarking on a lecture tour around Canada advocating for pacifism and the opposition of the war. In the 1950s, she served as executive secretary of the Canadian section of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, during which she took an active interest in MLK and the Montgomery bus boycott. In 1956, she visited the United States and Montgomery and Fahrni wrote about it in the Doukhobor Inquirer, to which she was a frequent contributor. Mrs. Fahrni retained an active interest in pacifist causes until her death on April 12, 1992. Her life was

13. Hassler, Alfred. [Alfred Hassler (1910-1991) was born in Allentown, Pennsylvania and raised in New York, N.Y. He attended Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and took night classes in journalism at Columbia University. He was employed by The Leader-Observer in Queens before joining the staff of American Baptist Publications in Philadelphia. In 1942, Hassler became editor of Fellowship, a journal published by the Fellowship of Reconciliation. He was imprisoned as a conscientious objector during World War II and later wrote of his experiences in DIARY OF A SELF-MADE CONVICT. Additionally, he wrote numerous anti-war articles and books. Hassler retired from FoR. in 1974 and with his wife Dorothy founded Almeira, a retirement community in southern Spain. He returned to the United States in the 1980s and settled in New York state. In addition to his work with FoR., Hassler founded the Dai Dong project which linked war, environmental issues and poverty, and was the president of the International Confederation for Disarmament and Peace. 16. Lawson, James M., Jr. [James Morrison Lawson, Jr. (1928-) was an African American member of FoR who originally hailed from Pennsylvania. During the Korean War, Lawson was jailed for one year's time for failing to register for the draft. After his release, he traveled to India as a Methodist missionary and undertook a study of the life and philosophy of Gandhi and the principles of nonviolence. Returning to the United States, Lawson began studying at Oberlin College where he was first introduced to MLK. He left Oberlin and began working for the Fellowship of Reconciliation. While enrolled at Vanderbilt University's Divinity School, Lawson conducted workshops on civil disobedience that were instrumental in the development of a localized student protest movement in Nashville (Tenn.), most notably sit-ins at segregated lunch counters and movie theaters. He was expelled from Vanderbilt and completed his education at Boston University. From 1960 to 1964, Lawson served as an advisor to the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and between 1960 and 1967, he was the director of nonviolent education for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). In 1962, Lawson became pastor of Centenary Methodist Church in Memphis and six years later, he invited MLK to visit the city during a strike by sanitation workers. King led a march that was interrupted by violence and he returned to the city in early April where he was assassinated. Lawson settled in California in the mid-1970s and served at the Holman Methodist Church until his retirement in 1999.]

19. Miller, William Robert. [William Robert Miller (1927-1970) was born and raised in Waterloo, New York. The son of an English teacher, he served in the U.S. Air Force from 1945 to 1947 and enrolled at Columbia University in 1948. Dropping out in 1951, Miller worked as a copyboy at Time, a copy editor at W.W. Norton and Company, and a reporter at Forbes magazine before joining the Fellowship of Reconciliation in 1956 as managing editor of the journal Fellowship. After five years, he became managing editor of the United Church Herald. Miller completed his undergraduate studies at the New School for Social Research, graduating in 1964. He authored several books, including NONVIOLENCE: A CHRISTIAN INTERPRETATION (1964) and MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.: HIS LIFE, MARTYRDOM, AND

[Morrison, the producer of the documentary film "Walk to Freedom", writes to ask MLK about making a feature film based on the events of the Montgomery Bus Boycott and suggests that the Montgomery Improvement Association apply for grants to facilitate such a production.]
22. Muste, A. J. [Abraham Johannes Muste (1885-1967) was a Dutch-born clergyman, labor leader and peace activist. In the early 1890s, Muste and his family emigrated to the United States, settling in the Grand Rapids, Michigan, area. He was class valedictorian at Hope College from which he graduated in 1905. Four years later, he went on to earn a master's degree from the Theological Seminary of the Dutch Reformed Church (now known as the New Brunswick Theological Seminary) in New Jersey and a doctorate from the Union Theological Seminary in New York in 1913. Muste was ordained into the ministry in 1909 but by 1915 he had broken with the Dutch Reformed Church and was serving as a minister at the Central Congregationalist Church in Newtonville, Massachusetts. His pacifist beliefs and antiwar stand, however, led to a break with the Congregationalists as well and Muste joined the Society of Friends (Quakers). He became active in labor affairs, serving as general secretary of the Amalgamated Textile Workers of America in 1920-21. He went on to serve on the faculty of Brookwood Labor College in Katonah, New York. Muste help to found the Conference on Progressive Labor Action (CPLA) in 1929. He was instrumental in the transformation of CPLA into the American Workers Party (AWP), which held revolutionary, Marxist tenets. By the mid-30s, Muste severed his ties AWP and adopted a position of Christian pacifism which he held for the remainder of his life. Muste had been affiliated with the Fellowship of Reconciliation for many years (including a brief stint as a staff member in the 30s), he was appointed executive secretary in 1940 and during his tenure there was involved with the more radical members, including supporting those who refused to cooperate with the Selective Service System and the founding of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). In 1956, he was one of the founders of the publication Liberation. During the 1950s and 60s, Muste served as chair of the Committee for Non-Violent Action (CVNA) and oversaw many instances of civil disobedience at missile bases, thermonuclear test sites and during civil defense drills. In the mid-60s, he was one of the first to publicly and vocally protest American involvement in Southeast Asia and he made a trip to Saigon in 1966 where he met with Vietnamese Communist leader Ho Chi Mihn. Martin Luther King, Jr. often claimed Muste as an inspiration, particularly due to their shared interests in Gandhian nonviolent techniques. A.J. Muste died at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City on February 11, 1967 at the age of 82.]

After graduation, Riles moved to Arizona and enrolled at Arizona State Teachers College (now Northwest Arizona State University). He continued to hold a variety of jobs while in college. In 1940, he graduated with a degree in education. Riles taught school (eventually becoming a principal) while pursuing a master's degree. In the 1950s, Riles joined the Fellowship of Reconciliation and moved to California. He eventually settled in the Sacramento area where he became the first African-American professional employee at the California State Department of Education when he was hired as a consultant in certificated employment practices. Riles became an expert in intergroup relations and the education of disadvantaged children and held various related positions. In 1970, Riles entered politics, running for State Superintendent for Public Instruction, defeating a seemingly unbeatable opponent. He was twice re-elected to the post in 1974 and 1978. 26. Smiley, Glenn E. [Glenn Smiley (1910-1993) was born in Texas and attended McMurry College, Southwestern University, University of Arizona, and University of Redlands. He was ordained as a Methodist minister and spent close to fifteen years in service in Arizona and California. In 1942, he became a member of both the Congress for Racial Equality (CORE) and the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FoR). During the second world war, Smiley was imprisoned as a conscientious objector. By the mid-1950s Smiley was the national field secretary for FoR. In February 1956, he arrived in Montgomery, Alabama, and was introduced to MLK by Bayard Rustin. Impressed with King and his leadership, Smiley offered counsel, suggesting that MLK begin a dialogue with liberal white ministers. He provided input on the guidelines for riding integrated busses issued by the Montgomery Improvement Association, Smiley joined MLK, Ralph Abernathy, Fred Gray and others as they rode on the first integrated bus in Montgomery in December 1956. Over the next few years, Smiley delivered a series of workshops and conferences on nonviolence and he was a major supporter of the student civil rights demonstrations of the early 1960s. In addition to his work with FoR, Smiley founded Justice-Action-Peace Latin America. He remained active with the Fellowship of Reconciliation until shortly before his death in September 1993.]

- 27. Snow, Lois Wheeler. [Lois Wheeler Snow (1920-) was born in California and attended the University of the Pacific and the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York City. Between 1943 and 1959, under her maiden name, she worked as an actress. Perhaps her best known Broadway credit was in the original 1947 production of Arthur Miller's drama All My Sons. Wheeler Snow was also a founding member of the Actor's Studio and acted on live television, notably in a regular role on the soap opera The Guiding Light. In 1949, she married author and journalist Edgar Parks Snow and made frequent trips to China with him. In 1972 - the year she was widowed, Wheeler Snow published CHINA ON STAGE and three years later wrote the biographical A DEATH WITH DIGNITY: WHEN THE CHINESE CAME. In 1981, she compiled a volume of her late husband's writings EDGAR SNOW'S CHINA: A PERSONAL ACCOUNT OF THE CHINESE REVOLUTION.]

He graduated from Dickinson College in 1936, and later earned both a master's degree (1939) and an bachelor of sacred theology (1940) from Boston University. Swomley also earned a doctorate from the University of Colorado in 1958. Swomley began his working career as youth secretary for the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FoR) in 1940. From 1944 to 1952, he served as executive director of the National Council against Conscription in Washington, D.C. He returned to the FoR in 1953, serving as executive secretary until 1960 and during which time he was ordained as a minister. Swomley joined the faculty as professor of social ethics at St. Paul School of Theology in Kansas City, Missouri in 1960. He has served as editor of Conscription News, contributed articles to journals such as Fellowship, The Christian Century, and Progressive, and authored several books and monographs, including THE MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT (1964), LIBERATION ETHICS (1972), and CONFRONTING CHURCH AND STATE: MEMOIRS OF AN ACTIVIST (1997).]

University. Uphaus served as executive secretary of the National Religion and Labor Foundation. He was forced to resign this post over his public denouncement of American involvement in Korea in the the early 1950s. Additionally, Uphaus lost a teaching post in Nebraska and the Methodist church suspended his license as a lay minister. In 1953, Uphaus became the executive director of the World Fellowship Center, a left-leaning, pacifist organization with offices in New Haven, Connecticut and Conway, New Hampshire. As a known pacifist, Uphaus became a target of the New Hampshire legislature and the state attorney general Louis C. Wyman during the age of McCarthyism. After being questioned about his own acts, Wyman asked for a list of guests who participated in a summer camp at the World Fellowship Center during 1953. Uphaus refused to release the names and was jailed for one year for contempt of court. His sentence was upheld in the U.S. Supreme Court in June 1959 and he spent one year in jail. Uphaus later published an autobiography, COMMITMENT (1963) and received several accolades including the Gandhi Peace Award. He continued working until the age of 80 when he retired and divided his time between New Haven and Florida. He died at the age of 92 at Yale-New Haven Hospital in October 1983.] Includes:

After graduate work at New York University, he served as a staff member with the Fellowship of Reconciliation. Walker first encountered Martin Luther King, Jr. as a guest speaker on Gandhi and nonviolence at Crozer Theological Seminary. In the 1950s, he was actively involved in the Civil Rights movement, working closely with MLK during the Montgomery bus boycott. He was with King in Montgomery when MLK was informed that his home had been bombed. In the 1960s, Walker recruited, organized and trained participants in the Freedom Rides, student sit-ins, and voter registration drives. Working out of Philadelphia as deputy coordinator, he helped to organize the August 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom and later was involved with the War on Poverty in Washington, D.C. During the Vietnam War, Walker organized countless antiwar, anti-nuclear and anti-chemical warfare demonstrations and consulted with Caesar Chavez on the issues of migrant farm workers. Among the other organizations with which he was involved in various capacities are the World Peace Brigade, Peace Brigades Internation, the Gandhi Institute, Liberation magazine, the Friends Suburban Project, and the Pennsylvania Committee to Abolish the Death Penalty. He edited the volumes TRAINING FOR NONVIOLENT ACTION (1973) and CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE (1975, with Christian Bay). Walker died on July 11, 2004 at the Barclay Friends Home in Pennsylvania after a long illness at the age of 83.

Box 90Folder 1*XII. India Trip.

- A. Manuscripts.
 - 1. Manuscripts by MLK.
 - a. "Impressions of India," typescript, 1 p., Mar. 6, 1959. [While traveling in New Delhi, India, MLK drafted answers to questions posed by CBS about Gandhian nonviolent tactics and the country in general.]
 - b. "Farewell Statement," typescript with holograph correction by MLK second to last line, 1 p., Mar. 9, 1959. [MLK read this version at a press conference held in New Delhi on the morning of March 9, 1959. Later that same evening, he recorded for broadcast over All India Radio a version that differs slightly in the opening sentences. Except for that change in the introduction, the statements are identical.]
 - c. "Statement of Dr. Martin Luther King upon Landing at New York City," carbon typescript, 1 p., Mar. 18, 1959. [While it is possible that MLK drafted this statement, it is likely that this speech was written by Dr. Lawrence Reddick who had arrived in New York City a few days before the Kings. These words were delivered to reporters at the Statler Hilton Hotel.]

 - g. "My Trip to India" (final); carbon typescript, with holograph notation "1959" in upper left hand corner, 12 p. (2 copies), ca. Apr. 1959. [This version incorporated MLK's holograph corrections from the earlier typescript draft.]
2. Manuscripts by other authors.
- a. "Notes for Conversation Between King and Nehru," typescript, with holograph correction by unknown hand, 1 p., Feb. 10, 1959. [It is not known exactly who drafted these notes, although the King Papers Project tentatively attributes them to Lawrence Reddick. MLK was originally scheduled to meet with Nehru on February 9, 1959 but his arrival in India was delayed. Nehru agreed to reschedule the meeting for the evening of February 10. Reddick, who had accompanied the Kings on their trip, later recalled that King, Coretta Scott King and he discussed the ideas which should be raised during the meeting. The eventual meeting between MLK and Nehru was also attended by Indira Gandhi and Lady Edwina Mountbatten.]
 - b. "Statement by Dr. _____ of India," typescript with pencil note in unknown hand "Articles on Non Violence", 3 p. (2 copies), ca. 1959.

7. Christopher Reynolds Foundation. [Founded in 1952, The Christopher Reynolds Foundation was created by singer and actress Libby Holman Reynolds in memory of her son, Christopher, who died at age 18 in a 1950 mountaineering accident. Mrs. Reynolds and her son both were involved in humanitarian causes and human rights activities. With the assistance of her legal counsel, Jack Clareman, she formed a private, grant-making organization dedicated to supporting innovative work in the areas of international peace, disarmament, civil rights and the combating of racism. Among the many projects they funded in these areas was Martin Luther King, Jr.'s 1959 trip to India which allowed the civil rights leader the opportunity to study first-hand the concepts and practices of social change through nonviolence which had been a hallmark of the life of Mahatma Gandhi. In 1965, the Foundation began to shift its funding to one area of interest for longer periods of time. From that period until 1972, the Foundation provided grants in the area of U.S.-China relations. From 1973 to 1995, the Reynolds Foundation focused on Southeast Asia (Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia) and since 1995, it has provided funding in the area of U.S. and Cuban relations. The Howard Gotlieb Archival Research Center also holds the papers of Libby Holman.]

E. Legal material.

1. Agreement between Powell-Savory Corporation, Publishers, and Martin Luther King, Jr; carbon typescript, unsigned, 1 p., Jan. 1959. [Before he made his trip to India, MLK was approached by the Powell-Savory Corporation, the publishers of the newspaper the New York Amsterdam News, to contract for a series of ten articles. MLK was to have detailed his experiences visiting India and the Soviet Union. It is possible that MLK considered this offer, which was to have paid $1500 total, with $500 up front and the balance paid upon publication of the final article, as a means of raising the last bit of funding he required for the trip. Eventually, he raised the necessary funds from other sources and never signed or executed this contract.]

427. Morris, Edita.
- a. CTL to Edita Morris, 1 p., Aug. 4, 1956. [Edita Morris (1902-1988) was a Swedish author and peace activist. Morris was born Edita Toll in southern Sweden in 1902. She spent her childhood in Stockholm and met her husband, American journalist Ira Morris, in that city in 1925. Ira's wealthy family background enabled the Morrises to travel extensively and keep several homes outside of France, where they settled. Their secure financial situation enabled Morris to pursue writing as a career, and she published short stories in numerous American periodicals during the Depression and World War II. She and her husband lived in New York City during the conflict. Following the Japanese surrender in August 1945, Morris's son visited Hiroshima and recounted his impressions of the ravaged city upon his return. Inspired by his descriptions of Japan and its capacity to recover from atomic fallout, Morris visited in 1955 and subsequently wrote her most famous novel, THE FLOWERS OF HIROSHIMA, in 1959. This work was a notable commercial success and has been translated into more than 35 languages. In addition to highlighting the plight of

- Japanese atomic bomb survivors through fiction, Morris also founded a recuperation facility, Hiroshima House of Rest, for the local wounded in 1957. Though her travels and pacifist activity, Morris met nonviolence activists around the world. She became an admirer of Martin Luther King, Jr. during the Montgomery bus boycott and strongly supported the integrationist civil rights movement. Like King, Morris had been to India and drew strength from the concept of nonviolent passive resistance. She sent him material about Hiroshima House later in the decade. Morris died in 1988. She left a large bequest to Hiroshima House of Rest enabling the facility to expand into the Hiroshima Foundation, an international pacifist organization.]

Box 100Folder 1*XIV. NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, Inc.

[The majority of this subseries consist of correspondence relating to events sponsored by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, including a dinner held in 1956. There are a few printed items in the collection, including a history of the organization produced in 1956. Initially the legal arm of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People under the leadership of Charles Hamilton Houston, the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund was incorporated in the fall of 1939 specifically for tax purposes. The incorporators included William Allen Neilson, Arthur B. Spingarn, William H. Hastie, Herbert H. Lehman, Mary White Ovington, Charles H. Toney and Hubert T. Delany. Under its charter, the Fund was primarily to provide free legal aid to African Americans who suffered legal injustice and could not afford representation, and to promote educational opportunities for African Americans. It would not conduct any business that would influence legislation. The organization was granted tax-exempt status in April 1940. The Fund worked to secure equal rights for all citizens as guaranteed by the U.S. Consitution. It championed important and groundbreaking cases dealing with voter rights (1944's Smith v. Allwright); desegregation of interstate buses (1946's Morgan v. Virginia) which led to the overturning of segregation of city buses in Montgomery (Gayle v. Browder, 1956) and integration of educational facilities (1950's McLaurin v. Oklahoma State Regents, 1954's Brown v. Board of Education, and 1962's Meredith v. Fair). In 1963, the Fund defended MLK against contempt charges for demonstrating without a permit in Birmingham, Alabama. The Fund tackled miscegenation with the cases of McLaughlin v. Florida (1964) and Loving v. Virginia (1967) and it has continued to advocate for education, voter protection, economic justice and criminal justice. The items in this series are arranged chronologically. See also, writings by MLK for draft of speech "A Realistic Look at the Question of Progress in the Area of Race Relations" which was delivered at the second annual dinner in 1956.]

Folder 2XV. National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

[The majority of this correspondence consists of invitations to MLK to come and speak at the various branches across the country. In most instances, MLK's schedule precluded him from accepting the invitation. Unless otherwise noted, the letters fall into this category. Descriptions of significant correspondence have been provided. The correspondence has been arranged geographically by state and then by branch name within the state state. One of the oldest and most prominent civil rights organizations in the United States, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was formed in 1909 in response to a race riot that occurred in Springfield, Illinois the previous summer. Many of the original members of the organization had ties to the Niagara Movement, a group of prominent African Americans who strove to achieve civil liberties and an end to racial discrimination. The first meeting of the NAACP occurred on February 12, 1909 but it did not adopt its name until its second meeting in May 1910 and formally incorporated in 1911. At that time, the NAACP outlined its mission: "To promote equality of rights and to eradicate caste or racial prejudice among citizens of the United States; to advance the interest of colored citizens; to secure for them impartial suffrage; and to increase their opportunities for securing justice in the courts, education for the children, employment according for their ability and complete equality before the law." During its early years, the NAACP focused on overturning Jim Crow laws in the courts, addressing concerns of racial segregation in residential districts, voting registration, and property rights. Under the leadership of its first African American secretary, James Wheldon Johnson, the organization's membership increased and the NAACP increased its lobbying efforts as well as its legal work. It soon became internationally recognized for its promotion of equal rights and equal protection. Its legal wing, led by Charles Hamilton Houston and Thurgood Marshall, took on major cases addressing suffrage and segregation and their successes led to the creation of the separate entity, the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. The NAACP continued its efforts to lobby for desegregation. In December 1955, the secretary for the Montgomery Branch, Rosa Parks, refused to relinquish her seat on a city bus and was arrested. The uproar led to the creation of the Montgomery Improvement Association, which under the leadership of a young minister named M.L. King, Jr., oversaw the Montgomery Bus Boycott. In response, the state of Alabama banned the NAACP. It took several years for the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn the ban and during that time, the organization suffered a loss of its leadership role as other organizations like the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), assumed that function. The NAACP remained active in other parts of the South -- advocating for school desegregation in Little Rock, Arkansas and lobbying for the passage of a Civil Rights Act. The legislation adopted in 1957 was watered down and there were attempts to bolster the laws, but it wasn't until the 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom that President Kennedy finally sent a bill to Congress. President Lyndon Johnson advocated for the adoption of the legislation which was passed in 1964. The following year saw the passage of the Voting Rights Act. The NAACP continued to work for civil rights. In the 1990s, it faced a series of financial and leadership crises. By the end of the decade, however, the NAACP had regained its footing and as it celebrated its centenary, it continues to focus on the areas of economics, health care, education, voter empowerment and the criminal justice system.]

continue to maintain a stance of nonviolence in the escalating conflict in Jacksonville, Florida and offers whatever support he can offer, including a personal visit to the city. During the early months of 1960, the Jacksonville Branch of the NAACP staged several protests against the increasingly segregationist stance and policies of Mayor Hayden Burns. Near the end of the August 1960, local whites used axe handles and baseball bats to attack a group of African American students staging a sit-in at a local lunch counter. The widely reported incident resulted in the arrest of more than 30 African Americans and nine Caucasians. MLK wrote to the president of the local NAACP encouraging the use of nonviolence and offering his services "in this moment of crisis."]

[National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE) was a liberal nuclear-pacifist organization formed in June 1957 as the Provisional Committee to Stop Nuclear Tests. Twenty-seven prominent individuals met at the invitation of Norman Cousins and Clarence Pickett at the Overseas Press Club in New York City to launch a campaign for a ban on nuclear testing. In the fall the group adopted the latter name. After their dramatic advertisement calling for an immediate suspension of the production and testing of nuclear weapons was published in the New York Times on November 15, 1957, SANE quickly gained support nationwide. The following summer 130 chapters representing 25,000 Americans had been established. Some notable supporters included Steve Allen, A. Philip Randolph, Walter Reuther, Benjamin Spock, Pablo Casals, and Eleanor Roosevelt. During the Eisenhower and Kennedy administration, SANE often solicited the support of Martin Luther King, Jr. by requesting his signature to appear on newspaper advertisements and petitions. In 1965, Coretta Scott King participated in the "Emergency Rally on Vietnam" held at Madison Square Garden and the march on Washington held in November.]

with holograph notations in unknown hand, 4 p., June 30, 1960. [In the letter, Cousins explains his positions on the U.S. Senate investigations by Thomas Dodd, Henry Abrams invoking of the Fifth Amendment and the demand for his resignation, the testimony of Linus Pauling before Senator Dodd's subcommittee, and Cousins' desire that outside stresses would not cause internal divisions in the organization. In the letter, Norman Cousins defends his decision to confront Senator Thomas Dodd who had made accusations in the U.S. Senate that an rally in support of banning nuclear testing was favoring the Soviet Union and that Communist infiltrators were attempting to influence American institutions and governmental policy. To that end, Senator Dodd called the head of the New York SANE, Henry Abrams who had ties with the American Labor Party, to testify before a subcommittee on Internal Security. Abrams invoked the Fifth Amendment and Cousins later confronted Abrams and dismissed him from his position. Not long after, Cousins and Norman Thomas persuaded the board of directors of the National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy to adopt a policy wherein communists or anyone with party or political allegiances that would render them unable to offer criticism of all world governments were banned from having anything to do with setting or adopting SANE's policies or programs. This controversial stance led to internal divisions within the organization over issues of civil liberties and the public perception of SANE. Several key leaders, including Linus Pauling, A.J. Muste, Robert Gilmore and Stewart Meacham, openly criticized SANE's refusal to stand up to what amounted to a "witchhunt" similar to that of Joseph McCarthy a few years earlier. Senator Dodd continued to subpoena members of the group, including Pauling and some two dozen others to testify before his subcommittee. Senator Dodd's investigations had their impact: SANE became a divided organization. Many members of the National Student Council for SANE left and formed the Student Peace Union. The National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy managed to regroup, although New York SANE suffered from the attack. For more information on the fallout from Senator Dodd's attack, see Barbara Deming's article in The Nation, March 11, 1961; Nat Hentoff's article in The Village Voice, March 23, 1961, and AN AMERICAN ORDEAL: THE ANTIWAR MOVEMENT

 - a. "Summer Caravan Will Tour U.S. For World Disarmament," press release, mimeograph, 1 p., ca. 1960. [Press release explaining the summer program in which students would "barnstorm" for the 1960 Campaign for Disarmament. The caravan would leave New York City in mid-June hoping to arrive in Los Angeles in time for the Democratic National Convention in early July. If a large enough group was traveling, it was planned for another group to head to Chicago for the Republican National Convention.]
 7. Daiber, Elfreida S., Mrs. (Cleveland Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy)
 - a. TLS to MLK, 1 p., May 20, 1958. [Mrs. Daiber writes to ask if MLK would lend his name to an advertisement to run in the Cleveland Press by the Cleveland Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. She notes that MLK's name had been on two previous advertisements but not on the one they planned to reprint.]
 - b. CTL to Mrs. E.S. Daiber, 1 p., May 31, 1958. [MLK grants permission to use his name in an advertisement.]
 - c. TLS to MLK, 1 p., June 11, 1958. [Mrs. Daiber informs MLK that his permission arrived too late for his name to be included in the newspaper reprint.]
 8. Exman, Eugene.
 - a. Carbon typescript memorandum to Members of the Sponsoring Committee, signed, with holograph notations by Dora McDonald and James R. Wood, 2 p., with enclosure, Jan. 11, 1961. [Form memorandum asking the recipient for the names of 10 contacts who would be willing to donate to SANE or for the recipients to raise money on their own for SANE from their circle of

- contacts.] Includes:
- (i) "Sane Comment: Peace and the Next President" and "Sane Comment: NATO as a Fourth Nuclear Power" by James P. Warburg, a photocopy of two articles published in The New York Times, 1 p., Dec. 5 and 12, 1960. [These were the first in a proposed series of newspaper articles to be published under the general title "Sane Comment". Norman Thomas wrote "Peace and the Next President" which was published on Dec. 5, 1960, and James P. Warburg wrote "NATO as a Fourth Nuclear Power" which was published on Dec. 12, 1960. Both articles appeared in The New York Times.]
 - b. Mimeograph with facsimile signature, with holograph notation by Dora McDonald, 1 p., May 9, 1961. [In this form letter, Exman follows up his January 11, 1961 fundraising letter asking the recipient for a list of names for the "Committee of 1000" project, which sought to find 1000 people willing to donate $100 apiece to SANE.]
9. Gilmore, Robert.
- a. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Feb. 19, 1960. [Gilmore writes to invite MLK to speak at a non-partisan educational meeting to be held in New York City at Madison Square Garden on May 19, 1960.]
 - b. CTL to Robert Gilmore, 1 p., Mar. 29, 1960. [MLK respectfully declines the invitation to speak at a non-partisan educational meeting sponsored by the National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Environment.]
10. Jack, Homer A.
- a. Mimeograph with facsimile signature, with MLK's holograph notation, 2 p., Nov. 23, 1960. [Form letter regarding the situation that developed after Senator Thomas Dodd began investigating SANE. Jack writes of the Greater New York Committee's decision to rescind its charter.]
 - b. Mimeograph with facsimile signature, with holograph notation by Dora McDonald, 1 p., with enclosures, Nov. 30, 1960. [Statement written by James Warburg in opposition to NATO becoming the fourth nuclear power and a copy of a "SANE Action" memorandum enclosed.]

Includes:

- (i) "Statement," mimeograph, 1 p., Nov. 1960. [This "statement" was drafted by James Warburg and was eventually published in The New York Times on Dec. 12, 1960. [For a copy of the article, see the letter from Eugene Exman dated January 11, 1961.] Warburg writes in support of the National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy's position opposing the Eisenhower administration's proposal to arm NATO members with nuclear weapons which would undermine President-elect John F. Kennedy's stance on disarmament. At the bottom of this document, which was enclosed with Homer Jack's form letter dated November 30, 1960, is a form giving the recipient the option to add their name to the above statement before its release to the press.]
- (ii) "SANE Action: No American Weapons for a New NATO Nuclear Force! Background for Action," mimeograph, 2 p., Nov. 30, 1960. [Action memorandum opposing the "giving or use of American nuclear weapons by NATO". This was a policy adopted at the November 21, 1960 board meeting and sent out before a NATO meeting scheduled for December 16 - 18, 1960.]
- c. TLS to MLK, with holograph notations by MLK and Dora McDonald, 1 p., Dec. 16, 1960. [Jack encloses a form that is required by law in New York state for organizations with national sponsors. MLK makes a notation to "Mail" and Dora McDonald indicates that the form was returned on December 20, 1960.]
- d. Telegram to MLK, Mar. 2, 1961. [Homer Jack sends an invitation to MLK to participate in a National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy rally scheduled to be held in Teaneck, N.J. on March 30, 1961.]
- e. CTL to Ruth Selly, 1 p., Mar. 2, 1961. [Ruth Selly had telephoned MLK's office and spoke with Dora McDonald. Mrs. Selly extended an invitation to MLK to speak in Englewood, N.J. under the auspices of SANE on March 30. MLK writes to respectfully decline the invitation.]
- f. CTL to Homer Jack, 1 p., Mar. 9, 1961. [MLK writes to Homer Jack and declines the invitation to speak in New Jersey on March 30, 1961. He encloses a copy of a letter to Ruth Selly in which MLK declines her telephoned

- invitation to speak under the auspices of the National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy.]
- g. TLS to MLK, with holograph shorthand by Dora E. McDonald, 1 p., with enclosure, Mar. 30, 1961. [Homer Jack enclosed a document outlining an exploratory conference on disarmament to be held in London. Homer Jack writes to invite MLK to lend his name to an international peace and disarmament conference to be held in London.] Includes:
- (i) "Confidential: Exploratory Conference on Survival Through Disarmament," mimeograph, 2 p., Mar. 22, 1961. [MLK was listed as one of the individuals who would be approached about personally sponsoring a moderate-sized conference consisting of individuals with non-governmental ties to explore how best to get all countries to "quicken the pace to comprehensive and controlled disarmament".]
- h. CTL to Homer A. Jack, 1 p., Apr. 11, 1961. [Writing on MLK's behalf as he is traveling, Dora McDonald informs Homer Jack that MLK is willing to serve as a sponsor for the proposed peace conference in London.]
- i. Mimeograph with facsimile signature, 1 p., with enclosure, May 9, 1961. [Form letter inviting sponsors of the National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy to attend a meeting at the home of Norman Cousins near Norwalk, Conn. on June 16 and 17, 1961.] Includes:
- (i) "Registration Form: Special National Board Meeting at Norwalk, Connecticut," mimeograph, 1 p., June 16-17, 1961 .
11. Keys, Donald.
- a. TLS to MLK, with holograph notation by Maude L. Ballou, 1 p., Oct. 29, 1958. [Keys refers to an enclosed copy of the text for the appeal to the "men of Geneva" which was to be published in The New York Times on October 31, 1958. That document is not part of this collection.]
- b. TLS with postscript to MLK, 1 p., with enclosures, Dec. 12, 1958. [Donald Keys, who traveled to Geneva with Robert Gilmore, encloses copies of a report to the individuals who signed the published newspaper statement and a copy of their joint statement as representatives of the signers of that published message. Keys also refers to an enclosure from Clarence Pickett but that document is not in this collection.] Includes:

- (i) "Report to: Signers to 'Men at Geneva Appeal', Executive Committee, National Committee For a Sane Nuclear Policy, and N.C.S.N.P. Leaders," mimeograph, 2 p., Nov. 1958.
 - (ii) "Statement by Robert Gilmore and Donald Keys as Representatives of the Signers of the Message 'To the Men of Geneva'," mimeograph, incomplete, 1 p. [The statement by Robert Gilmore and Donald Keys is missing the text of the published statement "To the Men of Geneva" that was published in The New York Times on October 31, 1958. A photocopy of the advertisement has been placed in the collection under printed material in this grouping.]
- c. CTL with facsimile signature, 1 p., with enclosure, ca. Apr. 1959. [An update to SANE members regarding the passage of Senate Resolution 96.] Includes:
- (i) "Senate Resolution 96: Statement," mimeograph, 4 p., Apr. 1959. [Includes the text of the statement of support as well as a complete list of signatories on the statement. See also the letter to MLK from Norman Cousins and Clarence Pickett dated March 31, 1959 and the "Signers of Statement in Support of Senate Resolution 96" filed in the professional material of this grouping.]
- d. Mimeograph with facsimile signature, 1 p., with enclosures, received Sep. 22, 1959. [In this form letter, Keys informs the recipient that the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy has altered its plans regarding a previously sent "statement". Instead of running the items together, they will be separated with "The President and the Russian" (timed to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's meeting with U.S. President Dwight Eisenhower in late September 1959) would be published separate from an "Open Letter to Eisenhower and Khrushchev". See Clarence Pickett's letter to MLK dated September 10, 1959 for an earlier draft of the statement.] Includes:
- (i) "The President and the Russians," mimeograph, 3 p., ca. late summer 1959.
- e. Mimeograph, 1 p., with enclosure, Nov. 1959. [Form letter enclosing a draft of a statement scheduled to be printed in The New York Times "next week".] Includes:

Box 104 cont'd.

- (i) Draft of "Of Candidates and Cranberries--Survival is a Non-Partisan Tool," mimeograph, 3 p. [This statement was published in The New York Times on November 20, 1959 and includes a list of the "signers".]
 - f. Mimeograph with facsimile signature, 1 p., with enclosure, ca. Jan. 1960. [In this form letter, Keys encloses a copy of the text for an upcoming advertisement to run in The New York Times including a list of signers.] Includes:
 - (i) "77% of Americans Now Favor A Ban Against Atomic Testing," mimeograph, 5 p., ca. Jan. 1960. [This is a draft of the full page advertisement that was published in The New York Times on February 8, 1960 under the title "Three out of Four Americans Favor a Ban on Atomic Testing". There is a pagination error as two pages are labeled "page 3". Also included is a list of National Board Members and Additional Signers. In the final published version, MLK was listed among the National Sponsors.]
 - g. Memo to unknown recipient, 1 p., with enclosure, ca. Feb. 1960. Includes:
 - (i) "Scientists Ask Robot Controls For Test Ban," mimeograph, 1 p., Feb. 9, 1960. [Press release touting a telegram sent to Secretary of State Christian Herter from several scientists who were encouraged by the Russians acceptance of robot control stations which might lead to a total ban on nuclear weapons testing.]
 - h. Carbon typescript with facsimile signature, with MLK's holograph notation, 1 p., Feb. 19, 1960.
 - i. Telegram to MLK, with MLK's holograph notation. (2 copies), Mar. 24, 1960. [Telegram asking recipient to contact President Eisenhower and press for the U.S. to advocate a position of a moratorium on the testing of nuclear weapons. One of these telegrams was sent collect and a charge of $1.10 was incurred.]
12. Low, Clarence H. Mimeograph with facsimile signature, 1 p., with enclosure, ca. summer 1958. [In this fund raising form letter, Low, then the treasurer of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, writes to solicit funds and to ask the recipients to contact members of Congress to push for a United Nations-monitored cessation of nuclear testing.] Includes:

- a. "We Are Facing A Danger Unlike Any Danger That Has Ever Existed ..." reprint, 1 p., May 29, 1958. [A reprint of an advertisement from The Reporter dated May 29, 1958. The advertisement was originally published as a full-page in The New York Times on November 15, 1957.]
13. Pauling, Linus. TLS with holograph postscript to MLK, 1 p., with enclosure, June 15, 1961. [Pauling sends a copy of a letter questioning the organization's implementation of a policy statement designed to weed out those with perceived Communist affiliations. Linus Pauling was called to testify before a senate subcommittee chaired by Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut that was investigating the infiltration of peace organizations, and specifically the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (NCSNP), by alleged Communists and Communist sympathizers. The mimeograph letter dated June 15, 1961 was Pauling's reaction to an effort by NCSNP to implement a policy that would ask for the resignations of those members who had "their good faith questioned". Pauling perceived the actions of the NCSNP as a form of McCarthyism.] Includes:
- a. "Memorandum To the Sponsors and Directors of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy," mimeograph, 2 p., June 15, 1961.
14. Pickett, Clarence.
- a. TLS to MLK, with holograph shorthand by Maude L. Ballou in pencil and holograph notation by unknown hand in blue ink, 1 p., June 26, 1959. [Clarence Pickett invites MLK to be a sponsor of SANE assuring him that all sponsors would receive periodic reports and no change in policies would take place without consultation.]
 - b. CTL to Clarence Pickett, 1 p., July 7, 1959. [Maude Ballou informs Clarence Pickett that MLK is away from the office for a period of two to three weeks.]
 - c. Mimeograph form letter, 1 p., July 1959. Includes:
 - (i) "Some Things You Should Know," mimeograph, 6 p., undated. [This draft of a statement circulated to members of Congress in the summer of 1959 appeared in slightly different form as an advertisement in The New York Times on August 13, 1959 under the title "Humanity Has a Common Will and Right to Survive!" This document was the

- sixth in a series of "Statements for Americans" prepared by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, most of which were published as full-page advertisements in newspapers like The New York Times. "Some Things You Should Know" was the sixth in the series and focused on the hazards of radioactive fallout and the potential aftermath of a nuclear confrontation. It urged the reader to contact the President and advocate for a policy of not testing any more nuclear weapons. MLK's name appeared as one of the signers of this statement in the published advertisement which ran in The New York Times on August 13, 1959.]
- d. CTL to Clarence Pickett, 1 p., July 27, 1959. [Maude Ballou informs Clarence Pickett that MLK is still out of the office but has given permission for the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy to add his name as one of their sponsors.]
- e. Mimeograph with stamped signature, with holograph notation by Maude Ballou, 1 p., with enclosure, Sep. 10, 1959. [Enclosed is a copy of the text which will appear as an advertisement as the "Seventh Statement for Americans" sponsored by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. See also correspondence from Donald Keys received September 22, 1959 for a slightly different version of the text of the advertisement.] Includes:
- (i) "An Open Letter to President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev," mimeograph form letter, 1 p., Sep. 1959. [At the bottom, is a form for recipients to add their name to the above letter that will be published as an advertisement.]
- f. TLS to MLK, 1 p., with enclosure, Sep. 30, 1959. [Pickett writes to thank MLK for agreeing to be a sponsor of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy and invites him to attend the Second Annual Conference to be held in New York City on October 25 - 26, 1959. He encloses a reply form.] Includes:
- (i) RSVP Form: Second Annual Conference of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, mimeograph, 1 p., Oct. 25-26, 1959.
- g. Mimeograph with stamped signature, 1 p., with enclosure, ca. Feb. 1960. [In anticipation of the meeting of the Committee of Ten Nations on Disarmament in Geneva from March 15 to April 29, 1960, the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy drafted a statement on disarmament which was enclosed with this form letter.]

Includes:

- (i) "... Security Through Arms Control," mimeograph, 3 p., ca. Feb. 1960. [In anticipation of the meeting of the Committee of Ten Nations on Disarmament in Geneva from March 15 to April 29, 1960, the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy drafted this statement advocating for the United States to adopt a stance of "total, universal and inspected disarmament".]
 - h. Typescript copy of telegram to Clarence Pickett, 1 p., Mar. 9, 1960. [MLK sends a telegram agreeing to allow his name to appear as one of the sponsors of the statement "Security Through Arms Control" when it appears in print.]
15. Scholefield, Harry B., Ben Seaver and Phillip Drath (Northern California Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy).
- a. TLS to MLK, 2 p., Apr. 1, 1960. [The body of the letter refers to several enclosures, including a full-page advertisement from the San Francisco Chronicle, but none of the items appear to be part of this collection. Scholefield, Seaver and Drath wrote to MLK to solicit his participation in a conference they were planning to hold in San Francisco on May 13 and May 14, 1960.]
 - b. CTL to Harry B. Scholefield, 1 p., May 4, 1960. [MLK praises the cause of nuclear disarmament but respectfully declines the invitation to attend the conference in San Francisco on May 13-14, 1960.]
16. Stern, Albert (Cleveland Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy).
- a. TLS to MLK, 1 p., Feb. 13, 1961. [Stern, one of the founders of the Cleveland Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy and an activist for social justice, wrote to invite MLK to be a principal speaker at a Memorial Day Peace Rally scheduled for May 1961.]
 - b. CTL to Albert Stern, with Miss McDonald's holograph shorthand, 1 p., Feb. 20, 1961. [Dora McDonald wrote to inform Albert Stern that MLK would be out of the office for a two-week period.]
 - c. CTL to Albert Stern, 1 p., Mar. 6, 1961. [MLK writes to decline Albert Stern's invitation to speak at a Peace Rally in

Cleveland on Memorial Day 1961.]

17. Summy, Ralph V., Jr. (Greater Boston Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy).
 - a. TLS to MLK, with holograph notations by MLK in blue ink and by Lillie Hunter in pencil, 1 p., Aug. 27, 1960. [Ralph Summy writes to ask MLK to send a prepared statement to be printed for a peace rally in Boston, Mass. on October 1, 1960. The deadline for the statement is September 14. The letter is addressed to MLK in Montgomery, so there was a delay in its delivery as MLK and his family had relocated to Atlanta, Ga. in January 1960.]
 - b. CTLS to MLK from Ralph V. Summy, Jr., 1 p., Aug. 27, 1960. [A signed carbon copy of Ralph Summy's letter to MLK asking for a statement for the program of a peace rally to be held in Boston.]
 - c. CTL to Ralph V. Summy, Jr., 1 p., Oct. 7, 1960. [James R. Wood writes on MLK's behalf and explains that there had been a delay in the delivery of the letter and its arrival so late precluded sending a statement in time to meet the printer's deadline.]

18. Tag, Barbara (New Jersey Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy).
 - a. TLS to MLK from Barbara Tag, 1 p., Apr. 14, 1961. [As coordinator of the New Jersey Students for a Sane Nuclear Policy, Barbara Tag wrote to MLK asking if he would address a meeting in East Orange, N.J. on either May 9 or May 10, 1961.]
 - b. CTL to Barbara Tag, 1 p., Apr. 19, 1961. [Dora McDonald writes to inform Barbara Tag that MLK will be unable to accept her invitation to speak in New Jersey on either May 9 or May 10, 1961.]

19. Thomas, Trevor. Telegram to MLK, Mar. 14, 1958. [Executive secretary Trevor Thomas writes to ask if MLK will lend his name to a statement to be published.]

[At the second meeting of what became the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in New Orleans in February 1957, MLK announced plans to stage a "pilgrimage" to Washington, D.C. if President Dwight Eisenhower continued to refuse to voice his support of desegregation in the South and to mark the third anniversary of the Supreme Court's landmark decision regarding desegregation in public schools. After MLK returned from a trip abroad to Africa and Europe, he met with Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and A. Phillip Randolph of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids. Despite some misgivings by Wilkins, a formal planning meeting was held on April 5, 1957 with over 70 individuals, including Ella Baker, Bayard Rustin and Stanley Levison, representing a variety of groups. A date of May 17, 1957 was chosen for the Prayer Pilgrimage to Washington, D.C. King, Wilkins and Randolph issued "A Call to a Prayer Pilgrimage for Freedom". The Pilgrimage was intended to be a nonviolent protest in favor of Civil Rights legislation with the emphasis on securing voting rights for the disenfranchised African Americans in the South. At noon on May 17, a crowd of more than 25,000 people had gathered at the Lincoln Memorial where the three-hour event unfolded. Harry Belafonte and Mahalia Jackson performed and A. Philip Randolph, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., Howard University president Mordecai Johnson and Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, one of the co-founders of the SCLC, addressed the crowd. The last speaker was MLK who electrified the crowds with his "Give Us the Ballot" speech. Although the Pilgrimage did not sway President Eisenhower, who continued to refuse to meet with African American leaders, it did solidify King's position as a leader on a national level. Having appeared on the cover of Time magazine in February 1957 and with the resultant press and exposure following the Prayer Pilgrimage, it became clear that the Civil Rights Movement had found its leader.]

Box 106Folder 1*XVIII. Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)

Southern Christian Leadership Congress (SCLC) is a nonprofit, non-sectarian, inter-faith, advocacy organization committed to non-violent action to achieve social, economic, and political justice. In January of 1957, Martin Luther King, Jr. invited 60 ministers and leaders to Ebenezer Baptist Church to form an organization to coordinate and support nonviolent direct action as a method of desegregating bus systems in the South. On February 14th, the Negro Leaders Conference on Nonviolent Integration was founded in New Orleans. At the meeting an Executive Board of Directors, and elected officers were established, which included Martin Luther King, Jr. as President, Dr. Ralph David Abernathy as Financial Secretary-Treasurer, Rev. C. K. Steele of Tallahassee, Florida as Vice President, Rev. T.J. Jemison of Baton Rouge, Louisiana as Secretary, and Attorney I.M. Augustine of New Orleans, Louisiana as General Counsel, along with Ella J. Baker and Bayard Rustin. King headed the organization from its founding until his death in 1968. SCLC differed from the NAACP and CORE in that it operated as an umbrella organization of affiliates, including the Nashville Christian Leadership Council and Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights. Partnering with the Highlander Folk School, SCLC trained black communities and churches on nonviolence by hosting leadership programs and opening citizenship schools. The headquarters of SCLC were initially set up in the Savoy Hotel in Montgomery by Ella Baker. When MLK accepted the co-pastorate of Ebenezer Baptist Church in 1960, the SCLC was moved to Atlanta where under Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, executive director from 1960 to 1964, its offices were at 208 Auburn Avenue and later 41 Exchange Place. During the 1960s, SCLC spearheaded several campaigns and voter registration drives including the Albany Movement; Birmingham campaign known as Project C; the 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom; St. Augustine Protests; Selma Voting Rights Campaign; March to Montgomery; Grenada Freedom Movement; Chicago Freedom Movement; and the Poor People's Campaign. In 1968, Ralph Abernathy took over SCLC and led the Poor People's Campaign. Since Abernathy's resignation in 1977, SCLC has been headed by Joseph E. Lowery (1977-97); Martin Luther King, III (1997-2004); Fred Shuttlesworth (2004), Charles Kenzie Steele, Jr. (2004-09) and Dr. Bernice Albertine King (2009-). Additional materials on this organization are held in the Morehouse College Martin Luther King Jr. Collection at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Inc.; The King Library and Archives at the King Center; and at Emory University (all located in Atlanta, Ga.).

Box 115Folder 1*XIX. Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF).

[The Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF) was established in 1946 as the educational arm of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare. SCEF became a separate organization the following year and was based out of New Orleans. James Anderson Dombrowski directed the organization and edited its monthly newsletter, The Southern Patriot, which became The Southern Struggle. Dombrowski, along with Aubrey Williams helped establish the group as a leading proponent of integration and civil rights in the South during the 1950s. Anne and Carl Braden directed SCEF from the mid 1960s to the 1970s. SCEF worked closely with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and other civil rights groups. In 1963, police raided the New Orleans offices and arrested officials for violating Louisiana's anti-communist laws. After SCEF challenged the arrests in court, the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the laws in 1965. A year later the Bradens moved the SCEF offices to Louisville, Kentucky. During the 1970s, tension rose within the organization between a group of Black Panthers and members of the Communist Party, and continued after the headquarters moved to Atlanta. Financial problems caused the group to disband in the early 1980s. The Southern Conference Educational Fund Records, 1958-1985, are housed in the Special Collections and Archives at the Georgia State University Library in Atlanta, Ga.]

A. Correspondence.

1. Braden, Anne and Carl. [Carl James Braden (1914-1975) was a union organizer and reporter for a local newspaper in his native Louisville, Kentucky when he met Anne G. McCarty (1924-2006) in 1947. The couple married the following year and became politically active, supporting the Progressive Party and working as publicity directors for the Congress of Industrial Organizations.]

The Bradens achieved notoriety in 1954 when they purchased a home in an all-white neighborhood in Louisville and, in a pre-arranged agreement, re-sold the property to a black family as a means of protesting racial segregation. The house was bombed and the Bradens were charged with sedition and inciting to riot by the state of Kentucky. Because Carl had been a supporter of Eugene Debs, their detractors attempted to link the Communist Party to their efforts. The couple was tried in a case that garnered national attention. Carl was convicted and sentenced to 15 years in prison, but was freed by a U.S. Supreme Court ruling after serving eight months. Anne went on to detail the events in the 1958 book THE WALL BETWEEN. The resulting publicity resulted in difficulties for the Bradens. Carl was blacklisted from working in journalism. He and his wife accepted positions as field organizers for the Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF). They also worked on the organization's monthly newspaper The Southern Patriot, as well as produced numerous pamphlets and press releases publicizing major civil rights issues. In 1959, Carl Braden was called before the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities. His refusal to testify resulted in a jail sentence of one year. This time, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld his conviction and, despite pleas for clemency, he was jailed. Upon his release, he resumed his civil rights work with the SCEF, jointly serving with his wife as the organization's executive directors from 1967 to 1972 when they were forced to "retire" over ideological differences with the SCEF. Carl Braden died of a heart attack in 1975. His wife continued to work for social justice and civil rights up to her death in 2006. The Carl and Anne Braden Papers are housed at the University of Tennessee Library.]

 - f. TLS to MLK, with postscript, 1 p., Apr. 30, 1959. [Mrs. Braden thanks MLK for his hospitality extended to her and her husband Carl when they visited Montgomery. She encloses two items of interest for MLK: a brochure about the Walker-Lassiter case in North Carolina that tests the discriminatory use of literacy requirements in voting laws and a reprint from the Washington Post of an advertisement calling for the abolition of the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities. She also reiterates the SCEF's interest in providing financial assistance for a voter registration program. (Note: neither of the enclosures were found in this collection.)]
 - g. TLS to MLK, with postscript, 4 p., Sep. 23, 1959. [Mrs. Braden reports on the testimony of Ed Friend who attempted to discredit many who attended events celebrating the 25th Anniversary of the Highlander Folk School in 1957, including MLK. Friend testified that MLK had advocated for the murder of white people in order to force the federal government to intervene in the conflicts in the Southern states. Mrs. Braden also quotes local newspaper coverage of the testimony. Edwin Hugo Friend, Sr. (1912-1991) was born in October 1912 in Virginia but his family later settled in Georgia. After graduating high school, he enrolled in Georgia State College and later served during World War II with the U.S. Army Air Corps 342nd Bomber Squadron. During his military service, Friend developed his skills as a photographer. Returning to Georgia, he worked for the State Game and Fish Commission and became noted for his wildlife pictures. He served as official photographer for four governors, beginning with Marvin Griffin. While working for Governor Griffin, Friend filmed a variety of individuals including Rosa Parks, Martin Luther King, Jr., Ralph Abernathy and Pete Seeger who were attending the twenty-

- fifth anniversary of the Highlander Folk School over Labor Day weekend in September 1957. Friend's images included integrated social activities ranging from swimming to dancing to dining. Still photographs and some of the silent footage were used by the Georgia Commission on Education as propaganda linking Highlander Folk School and leaders of the Civil Rights Movement (especially Dr. King) with Communism. Friend also testified in hearings that attempted to shut down the school in 1959. Injured in an automobile accident in 1962, Friend retired from his state job and traveled the world. He died on September 6, 1991. There is an Ed Friend Visual Materials Collection at the Richard B. Folder 4XX. Southern Negro Leaders Conference on Transportation and Nonviolent Integration.

[Southern Negro Leaders Conference on Transportation and Nonviolent Integration was the bridge organization between the Montgomery Improvement Association and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. The conference was an initiative to spearhead a campaign for integrated transportation in the South. MLK, C.K. Steele, and Fred L. Shuttlesworth issued the call for black leaders to attend the conference at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta on January 10-11, 1957. The conference was based around seven working papers which offered strategies to improve voter registration, bus integration, and protests. MLK collaborated on the documents with Bayard Rustin, Ella Baker, and Stanley Levison. During the evening of January 9, 1957, four churches were firebombed resulting in more than $50,000 in damage. The Bell Street Baptist Church and the Mount Olive Baptist Church were the hardest hit and were deemed unusable by the local authorities. The Hutchinson Baptist Church and the First Baptist Church along with the home of Rev. Ralph Abernathy were also attacked and sustained damage. MLK remained in Montgomery to assist in dealing with the crisis while his father and wife took his place in Atlanta. The ministers who attended the Southern Negro Leaders Conference in Atlanta issued a statement dedicating themselves to the principle of nonviolence. The group reconvened in Nashville in February and later adopted the name of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.]

"A Statement to the South and Nation, issued by the Southern Leaders Conference on Transportation and Non-Violent Integration, attended by 60 Negro Leaders from 29 Communities of ten Southern States, called by Rev. M.L. King, Jr., Rev., F.L. Shuttlesworth, Rev. C.K. Steel at Ebenezer Baptist Church," mimeograph, with holograph notations by MLK, 8 p. [Manifesto issued by the African American ministers attending the Southern Negro Leaders Conference in Atlanta, Ga. The ministers encourage African Americans to adopt a stance of nonviolence, ask Caucasians to adopt a more "Christian" attitude, and implore President Eisenhower to enforce recent Supreme Court rulings on desegregation, Vice President Nixon to make a tour of southern states, and Attorney General Brownell to meet with representatives of the conference to discuss the "responsibility of the Department of Justice in maintaining order in several areas where Negroes and whites who stand up for justice fear for their lives."]
- B. "Call for Action on Bombing of Churches," carbon typescript, 1 p., Jan. 10, 1957. [Statement issued by the African American ministers meeting in Atlanta on the bombings of churches and parsonages in Montgomery, Alabama. The document deplors the acts and calls on every American to denounce the actions, asks every Christian church in the United States to set aside the Sunday of Brotherhood week in February as a day of repentance and prayer and forwards the suggestions to Dr. J.H. Jackson and Bishop D. Ward Nichols of the National Council of Churches asking that they spread the word to every Christian denomination.]

[Drafted by Bayard Rustin, this paper raises the issue of the necessity for a group to coordinate protests of segregation in transportation and whether or not protests similar to that of Montgomery should be employed throughout the South.]

2. “Working Paper #2: The Next Stop for Mass Action in the Struggle for Equality,” mimeograph, with holograph notations in unidentified hand, 1 p., Jan. 10-11, 1957. [In this working paper drafted by Bayard Rustin, raises the issue of African American suffrage and how it best can be achieved.]
3. “Working Paper #3: Unified Planning for Bus Integration,” mimeograph, with holograph notations in unidentified hand, 1 p., Jan. 10-11, 1957. [In this paper drafted by Bayard Rustin, the issue raised is how regional support and cooperation over the issue of desegregation of transportation can best be accomplished. Suggestions include fund raising, seeking support from sympathetic whites, bolstering morale and additional protests are proffered.]
4. “Working Paper #4: The Relationship of Community Economic Power Groups to the Struggle,” mimeograph, 1 p., Jan. 10, 1957. [This paper raises the issue of the economic effects of the bus boycott, particularly on local businesses and whether such efforts are transferrable to other areas in the Southern United States.]
5. “Working Paper #5: How to Deal with Violence and Maintain a Nonviolent Discipline,” mimeograph, with holograph notations in unidentified hand, 2 p., Jan. 10-11, 1957. [This paper examines how nonviolent opposition in the face of violence would be enacted.]
6. “Working Paper #6: The Relation of State Power to a Non-Violent Campaign,” mimeograph, with holograph notations in unidentified hand, 2 p., Jan. 10-11, 1957. [This paper addresses how to deal with such diverse law-enforcement groups as the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), state and local police, the National Guard and the U.S. Army when they are required to intervene to maintain law and order.]
7. “Working Paper #7: The Role of Law in Our Struggle, Its Advantages and Limitations,” mimeograph, with holograph notations in unidentified hand, 2 p., Jan. 10-11, 1957. [This paper, probably drafted by Bayard Rustin, suggests that the time has come to stop relying on legislative action and to focus more on community action as it is on the grass-roots level that the legal decisions will be implemented. The document states that "direct action is our most potent political weapon" and that such action is not "civil disobedience" but "civil obedience" to the highest law of the land.]

Box 116Folder 1*XXI. Southern Regional Council (SRC).

[The Southern Regional Council (SRC), formerly the Commission on Interracial Cooperation (CIC) founded in 1919, was organized in 1944 by sociologist and former CIC president, Howard W. Odum. SRC was an interracial organization that attempted to address the southern race problem through research and education. During the 1940s, 50s, and 60s, SRC formed local and state Human Relations Councils, and published studies documenting race discrimination in education and employment. The council's journal Southern Changes, originally known as New South, was a resource used during the civil rights movement to provide information on economic, social, and political conditions in the South. The papers of the Southern Regional Council, 1944-1968, are held at the Robert W. Woodruff Library of the Atlanta University Center, Atlanta, Ga.]

4. Fleming, Harold C. [Harold C. Fleming (1922-1992) was a white southerner who developed a commitment to expanding civil rights, improving race relations, and securing economic justice for black Americans as a result of his military service during World War II, where he commanded black troops. The indignities visited upon black soldiers shocked Fleming, and he decided to return to his native Atlanta as a civil rights activist after the war and the completion of his interrupted studies at Harvard College. In 1947 he joined the staff of the Southern Regional Council (SRC), a private organization long active in community education, suffrage reform, and improving the lives of black southerners. His SRC experience provided the launching pad for a life in the movement. He served as executive director of the SRC from the mid-1950s until 1961.]

Box 117Folder 1*XXIII. United Packinghouse Workers of America (UPWA).

[The United Packinghouse Workers of America (UPWA) was a labor union that represented workers in the meatpacking industry. The UPWA was originally chartered as the Packinghouse Workers Organizing Committee by the Congress of Industrial Organizations in 1937. The UPWA was aligned with the radical Left and committed to interracial cooperation. In 1949 the union began pursuing anti-discrimination activities. The following year it created an Anti-Discrimination Department, dedicated to ending racial discrimination in meat packing plants and working against segregation in local communities. During the 1950s and 1960s, the UPWA was a large supporter of the civil rights movement through fundraising and participation in campaigns nationwide. UPWA Vice President, Russell Lasley attended the founding meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Council (SCLC). SCLC helped the UPWA launch the Fund for Democracy in the South and organized locals in southern plants. As an ally for the UPWA, Martin Luther King, Jr. sat on the Public Advisory Review Commission to oversee compliance with the AFL-CIO's Ethical Practices Code, after the U.S. Congress' House Committee on Un-American Activities accused the organization of being a Communist entity. Due to the massive job cuts, the UPWA merged with its rival, Amalgamated Meat Cutters, in 1968.]

King, Martin Luther, Jr.
#127
Series XIV: Printed Material

Scope and Content Note for This Series:

This series is divided into five groupings: articles about MLK, including the three Time magazines on which he was featured on the cover; programs, flyers and posters advertising appearances by MLK; newspaper and magazine clippings that were maintained by MLK's offices, many from African American newspapers; subscriptions, periodicals and various printed items that were sent to MLK or CSK; and ephemera. Published writings that carry MLK's by-line, including articles, speeches and sermons as well as his column "People in Action" that appeared in New York Amsterdam News in the early 1960s, are located in Writings by Martin Luther King, Jr. Correspondence and a transcript from MLK's appearance on the television program "The Nation's Future" during which he engaged in a debate with columnist James Kilpatrick are located in Writings by Martin Luther King, Jr. Published writings by authors who sent material to MLK, including articles, poems, and nonfiction are located in Writings by Other Authors.

Arrangement Note for This Series:

The groupings of printed material are arranged chronologically.

Moore was born in Barbados in 1878 and emigrated to the United States as a youth where he encountered racism and began his life's work as an activist. Self-taught, he founded the Pioneer Cooperative Society, a collection of grocery stores that stocked goods from the West Indies in 1915. After dabbling in Socialism, Moore went on to create the People's Educational Forum (later the Harlem Educational Fund), which organized lectures and debates. He became active in labor issues and in politics, serving as a member of the board of the American Negro Labor Congress, drafting a resolution on race that was adopted at an international convention and working on the case of the Scottsboro boys in the 1930s through his involvement with the International Labor Defense. In 1940, Moore founded Pathway Press which reissued THE LIFE AND TIMES OF FREDERICK DOUGLASS. Some twenty years later, he created the Committee to Present the Truth About the Name "Negro" and published his own book THE NAME "NEGRO": ITS ORIGIN AND EVIL USE, in which he argued that the term "Negro" was used as a tool of oppression and that the preferred term would be "Afroamerican", a precursor to today's "African American."] Mimeograph, 1 p., May 29, 1960.

Folder 1

I. Awards, Citations and Plaques.

- A. "Social Justice Award of the Religion and Labor Foundation," citation mounted on plaque, signed, Apr. 24, 1957. [Item is loose in box. See also: Writings by Martin Luther King, Jr. for a manuscript for "This Is a Great Time to Be Alive," the speech MLK delivered when he accepted this award; and see also: Correspondence: Geographic – Organizations and Other Institutions – District of Columbia (D.C.) – National Religion and Labor Foundation, for letters from John G. Ramsay regarding this award, Award was presented to MLK for his "outstanding services in the advancement of human welfare." Citation signed by John G. Ramsay, co-chair for labor, and Isador B. Hoffman, co-chair for religion.
- B. "Man of the Year," plaque with engraved citation attached, May 25, 1957. [Item is loose in box. For correspondence relating to this award, see the letters between Eugene Davidson and MLK dated June 3, 1957 and June 11, 1957 filed with Subject Files: National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (District of Columbia Branch). MLK was unable to receive in person the award presented by the Capital Press Club in Washington, D.C. in May 1957. It was accepted by Eugene Davidson, the president of the District of Columbia Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Davidson intended to present it to MLK in June 1957 when MLK was in Washington, D.C. to attend Howard University's commencement, but circumstances precluded it. Instead, at MLK's request, the plaque was mailed to Montgomery, Ala. Awarded to MLK for his leadership during the Montgomery bus boycott.
- C. "Certificate of Merit," printed form, signed June 3, 1957. [Printed citation presented to MLK for "meritorious achievement and outstanding leadership in the fields of Social Welfare and Human Relations" by the Alabama Association of Women's Clubs, signed by president Mabel L. Neely and recording secretary, Sallye P. Harris.]
- D. "Letter from Abraham Lincoln to Henry L. Pierce Presented to MLK by Brown University," reproduction of ALS to Henry L. Pierce and others from Abraham Lincoln, 5 p., Nov. 10, 1960. [1960 marked the centenary of Lincoln's election to the U.S. presidency. The McLellan Collection comprised over 6,000 items by and about Lincoln which were amassed by Charles Woodbury McLellan (1836-1918). Five years after McLellan's death, John D. Rockefeller purchased the collection and donated it to Brown University in memory of John H. Hay who had served as one of Lincoln's secretaries. Subsequent bequests and donations has increased the collection to well over 30,000 items. The Lincoln letter addressed to Pierce and others expresses regret at not being able to travel to Boston for a celebration in honor of Thomas Jefferson's birth. Instead, he sends the letter which is intended to be read aloud and which recounts a story that makes the Republican Party the true heirs of Jefferson. The text of the letter is below.]

“Gentlemen, Your kind note inviting me to attend a Festival in Boston, on the 13th. Inst. in honor of the birth-day of Thomas Jefferson, was duly received. My engagements are such that I can not attend. Bearing in mind that about seventy years ago, two great political parties were first formed in this country, that Thomas Jefferson was the head of one of them, and Boston the head-quarters of the other, it is both curious and interesting that those supposed to descend politically from the party opposed to Jefferson, should now be celebrating his birth-day in their own original seat of empire, while those claiming political descent from him have nearly ceased to breathe his name everywhere. Remembering too, that the Jefferson party were formed upon their supposed superior devotion to the personal rights of men, holding the rights of property to be secondary only, and greatly inferior, and then assuming that the so-called democracy of to-day, are the Jefferson, and their opponents, the anti-Jefferson parties, it will be equally interesting to note how completely the two have changed hands as to the principle upon which they were originally supposed to be divided. The democracy of to-day hold the liberty of one man to be absolutely nothing, when in conflict with another man's right of property. Republicans, on the contrary, are for both the man and the dollar; but in cases of conflict, the man before the dollar. I remember once being much amused at seeing two partially intoxicated men engage in a fight with their great-coats on, which fight, after a long, and rather harmless contest, ended in each having fought himself out of his own coat, and into that of the other. If the two leading parties of this day are really identical with the two in the days of Jefferson and Adams, they have performed about the same feat as the two drunken men. But soberly, it is now no child's play to save the principles of Jefferson from total overthrow in this nation. One would start with great confidence that he could convince any sane child that the simpler propositions of Euclid are true; but, nevertheless, he would fail, utterly, with one who should deny the definitions and axioms. The principles of Jefferson are the definitions and axioms of free society. And yet they are denied, and evaded, with no small show of success. One dashingly calls them "glittering generalities" another bluntly calls them "self evident lies" and still others insidiously argue that they apply only to "superior races." These expressions, differing in form, are identical in object and effect the supplanting the principles of free government, and restoring those of classification, caste, and legitimacy. They would delight a convocation of crowned heads, plotting against the people. They are the vanguard the miners, and sappers of returning despotism. We must repulse them, or they will subjugate us. This is a world of compensations; and he who would be no slave, must consent to have no slave. Those who deny freedom to others, deserve it not for themselves; and, under a just God, can not long retain it. All honor to Jefferson to the man who, in the concrete pressure of a struggle for national independence by a single people, had the coolness, forecast, and capacity to introduce into a merely revolutionary document, an abstract truth, applicable to all men and all times, and so to embalm it there, that to-day, and in all coming days, it shall be a rebuke and a stumbling-block to the very harbingers of re-appearing tyranny and oppression. Your obedient Servant A. LINCOLN."

- E. "Citation to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.," TS, signed, 2 p., Nov. 17, 1960. [Citation to MLK for his indirect responsibility for the election of John F. Kennedy as president, presented by the Hills Chapel Baptist Church, Athens, Ga., signed by president L. M. Terrill.]
- F. "Citation," broadside printed document, signed, Feb. 2, 1961; measures 17.75 x 11.25". [Note: located in Map Case 1, Drawer 3, not Box 138. Citation given to MLK at the 13th Annual Roosevelt Day Dinner held at the Hotel Astor in New York City. Awarded to MLK in part for "his efforts to bring all Americans their Constitutional rights of equality under law". Signed by Samuel H. Beer, National Chair of the Americans for Democratic Action, and Herbert H. Lehman and Gretchen Finletter, Co-Chairs of the National Committee for Roosevelt Day.]
- G. "Ad Humanos Award," plaque, from the Institute of Adult Education, Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Bayonne, New Jersey, 1962. [Note: located in Package 1, not Box 138. Letters regarding this award and its presentation are held at The King Center, Atlanta, Ga. Signed by dean Stanley P. Kosakowski, president Msgr. Anthony Tralka, and director Stanley M. Grabowski.]
- H. "Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America Award," TS citation, signed and framed, Oct. 18, 1963. [Item is loose in box. Award presented to MLK for his leadership and efforts on behalf of minority groups in the struggle for civil rights. Signed by Martha Wilson, president of local union no. 319, AFL-CIO.]

- I. "Citation of Appreciation," printed document, signed, 1 p., Aug. 4, 1961. [Printed citation for The Distinguished Laymen's Award, presented by the Connectional Laymen's Organization of the African Methodist Episcopal Church to MLK. Signed by president Herbert L. Dudley, secretary Henry H. Glass, and chair of the awards committee Felix N. White.]

II. Educational Items.

I. Manuscripts.

- A. Cravens, John Park.
1. "The Truth About Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.," photocopy of holograph, 6 p., 1968.
 2. Photocopy of ALS to Arland Christ-Janer, 2 p., Nov. 21, 1968.
 3. Photocopy of TLS to John Park Cravens, 1 p., Dec. 4, 1968.
- B. Farris, Christine King. "Inaugural Martin Luther King, Jr. Leadership Lecture by Mrs. Christine King Farris," TS, 37 p., Apr. 3, 2009. [Speech delivered by Mrs. Christine King Farris on Apr. 3, 2009 as the Inaugural Martin Luther King, Jr. Leadership Lecture, Howard Gotlieb Archival Research Center at Boston University. Mrs. Farris touched on her memoir, THROUGH IT ALL: REFLECTIONS ON MY LIFE, MY FAMILY AND MY FAITH, shared memories of her brother "M.L.", including his use of nonviolence to reduce institutionalized racism, and ended with an appeal to the audience to follow her brother's example and carry on his legacy.]
- C. Hoehler, Harry H., Rev.
1. Photocopy of ALS to Dr. Howard B. Gotlieb from Rebecca McKenna, 2 p., June 28, 1965, with original envelope. [Rebecca McKenna, parish historian for the Unitarian Universalist Church in Weston, Massachusetts, wrote to Dr. Howard B. Gotlieb, Director of Special Collections at Boston University, and enclosed copies of sermons written and preached by Rev. Harry H. Hoehler. The topic of the sermons related to the work of MLK in the South. After preaching the first one, Rev. Hoehler traveled to Selma, Alabama and later visited Montgomery, Alabama in the company of a Baptist preacher and a Roman Catholic priest. McKenna enclosed the sermons for addition to the MLK Archive and constituted one of the first addenda to the collection and one of the first not to originate with Dr. King.]

 3. "Selma - Part II," mimeograph, 7 p., Mar. 21, 1965. [Rev. Harry H. Hoehler delivered this sermon at the First Parish in Weston after returning from a visit to both Selma and Montgomery (Ala.).]
- D. Kane, Brian. "The Influence of Boston Personalism on the Thought of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.," TS photocopy, 83 p., 1985. [Thesis submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Theological Studies.]

Folder 2

- E. Leventhal, Willy Siegel. "I've Been to the Mountaintop: An Oral History on the Times & Legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.," photocopy of holograph-corrected draft (corrections are presumably in author's hand), 188 p. [The manuscript is an incomplete draft consisting of three chapters and excerpts from oral histories and other sources. The author may have utilized some of this or related material in preparing two subsequent volumes of oral history on the Civil Rights Movement: THE CHILDREN COMING ON...: A RETROSPECTIVE OF THE MONTGOMERY BUS BOYCOTT (1998), and THE SCOPE OF FREEDOM: THE LEADERSHIP OF HOSEA WILLIAMS WITH DR. KING'S SUMMER '65 STUDENT VOLUNTEERS (2005). In the manuscript, the author appears to have misidentified one of his subjects: he refers to a Dr. Harold Deats who was on faculty at Boston University when MLK was pursuing his doctoral studies. There was no one by that name, however, Paul K. Deats was on faculty at the time while pursuing his own doctoral studies. Gift of Willy Siegel Leventhal, Mar. 5, 2007.]

II. Correspondence.

- A. Bernstein, Albert, Mrs.
1. Program: "A Crusade for Citizenship," printed document with MLK's holograph address and signature on back cover, 4 p., Feb. 12, 1958. [On the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference held mass meetings in twenty-one cities throughout the southern United States which launched a campaign called "The Crusade for Citizenship." The goal of this movement was to encourage African-Americans to register to vote. MLK participated in this endeavor by delivering an address at the Greater Bethel A.M.E.]

Church in Miami, Fla. After his speech, he encountered Mrs. Albert Bernstein who spoke with him about copies of recorded speeches by Mahatma Gandhi which she volunteered to send to MLK. He wrote his name and address on the verso of her program. She sent the recordings and later wrote to him when she had not received a reply, expressing concern that the recordings had not arrived. [See also her letter to MLK in Correspondence: Alphabetical.]

2. TLS to Mrs. Albert Bernstein, 1 p., Apr. 2, 1958. [Letter acknowledging receipt of recordings of Gandhi's speeches. For both Mrs. Bernstein's letter to MLK and the carbon copy of this response, see Correspondence: Alphabetical.]
- B. King, Coretta Scott. TLS to Boston University Registrar, 1 p., Aug. 1, 1984. [Mrs. King writes to request a copy of her late husband's student records.]
1. "Boston University Graduate School Record for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy for Martin Luther King, Jr.," TS, CTS and holograph on printed form, 2 p. [Document lists MLK's coursework, instructors and grades at Boston University and transferred credits from Harvard University. III. Photographs. [Note: many of the photographs are copies of well-known images that have appeared in print. Photographs are arranged by the date of the event depicted. Unless otherwise noted, all photographs are in black and white and measure 8 x 10".]

- A. Portrait photograph of MLK and CSK on their wedding day; black and white print, June 18, 1953. [The King Center also holds a copy of this photograph.]
- B. Photograph of CSK and MLK outside the Montgomery (Ala.) County Courthouse in 1956 during a trial in which MLK was one of 90 African Americans indicted on boycotting charges involving buses on the Montgomery City Lines; black and white print, Mar. 19, 1956. [Published in the Birmingham World (March 31, 1956), Time (April 2, 1956) and Jet (April 5, 1956).]

Box 139 cont'd.

- C. United Press International (UPI) photograph of MLK presiding over the funeral services for three of the young victims killed in the church bombing in Birmingham (Ala.) on Sep. 15, 1963; black and white print, dated Sep. 18, 1963.
- D. United Press International (UPI) photograph of meeting between Pope Paul VI and American civil rights leaders MLK and Rev. Ralph Abernathy; also in attendance was Archbishop Paul Marcinkus; black and white print, Sep. 19, 1964. [This photograph is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library.]
- E. The photograph is of one of the faux telegrams that circulated among black voters in the weeks before the Nov. 1964 presidential election; the "telegram" advocating a write-in campaign for MLK in an effort to cut into African American voters' support for Lyndon Johnson; black and white print, Oct. 1964. [One week before the November presidential election in 1964, a fake telegram began circulating in various cities encouraging African American to participate in a write-in campaign to elect MLK as president. Somewhere between 1,400,000 and 1,500,000 of these simulated wires were circulated and purportedly sent by the "Committee for Negroes in Government, Louisville, Ky.", a fictional organization. It was later discovered that the hoax was perpetrated by an African American male who allegedly had ties to the Republican Party and was paid around $2500 in cash when ordering the telegrams. Around the same time, another man who hailed from Louisville paid $10,000 in cash to a Chicago-based advertising agency to create a radio commercial advocating the write-in campaign. These radio ads aired in eleven major cities that had significant African-American populations. On Nov. 2, 1964, MLK used the mass media to inform black voters to ignore the handbills, telegrams and radio advertisements. In his statement, MLK called the plot by supporters of Barry Goldwater, of which he was informed by a West Coast radio station, as "an insult to me and to Negroes generally."]
- F. Photograph of MLK, Cleveland Sellers (?), Stokely Carmichael and Floyd B. McKissick leading the James Meredith "March Against Fear" in Mississippi in June 1966; black and white print, June 8, 1966. [This photograph is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Library. On June 5, 1966, James Meredith, who made history as the first African American student at the University of Mississippi, began a solo "March Against Fear" intending to walk some 220 miles across Mississippi in an effort to encourage blacks to register and vote. In Hernando (Miss.), Meredith was shot by a Caucasian racist named Aubrey James Novell. At a meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, MLK learns of Meredith's shooting and with the support of the SCLC decides that the March has to continue. On June 7, MLK traveled to Memphis (Tenn.) and met with members of Congress for Racial Equality (CORE), including director Floyd McKissick. King and McKissick together went to the Mississippi hospital where Meredith was being treated, and joined by Stokely Carmichael, then head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). The three agreed to continue the March under the auspices of their various groups. Now called the Meredith Mississippi Freedom March, the trio resumed walking from the spot where Meredith had been shot. Initially, Carmichael did not want any white marchers to accompany them, but MLK emphasized the need for unity. On June 8, the three held a press conference in which they pointed out that the march would adhere to the principles of nonviolence and would be open to Caucasians. As they made their way across Mississippi, their numbers grew. At one point, MLK had to leave to meet other obligations. The marchers were physically attacked and assaulted in Philadelphia (Miss.) on June 21. By June 24, Meredith had recovered sufficiently from his wound to rejoin the walk and he participated in the final rally which included over 15,000 individuals at the state capitol in Jackson on June 26.]

- G. United Press International photograph of Rev. A.D. King, CSK and MLK at the Atlanta airport press conference just before MLK was to leave for Birmingham (Ala.) to serve a five-day jail sentence stemming from a 1963 conviction for contempt; black and white print, Oct. 30, 1967.
- H. Photograph of gravediggers preparing the vault for MLK's body; black and white print, Apr. 7, 1968.
- I. Photograph of CSK during the march honoring her slain husband and in support of the striking sanitation workers in Memphis (Tenn.), Apr. 8, 1968; black and white print.
- J. Photograph of MLK's coffin at the airport as it was transported by plane from Memphis (Tenn.) to Atlanta (Ga.), Apr. 8, 1968; black and white print.
- K. Photograph of MLK's coffin at the airport as it was transported by plane from Memphis (Tenn.) to Atlanta (Ga.), Apr. 8, 1968; black and white print; measures 7.5 x 10". [Gift, Nov. 21, 1994. This photograph is on display in the King Room, 3rd floor of Mugar Memorial Library.]

[Lithograph of an original gouache portrait of MLK by Ben Shahn that was completed for the cover of the Mar. 19, 1965 issue of Time magazine. According to the Letter from the Publisher in the issue, this marked the third time that MLK appeared on the magazine's cover and was one in a series "devoted to searching inquiries into the many aspects of the civil rights crisis." The portrait was completed by artist Ben Shahn in eight hours and was meant to emphasize King as an orator. Shahn eventually made several lithographs of the portrait and issued them in limited editions. This is one of a limited edition of 300 that was issued in 1965.]

4. "Drum Major Instinct"; compact disc of audio recording of MLK's sermon "Drum Major Instinct" delivered at Ebenezer Baptist Church on Feb. 4, 1968.
5. "I Have a Dream: The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., 1929-1968," long-playing record; 33 1/3 rpm vinyl recording. [There is also an audio cassette tape recording of this album in the collection which was made sometime in the mid-1970's. This was a re-issue of a previous release (first entitled "Freedom March on Washington") by 20th Century Fox Records and distributed by ABC Records. The recording includes King's "I Have a Dream" speech as well as the oratory of A. Phillip Randolph, Dr. Benjamin Mays, John Lewis, Whitney M. Young, Jr., and Roy Wilkins. For this issue, the liner notes were written by Nat Hentoff.]
6. "Room at the Inn," audio cassette tape; speech dated Feb. 11, 1958. [Although the speech is titled "Room at the Inn" for the recording, it was actually a version of MLK's "A Realistic Look at Race Relations". Side one of the audio tape is the speech; side two is an interview King conducted with student reporters from Bennett College's newspaper. In 1958, MLK was scheduled to speak in Greensboro, North Carolina under the auspices of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). After it was announced that King would speak, there were threats and violence and the local chapter of the NAACP began to consider cancelling the speech. When she learned of this, Bennett College president Willa Player stepped in and invited MLK to appear, reportedly saying "This is a liberal arts school where freedom rings. So Martin Luther King, Jr. can speak here." King delivered his speech "A Realistic Look at Race Relations" (retitled for the recording) at Annie Merner Pfeiffer Chapel at Bennett College. While visiting the college, King also met with student reporters from the Bennett Banner and addressed their questions on topics ranging from the integration of Central High School to the after effects of the bus boycott on the African-American citizens of Montgomery, Alabama. Gift of Lawrence Elswit, Office of the General Counsel, Boston University, June 1999.] Includes:

- a. "Words That Echo 41 Years Later," photocopy of newspaper clipping (2 copies), Feb. 27, 1999. [The audio cassette was accompanied by two photocopies of an article that appeared in The Boston Globe by reporter Cindy Loose of The Washington Post about the rediscovery and restoration of the original reel-to-reel magnetic tape at Bennett College.]
7. "The Pursuit of Excellence in the Realm of Human Relations, Address at the Forty-Seventh Biennial Banquet of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations," reel-to-reel magnetic audio tape, ¼" format, 7" reel diameter, Nov. 20, 1963. [There is some disagreement over when MLK actually spoke before the Union of American Hebrew Congregations at the organization's 47th Biennial Banquet. The tape furnished to Boston University was mislabeled as "11-19-1964" when the event was staged in 1963. A printed copy of an edited version of the transcript is dated Nov. 20, 1963.]
